Valuation Approach

To estimate the enterprise value of Pine Labs India, we have evaluated the suitability of the three internationally accepted valuation approaches. We have relied on a combination of DCF Method under Income approach and Guideline Public Companies Method under the Market Approach to value the company.

We considered Guideline Transactions Method under Market Approach for the purpose of our analysis, however, since the comparable transactions are dated, we have utilized this method only for benchmarking purposes.

Further, NAV/Cost approach does not capture the going concern value of the company. Therefore, we have not applied the NAV/Cost approach to value the company.

Income Approach – Discounted Cash Flow Method

A Discounted Cash Flow (“DCF”) Method analysis provides an indication of the value of a business by reference to the present value of the future cash flows which are expected to arise from the business asset’s operations.

We have used a Free Cash Flow to Firm (“FCFF”) method to arrive at the fair value of enterprise owing to the nature of its operations. This method involves discounting of the future forecasted free cash flows to the firm holders using cost of capital to arrive at the firm value. The firm value is further adjusted, with non-operating assets and other liabilities basis the carved-out balance sheet provided by the Management, to arrive at the fair value of equity.

Since cash flow projections can only be prepared for a definite period, the valuation will not capture the cash generating capacity of the business beyond the discrete projected period and also the whole concept of going concern will not be considered. Hence, a terminal value is considered to capture value beyond the projection period through to perpetuity.

The terminal value is estimated taking into consideration the past growth rates of the business, economic life cycle of the business, expected growth rates in future, sustainable capital investments required for the business as well as the estimated growth rate of the industry and economy.

Projected Financial Performance of Pine Labs India

We have relied on the financial projections provided by the Management for our analysis. Management has provided projections for the period 4 months ending FY24 till FY29.

Income Approach – Discounted Cash Flow Method

The following are the key assumptions used in the DCF analysis:

- Revenue

The Management expects the revenues to increase from INR 13,977.1 Mn in FY24 to INR 42,083.9 Mn in FY29 growing at a CAGR of 24.7 percent. We understand that the revenue growth is projected mainly on account of expansion in merchant base or new deployments, increase in transaction volumes/value, processing/issuance of cards, as well as certain new products/initiatives etc.

The following table reflects revenue projections and the annual growth for Pine Labs India as provided by the Management:

- Earnings before Interest, Taxes, Depreciation and Amortization (“EBITDA”)

The Management expects EBITDA margin to increase from 12.4 percent in FY24 to 28.3 percent in FY29. The expansion in EBITDA margin is primarily on account of increase in economies of scale as the Company is currently investing in expansion/ growth.

The following table reflects the expected earnings before interest and taxes (“EBITDA”) based on the projections provided by the Management:

INR Mn	2023A	8M	4M	2025P	2026P	2027P	2028P	2029P

- Debt Free Non-Cash Working Capital

The working capital requirements that were incorporated into the cash flow calculations reflect the debt-free, non-cash; operating working capital necessary to run the business. As per Management, the working capital levels are expected to normalize in future as currently the Company is investing in cashbacks and other schemes which require higher working capital. The projected working capital levels of Pine Labs India are given below:

- Tax Rate

A corporate tax rate of 25.2 percent has been utilized based on the marginal tax rate of India.

- Invested Capital Cash Flow

Earnings Before Interest and Tax ("EBIT") was tax affected to derive the invested capital net income. From this, adjustments for depreciation, capital expenditure and incremental non-cash working capital were made to arrive at the invested capital cash flows for each projected year. The invested capital cash flows were then discounted to present value using a discount rate developed by analyzing the returns investors would require based on guideline public companies as of the Valuation Date. We developed the discount rate for the entity by computing the International Cost of Capital ("ICOC") using guideline public company data. The Discount Rate Development section of this report provides further discussions of the methodology employed to arrive at the discount rate.

- Terminal Value

The terminal value, or value attributed to the Pine Labs India operations beyond the explicit forecast period, was estimated using two-stage growth model ("H-model"). The first stage of the H-model is considered to be a high-growth phase while the second stage represents a constant normalized growth phase till perpetuity. We have made the following specific assumptions for the terminal period:

- For the high growth phase, revenues are expected to grow at a short-term growth rate of 26.6 percent for a period of 5 years.
- For the normalized growth phase, revenues are expected to grow at a long-term growth rate ("LTGR") of 4.5 percent which was assumed taking into consideration the past growth rates of the business, economic life cycle of the business, expected growth rates in future, sustainable capital investments required for the business as well as the estimated growth rate of the industry and economy.
- Sustainable EBITDA margin in the perpetuity period has been considered at 28.5 percent, based on EBITDA margin of FY29.
- As mentioned earlier, tax rate of 25.2 percent has been utilized based on the marginal tax rate of India.
- Capex is assumed to be primarily towards maintenance capex and is equated to depreciation.
- Normalized working capital is considered to be 8.4 percent of revenues similar to the working capital requirements (as percent of revenues) for FY29.

Discount Rate

We have discounted the cash flows using a discount rate of 16.5 percent (see Appendix C). The discount rate has been assessed by applying International Cost of Capital ("ICOC") model considering the guideline public companies in globally. For detailed analysis please refer to the Workpapers.

Market Approach

Market Approach - Guideline Public Companies Method

The Guideline Public Companies Method under Market Approach provides an indication of value by relating the equity or enterprise value of guideline public companies to various measures of their earnings and cash flow, then applying such multiples to the entity being valued.

The Guideline Public Companies Method makes use of market price data of stocks of corporations engaged in the same or a similar line of business as that of the subject company. Stocks of these corporations are actively traded in a public, free, and open market, either on an exchange or over the counter. Although no two companies are exactly alike, the only restriction imposed by the method is that the corporations selected as guideline public companies be engaged in the same or a similar line of business, or are subjected to similar financial and business risks, including the opportunity for growth. Other relevant factors may be considered in selecting and adjusting guidelines for public companies to make comparisons with the subject company.

In assessing the enterprise value of Pine Labs India by the Guideline Public Companies Method, we have analyzed the trading multiples of companies we consider comparable to Pine Labs India. We considered net revenue level to be an appropriate basis for comparison given that the profitability metric of the subject company is not normalized as the company is in expansion/growth stage. In forming our view as to an appropriate net revenue multiple, we have considered LTM multiple and one-year forward multiple to derive the value of the company using the Market Approach – Guideline Public Companies Method. Further, based on our comparative analysis of growth, profitability and size of the subject company viz-a-viz comparable companies, we have selected a range from 55th percentile to 65th percentile for multiples under our analysis.

We computed the LTM and forward net revenue multiples of the comparable companies. We have assigned equal weights to 55th percentile and 65th percentile. The LTM and forward multiples are as given in the table below:

	55 th Percentile	65 th Percentile	Selected Multiple
LTM Multiple	8.9x	10.3x	9.5x
1YForward Multiple	6.9x	7.6x	7.0x

Summary- Guideline Public Companies Method

The concluded multiples have been multiplied with Pine Labs India's LTM and one-year forward net revenue to arrive at the implied enterprise value. The enterprise value of Pine Labs India, as indicated by the Market approach is as follows. A detailed analysis is presented in the exhibits.

Particulars	LTM	31-Dec-24
Adjusted Revenue Metric	13,535.1	16,236.5
EV / Net Revenue Multiple Range (Rounded)	9.5x	7.0x
Concluded Enterprise Value (in INR Mn)	128,583.7	113,655.5
Less: Current and Non-current non-operating liabilities	8,101.4	8,101.4
Add: Current and Non-current non-operating assets	9,300.6	9,300.6
Equity Value (in INR Mn)	129,782.8	114,854.7
Estimated Equity Value (in INR Mn) (Rounded)	129,780.0	114,850.0

Market Approach - Guideline Transactions Method

Transaction Date	Target	Acquirer	EV/ Net Revenue Multiple
2/28/2022	Sezzle Inc.	Zip Co Limited	4.5x
9/17/2019	Total System Services, Inc.	Global Payments Inc.	6.8x
7/31/2019	Worldpay, Inc.	Fidelity National Information Services, Inc.	12.3x
7/29/2019	First Data Corporation	Fiserv, Inc.	5.5x
Low			4.5x
Low Quartile			5.3x
Mean			7.3x
Median			6.2x
Upper Quartile			8.2x
High			12.3x

For reference, the implied EV/LTM net revenue multiple range of 7.2x-8.2x based on concluded enterprise value of Pine Labs India is broadly in-line with the multiples observed for the guideline transactions presented above. As most of these transactions are dated and due to lack of availability of detailed financial information, we have not estimated the EV under this approach.

Cost Approach – Net Asset Value Approach

Cost Approach – Net Asset Value Approach

The Net Asset Value (“NAV”) Approach provides an indication of the fair value of a business by adjusting the asset and liability balances on a company’s balance sheet to their fair value equivalents. The fair value of the equity is then indicated by the fair value of the assets less the fair value of the liabilities to arrive at the net asset value. In applying this approach, the book value of the individual assets and liabilities is often relied upon as an indicator of fair value. The NAV Approach is useful in situations where indications of value from the Income or Market Approaches are below the book value of an entity. In these situations, the NAV Approach can be considered a minimum, or floor, value for an entity.

This approach is less relevant in case of Pine Labs India, since the Fair Value derived using the NAV approach does not capture the following:

- » The going concern value of the company; and
- » The value embedded in the company’s workforce and its knowledge base since these do not get reflected in the company’s balance sheet.

Hence, we have not considered cost approach for the purposes of our analysis.

Section 06

Valuation of Pine Labs Singapore

Valuation Approach

In estimating the value of the business of Pine Labs Singapore, we have evaluated the suitability of the three internationally accepted valuation approaches. We have relied on a combination of DCF Method under Income approach and Guideline Public Companies Method under the Market Approach to value the company.

We considered Guideline Transactions Method under Market Approach for the purpose of our analysis, however, since the comparable transactions are dated, we have utilized this method only for benchmarking purposes.

Further, NAV/Cost approach does not capture the going concern value of the company. Therefore, we have not applied the NAV/Cost approach to value the company.

Income Approach – Discounted Cash Flow Method

A Discounted Cash Flow (“DCF”) Method analysis provides an indication of the value of a business by reference to the present value of the future cash flows which are expected to arise from the business asset’s operations.

We have used a Free Cash Flow to Firm (“FCFF”) method to arrive at the fair value of enterprise owing to the nature of its operations. This method involves discounting of the future forecasted free cash flows to the firm holders using cost of capital to arrive at the firm value. The firm value is further adjusted, with non-operating assets and other liabilities basis the carved-out balance sheet provided by the Management, to arrive at the fair value of equity.

Since cash flow projections can only be prepared for a definite period, the valuation will not capture the cash generating capacity of the business beyond the discrete projected period and also the whole concept of going concern will not be considered. Hence, a terminal value is considered to capture value beyond the projection period through to perpetuity.

The terminal value is estimated taking into consideration the past growth rates of the business, economic life cycle of the business, expected growth rates in future, sustainable capital investments required for the business as well as the estimated growth rate of the industry and economy.

Projected Financial Performance of Pine Labs Singapore

We have relied on the financial projections provided by the Management for our analysis. The Management has provided projections for the period 4 months ending FY24 till FY29.

Income Approach – Discounted Cash Flow Method

The following are the key assumptions used in the DCF analysis:

- Revenue

The Management expects the revenues to increase from INR 17,853.2 Mn in FY24 to INR 61,411.4 Mn in FY29 growing at a CAGR of 28.0 percent. We understand that the revenue growth is projected mainly on account of expansion in merchant base or new deployments, increase in transaction volumes/value, processing/issuance of cards, as well as from new products/initiatives etc.

The following table reflects revenue projections and the annual growth for Pine Labs Singapore as provided by the Management:

		ended 2024A	ending 2024P
Revenue	15,881.1	10,919.6	6,933.6	22,748.7	28,959.5	37,159.5	47,736.1	61,411.4
% Growth	56.1%		12.4%	228.1%	27.3%	28.3%	28.5%	28.6%

- Earnings before Interest, Taxes, Depreciation and Amortization (“EBITDA”)

The Management expects EBITDA margin to increase from 7.3 percent in FY24 to 27.4 percent in FY29. The expansion in EBITDA margin is primarily on account of increase in economies of scale as the Company is currently investing in expansion/ growth.

The following table reflects the expected earnings before interest and taxes (“EBITDA”) based on the projections provided by the Management:

		ended 2024A	ending 2024P
EBITDA	1,988.0	738.3	558.3	2,778.2	4,608.6	7,920.0	11,656.4	16,810.2
Margin	12.5%	6.8%	8.1%	12.2%	15.9%	21.3%	24.4%	27.4%

- Depreciation and Capital Expenditure

INR Mn	2023A	2024P	2025P	2026P	2027P	2028P	2029P
Depreciation	3,052.5	3,242.5	2,398.8	3,477.5	3,964.4	4,545.4	4,681.4
% Revenue	19.2%	18.2%	10.5%	12.0%	10.7%	9.5%	7.6%

Capital Expenditure: The following table shows the capital expenditure provided by the Management.

INR Mn	2023A	2024P	2025P	2026P	2027P	2028P	2029P
Capital Expenditure	6,024.7	2,799.8	1,999.6	2,981.4	3,291.6	3,648.2	3,976.1
% Revenue	37.9%	15.7%	8.8%	10.3%	8.9%	7.6%	6.5%

- Debt Free Non-Cash Working Capital

The working capital requirements that were incorporated into the cash flow calculations reflect the debt-free, non-cash; operating working capital necessary to run the business. As per Management, the working capital levels are expected to normalize in future as currently the Company is investing in cashbacks and other schemes which require higher working capital. The projected working capital levels of Pine Labs Singapore are given below:

INR Mn	2023A	8M ended 2024A	4M ending 2024P	2025P	2026P	2027P	2028P	2029P
Working Capital	4,218.6	11,268.1	10,181.3	10,370.7	10,316.3	9,561.3	8,245.7	7,128.7
% Revenue	26.6%	68.8%	57.0%	45.6%	35.6%	25.7%	17.3%	11.6%

- Tax Rate

A corporate tax rate of 24.7 percent has been utilized based on blended tax rate applicable to Pine Labs Singapore. The blended tax rate is a weighted average tax rate of India and International businesses (which includes Malaysia, UAE, Singapore and Indonesia) weighed on projected revenue share for FY29.

- Invested Capital Cash Flow

Earnings Before Interest and Tax ("EBIT") was tax affected to derive the invested capital net income. From this, adjustments for depreciation, capital expenditure and incremental non-cash working capital were made to arrive at the invested capital cash flows for each projected year. The invested capital cash flows were then discounted to present value using a discount rate developed by analyzing the returns investors would require based on guideline public companies as of the Valuation Date. We developed the discount rate for the entity by computing the International Cost of Capital ("ICOC") using guideline public company data. The Discount Rate Development section of this report provides further discussions of the methodology employed to arrive at the discount rate.

- Terminal Value

The terminal value, or value attributed to the Pine Labs Singapore operations beyond the explicit forecast period, was estimated using two-stage growth model ("H-model"). The first stage of the H-model is considered to be a high-growth phase while the second stage represents a constant normalized growth phase till perpetuity. We have made the following specific assumptions for the terminal period:

- For the high growth phase, revenues are expected to grow at a short-term growth rate of 28.6 percent for a period of 4 years.
- For the normalized growth phase, revenues are expected to grow at a long-term growth rate ("LTGR") of 4.5 percent which was assumed taking into consideration the past growth rates of the business, economic life cycle of the business, expected growth rates in future, sustainable capital investments required for the business as well as the estimated growth rate of the industry and economy.
- Sustainable EBITDA margin in the perpetuity period has been considered at 27.0 percent, based on EBITDA margin of FY29.
- As mentioned earlier, tax rate of 24.7 percent has been utilized which is based on blended tax rate of India and International geographies (which includes Malaysia, UAE, Singapore and Indonesia).
- Capex is assumed to be primarily towards maintenance capex and is equated to depreciation.
- Normalized working capital is considered to be 11.6 percent of revenues similar to the working capital requirements (as percent of revenues) for FY29.

Discount Rate

We have discounted the cash flows using a discount rate of 16.5 percent (see Appendix C). The discount rate has been assessed by applying International Cost of Capital ("ICOC") model considering the guideline public companies in globally. For detailed analysis please refer to the Workpapers.

Market Approach

Market Approach - Guideline Public Companies Method

The Guideline Public Companies Method under Market Approach provides an indication of value by relating the equity or enterprise value of guideline public companies to various measures of their earnings and cash flow, then applying such multiples to the entity being valued.

The Guideline Public Companies Method makes use of market price data of stocks of corporations engaged in the same or a similar line of business as that of the subject company. Stocks of these corporations are actively traded in a public, free, and open market, either on an exchange or over the counter. Although no two companies are exactly alike, the only restriction imposed by the method is that the corporations selected as guideline public companies be engaged in the same or a similar line of business, or are subjected to similar financial and business risks, including the opportunity for growth. Other relevant factors may be considered in selecting and adjusting guidelines for public companies to make comparisons with the subject company.

In assessing the enterprise value of Pine Labs Singapore by the Guideline Public Companies Method, we have analyzed the trading multiples of companies we consider comparable to Pine Labs Singapore. We considered earnings on net revenue level to be an appropriate basis for comparison given that the profitability metric of the subject company is not normalized as the company is in expansion/growth stage of the industry. In forming our view as to an appropriate net revenue multiple, we have considered LTM multiple and one-year forward multiple to derive the value of the company using the Market Approach – Guideline Public Companies Method. Further, based on our comparative analysis of growth, profitability and size of the subject company viz-a-viz comparable companies, we have selected a range from 55th percentile to 65th percentile for multiples under our analysis.

We computed the LTM and forward net revenue multiples of the comparable companies. We have assigned equal weights to 55th percentile and 65th percentile. The LTM and forward multiples are as given in the table below:

	55 th Percentile	65 th Percentile	Selected Multiple
LTM Multiple	8.9x	10.3x	9.5x
1YForward Multiple	6.9x	7.6x	7.0x

Cost Approach – Net Asset Value Approach

The Net Asset Value (“NAV”) Approach provides an indication of the fair value of a business by adjusting the asset and liability balances on a company’s balance sheet to their fair value equivalents. In applying this approach, the book value of the individual assets and liabilities is often relied upon as an indicator of fair value. The NAV Approach is useful in situations where indications of value from the Income or Market Approaches are below the book value of an entity. In these situations, the NAV Approach can be considered a minimum, or floor, value for an entity.

This approach is less relevant in case of Pine Labs Singapore, since the Fair Value derived using the NAV approach does not capture the following:

- » The going concern value of the company; and
- » The value embedded in the company’s workforce and its knowledge base since these do not get reflected in the company’s balance sheet.

Hence, we have not considered cost approach for the purposes of our analysis.

B. Comparable Companies

C. Derivation of Discount Rate

C. Derivation of Discount Rate

When applying the DCF methodology, the cash flows expected to be generated by a business are discounted to their present value equivalent using a rate of return that reflects the relative risk of the investment, as well as the time value of money.

Since we are discounting free cash flows available to all the stakeholders and considering the comparable companies are based in the US, we are using International Cost of Capital (“ICOC”) as the discount rate. ICOC is calculated by multiplying cost of equity and cost of debt with their respective weights in the overall capital structure of Pine Labs India and Pine Labs Singapore and adding both.

International Cost of Capital (ICOC) applicable to Pine Labs India and Pine Labs Singapore

ICOC provides an expected rate of return based on the capital structure, the required return on the equity, and the required yield on the interest-bearing debt. Since value is premised on a current transaction between willing parties, industry specific estimates relative to capital structure, required return on equity, and required yield on interest-bearing debt have been applied. The formula for calculating the weighted average cost of capital is:

Cost of Equity (K_e)

The cost of equity has been estimated using Capital Asset Pricing Model (CAPM). We looked at the financial return data for other similar firms in the industry to arrive at the estimated required return on equity the holder would expect for his investment. The CAPM can be expressed as follows:

$$K_e = \text{RFR} + \beta \times (\text{ERP}) + \text{CSRP}$$

Where:

All factors relevant to the K_e calculation are based on publicly available sources and considered reliable.

$$K_e = R_f + \beta \times (\text{ERP}) + \text{CSRP}$$

Where

K_e	=	Cost of equity
R_f	=	Risk-free rate of return	= 4.7% The yield on the US 20-Year Sovereign Bond Yield as of the Valuation Date was used as a proxy for the risk-free rate.
ERP	=	Market equity risk premium	= 5.5% The ERP is the expected return of the market (R_m) in excess of the risk-free rate (R_f), or, mathematically, $R_m - R_f$. The market equity risk premium is estimated based on consideration of historical realized returns on equity investments over a risk-free rate as represented by long-term government bonds and forward-looking equity risk premium estimates. A 5.5 percent equity risk premium was considered to be reasonable. Source: Kroll Cost of Capital Study
β	=	Beta	= 1.39 Beta is a measure of the risk of a given security relative to that of the overall market. The concluded beta is based on the median of the unlevered beta(s) of the selected guideline companies, which was then re-levered based on the concluded capital structure.

Employing the preceding inputs, the base cost of equity (K_e) in the US was estimated as follows:

Base Cost of Equity

K_e	=	$R_f + \beta (\text{ERP})$
K_e	=	12.3%

We have then adjusted the base cost of equity in the US for Country Risk Premium ("CRP"). Country risk premium is quantified as the spread between the foreign country's government bond yield in U.S. Dollars and the U.S. Treasury Bond yield of the same maturity.

We understand that the Pine Labs Singapore has operations in India, Malaysia, UAE, Indonesia, and Singapore. Therefore, we have considered a weighted average CRP of India and other international countries based on the projected relative revenue share of FY29 in our analysis. While for Pine Labs India, we have considered CRP of India since it has operations in India only.

	Pine Labs Singapore	Pine Labs India
Country Risk Premium	1.7%	1.8%

Accordingly, the cost of equity (K_e) in India was estimated as follows:

Cost of Equity

$$K_e = R_f + \beta (\text{ERP}) + \text{CRP}$$

	Pine Labs Singapore	Pine Labs India
K_e =	12.3% + 1.7%	12.3% + 1.8%
K_e =	14.0%	14.1%

We have used the International Fisher Effect to adjust for differences in inflation between the foreign country and the home country to arrive at a risk adjusted cost of equity.

Cost of Equity

	Pine Labs Singapore	Pine Labs India
K_e =	$\frac{(1 + 14.0\%) * (1 + 4.3\%)}{(1 + 2.2\%)}$	$\frac{(1 + 14.3\%) * (1 + 4.5\%)}{(1 + 2.2\%)}$
K_e =	16.4%	16.7%

The cost of equity for the home country after adjusting for Fisher's effect is then adjusted for Company Specific Risk ("CSRP") to accounts for perceived risk in achieving projections and company-specific factors such as size relative to the selected comparable companies.

The concluded cost of equity after adding the Company Specific Risk is presented below:

Cost of Equity (Established Segment)

	Pine Labs Singapore	Pine Labs India
K_e =	16.4% + 1.0%	16.7% + 0.0%
K_e (Rounded) =	17.0%	17.0%

Cost of Equity (Emerging Segment)

$$K_e = K_e + \text{CSRP}$$

	Pine Labs Singapore	Pine Labs India
K_e =	16.4% + 4.0%	16.7% + 3.5%
K_e (Rounded) =	20.0%	20.0%

Concluded cost of equity (as below) is based on the weighted average cost of equity for Established and Emerging segments of Pine Labs India and Pine Labs Singapore.

Cost of Equity (Pine Labs Singapore)	Revenue Weight	Cost of Equity
Established	80.0%	17.0%
Emerging	20.0%	20.0%
Concluded Cost of Equity		17.6%

Cost of Equity (Pine Labs India)	Revenue Weight	Cost of Equity
Established	90.0%	17.0%
Emerging	10.0%	20.0%
Concluded Cost of Equity		17.3%

Please refer to the workpapers for detailed analysis.

Tax Rate

The tax rate considered for ICOC for Pine Labs Singapore is 24.7 percent, based on the blended tax rate of India and other countries (which includes Malaysia, UAE, Indonesia and Singapore) which is being considered in the normalized cash flow projections.

The tax rate considered for ICOC for Pine Labs India is 25.2 percent, same as marginal tax rate considered in the normalized cash flow projections.

Cost of Debt (K_d)

The cost of debt capital (K_d) is the current average borrowing cost that a market participant would expect to pay to obtain its debt financing assuming the target capital structure. However, because interest expense is tax deductible, the effective cost of debt is the after-tax cost.

Based on the above, pre-tax cost of debt for both Pine Labs Singapore and Pine Labs India was taken at 11.8 percent as of the Valuation Date, based on BBB rated bond yield of India.

(This space has been left blank intentionally)

Accordingly, the after-tax cost of debt was calculated as below:

Cost of Debt
K_d	=	Representative Pretax Interest Rate x (1-t)
Where,
T	=	Tax rate for the company

	Pine Labs Singapore	Pine Labs India
K_d =	11.8%(1 - 24.7%)	11.8%(1 - 25.2%)
K_d =	8.9%	8.8%

Capital Structure

Based on the discussions with the Management we have considered the following as target capital structure for Pine Labs Singapore and Pine Labs India.

Debt/Total Capital	Equity/Total Capital	Capital Structure

Concluded Discount Rate

Based on these inputs, the discount rate for Pine Labs Singapore and Pine Labs India is concluded at 16.5 percent (rounded). Please refer to the workpapers for detailed analysis.

It utilizes short-term growth rate, long-term growth rate and high growth rate period, where short-term growth rate is 28.6 percent and long-term growth rate is based on perpetuity growth rate.
 - We have used weighted average tax rate of India and International (which includes Indonesia, Malaysia, Singapore, UAE) based on projected revenue share.

 - The market equity risk premium is estimated based on consideration of historical realized returns on equity investments over a risk-free rate as represented by 20 year government bond and forward-looking equity risk premium estimates. Data sources reviewed generated a range of equity risk premium indicators. However, a 5.5% equity risk premium for the U.S. was considered to reasonably represent a consensus viewpoint of the market equity risk premium. Source: Kroll

 - (2) We have used the International Cost of Capital Method to adjust the US-based Cost of Equity to arrive at an India based Cost of equity. We have used the Country Yield Spread Model (CRP) model to arrive at the India based cost of equity. The CRP factor represents Country risk premium, determined as the difference between the yield-to-maturity on a foreign country government bond (issued in the home country's currency) and the yield-to-maturity on a home country government bond with a similar maturity. Source: Kroll
 - (3) The international Fisher's effect is an economic hypothesis in international finance which suggests that the difference in the nominal interest rates of different geographies reflects the expected changes in the currency spot exchange rate between those geographies. The adjustment for international Fisher's effect is included to capture the risk associated with difference in changes of two currencies which is captured with help of long term inflation rates of the two countries. Long term inflation rates are sourced from IHS Economics Overview.

- Notes:
- Refer to Workpaper 13B.
 - We have employed H-Growth Model to estimate the terminal value as it assumes a gradual decrease in the growth rate. The formula is $(DD * (1+g_L)) / (r-L)$ + $(DD * H/2 * (g_S - g_L) / (r - g_L))$. It utilizes short-term growth rate, long-term growth rate and high growth rate period, where short-term growth rate is 26.6 percent and long-term growth rate is based on perpetuity growth rate.
 - We have used marginal tax rate for India.
 - Provided by Management. Refer to Workpaper 13A.
 - Incremental Working Capital for discrete period provided by management were checked for reasonableness with that of guideline companies and found appropriate.

- Weighted by market equity risk premium. Source: Kool
- We have used the International Cost of Capital Method to adjust the US-based Cost of Equity to arrive at an India-based Cost of Equity. We have used the Country Yield Spread Model (CYP) model to arrive at the India-based cost of equity. The CYP factor represents Country risk premium, determined as the difference between the yield-to-maturity on a foreign country government bond (issued in the home country's currency) and the yield-to-maturity on a US Treasury government bond with a similar maturity. Source: Kool
- The international Fisher's effect is an economic hypothesis in international finance which suggests that the difference in the nominal interest rates of different geographies reflects the expected changes in the currency/spot exchange rate between those geographies. The adjustment for International Fisher's effect is included to capture the risk associated with differences in changes of two currencies, which is captured with high long term inflation rates of the two countries. Long term inflation rates are sourced from IHS Economics Overview.
- Additional risk has been added based on the company size and fundamentals.
- Based on BBB rated bond yields of India
- Based on the average tax rate of India

5. The rationale of the Scheme is given below :-

a. The Applicant/ Transferee Company is a subsidiary of the Non-Applicant/ Transferor Company, with the Transferor Company holding 99.89% of issued shares in the Applicant/ Transferee Company.

b. The primary purpose of the Scheme is to effect an Amalgamation of the Non-Applicant Company/ Transferor Company into the Applicant Company/ Transferee Company, which would result in the following benefits:

i. The proposed Amalgamation is expected to achieve business synergies and more economies of scale.

ii. The proposed Amalgamation is expected to achieve cost savings from more focused operational efforts, rationalization and standardization of business processes by way of consolidation of the Group.

iii. The proposed Amalgamation will lead to a reduction in overheads including administrative, statutory compliances and will improve efficiency and enable the Group to optimally allocate and utilize resources by avoiding duplication between India and Singapore.

iv. The proposed Amalgamation would enable the Transferee Company to use the combined managerial and operating strength of both, the Transferor Company and the Transferee Company, to build a wider capital and financial base as well as promote and secure overall growth of business.

v. The proposed Amalgamation will result in the shareholders of the Transferor Company directly holding shares in the Transferee Company, which will lead to simplification of the shareholding structure and reduction of shareholding tiers and also demonstrate the direct commitment to, and engagement of, shareholders in India.

vi. The proposed Amalgamation is intended to rationalize the business operations and activities of the Transferor Company and Transferee Company, to utilize the potential for growth, diversification and for optimization of costs and resources.

vii. The proposed Amalgamation would result in consolidation and simplification of the overall group structure, to enable more efficient management, control and operational excellence of its various businesses.

c. In view of the above, it is proposed that the Transferor Company will be amalgamated with the Transferee Company, pursuant to which the Transferor Company will cease to exist as a separate legal entity under the Companies Act, 1967 (Singapore Companies Act) and shall be deemed to be dissolved without winding up for the purposes of the Singapore Companies Act.

12. It is further submitted that the proposed Scheme of Amalgamation does not envisage any buyback of shares. It is deposed by way of affidavit that the Scheme provides for the reduction of share capital. (Annexure A-14 of the Application).

13. It is deposed by way of affidavit that there are no proceedings/ investigations pending against the Applicant/ Transferee Company under Sections 210 to 217, 219 to 220, and 223 to 227 of the Act and/ or under Sections 241 to 251 of the Act and/or Sections 235 to 251 of the Companies Act, 1956. Further, no winding-up petition (including under Section 433 read with Section 434 of the Companies Act, 1956) and/ or insolvency proceedings under the Insolvency and Bankruptcy Code, 2016 have been filed/ instituted and are pending against the Applicant/ Transferee Company (Annexure A-26 of the Application).

14. It is submitted that the present Scheme of Amalgamation is not the scheme of Corporate Debt restructuring as envisaged under Section 230(2)(c) of the Companies Act, 2013.

15. It is submitted that the Reserve Bank of India ("RBI") is the sectoral regulator whose approval is required for sanctioning of the Scheme of Amalgamation. Further, the other statutory authorities identified for the purpose of sending notices are (a) the Central Government through the office of the Regional Director, Northern Region, Ministry of Corporate Affairs, New Delhi; (b) the Registrar of Companies, Delhi and Haryana, New Delhi; and (c) the Income Tax Department (Annexure A-21 of the Application). Further, it is also deposed that as per Section 6 of the Competition Act, 2002, read with Regulation 4 and Paragraph 9 in Schedule I of the Competition Commission of India (Procedure in regard to the Transaction of Business Relating to Combinations) Regulations, 2011 issued by the Competition Commission of India (“CCI”), the conditions required to be satisfied for claiming an exemption for issuance of notice to CCI are as follows:

- i. a merger or amalgamation of two enterprises where one of the enterprises has more 50% shares or voting rights of the other enterprise, and/or

The Applicant/ Transferee Company is thus also taking requisite steps for specific approval from the RBI for the proposed amalgamation since the shareholding/ control of the Applicant/ Transferee Company will be significantly altered due to the proposed amalgamation.

AFFIDAVIT BY THE AUTHORISED SIGNATORY OF APPLICANT

COMMISSION OF INDIA

I, Isha Jaiswal, daughter of Mr. Rajesh Jaiswal, aged about 32 years, resident of E-219, Amar Colony, Lajpat Nagar- IV, Delhi - 110024, authorized signatory of Pine Labs Private Limited, having its registered office at Unit No. 408, 4th Floor, Time Tower, MG Road, DLF QE, Gurugram, Haryana, 122002, presently in New Delhi, do solemnly affirm and state as under:

1. That I am the authorised signatory of the aforesaid Applicant/ Transferee Company and as such am well-versed with the facts and circumstances of the present case and as such competent to file the present affidavit.
2. That the Transferor Company, Pine Labs Limited, is the holding company of the Applicant Company/ Transferee Company. The Applicant/ Transferee Company is a subsidiary of the Non-Applicant/ Transferor Company with the Non-Applicant/ Transferor Company holding 99.89% of issued shares in the Applicant/ Transferee Company.
3. That this Hon'ble Tribunal vide the Order had confirmed the applicability of the intra-group exemption which exempted the Petitioner/ Transferee Company from filing a notice with the Competition Commission of India ("CCI") in terms of Section 6 of the Competition Act, 2002, read with Regulation 4 and Paragraph 9 in Schedule I of the Competition Commission of India (Procedure in regard to the Transaction of Business Relating to Combinations) Regulations, 2011, specifically as the Non-Applicant/ Transferor Company holds 99.89% of the issued shares in the Petitioner/ Transferee Company. Further, the Order notes that as the Scheme is inter se a holding company and its subsidiary, there is no change in control over the Petitioner/ Transferee Company under the Competition Act, 2002 and the regulations thereunder. Accordingly, the Order confirmed that the intra-group exemption was available.

4. That the Central Government, exercising its powers under Section 63(2) of the Competition Act, 2002, notified the Competition (Criteria for Exemption of Combinations) Rules, 2024 (“Exemption Rules 2024”), which have come into force w.e.f. September 10, 2024. Rule 3 of the Exemption Rules 2024 provides for the categories of combinations which fulfill the criteria mentioned in the Schedule shall be exempted from the requirement to comply with sub-sections (2), (2A) and (4) of Section 6 of the Competition Act, 2002. The Paragraph 10 of the Schedule provides for the intra-group exemption in cases of mergers and amalgamations, and exempts “A merger or amalgamation of enterprises within the same group provided that the transaction does not result in change in control”.

5. Thus, since the Scheme envisages an amalgamation within the same group and there is no change in control as per the Competition Act, 2002 and the rules and regulations made thereunder, as such, no notice is required to be issued to the CCI in terms of Section 6 of the Competition Act, 2002.

6. I state that the statements made in paragraphs above are based on the records maintained by the Applicant Company/ Transferee Company which are believed to be true and correct and no part has been concealed therefrom.

I, Isha Jaiswal, the deponent above named do hereby verify that the contents of the above affidavit are true and correct based on records maintained by the company, and nothing material has been concealed, therefrom.

It has been assured by team of Pine Labs Private Limited, the Company, that the Unsecured Creditors were individually served by notice dated 23.08.2024, and by advertisements in the Delhi NCR edition of 'Business Standard' in English and 'Jansatta' in Hindi on 24.08.2024 (as per the Affidavit of Service/ Compliance Affidavit filed with NCLT vide diary no. 00586/6 dated 19.09.2024). The meeting was, thereafter, held on Saturday, 28.09.2024 at 12.00 P.M. through Video Conferencing ("Meeting"). It is also assured that notices were accompanied by statements explaining the effect of the Scheme on the Creditors, Key Managerial Personnel, Promoters and non-promoter members etc. along with the effect of the scheme on amalgamation on any material interests of the Directors of the Company or debenture trustees, if any, as provided under sub-section (3) of Section 230 of the Act. My report to this Hon'ble Tribunal is as follows:

1. In compliance with the Order of this Hon'ble Tribunal, the Meeting was held under my chairmanship, for the purpose of considering, and if thought fit, approving, the composite scheme of amalgamation between Pine Labs Private Limited and Pine Labs Limited (Singapore Entity) and their respective shareholders ("Scheme"), pursuant to the provisions of Sections 230 to 232 and Section 234 of the Companies Act, 2013 ("Act") and other applicable provisions of the Companies (Compromises, Arrangements and Amalgamations) Rules, 2016, as applicable (including any statutory modification(s) or re-enactment thereof, for the time being in force).

The total number of Unsecured Creditors of the Applicant Company as on 31st December 2023 was 1208.
3. At 12:00 P.M., since 17 (seventeen) Unsecured Creditors in number representing 60.55% of the total value of the total debt were present in the meeting, the quorum required as per the Order was present. Therefore, in accordance with the Order, the Unsecured Creditors present were held to constitute the Quorum and the meeting was called "to order". The attendance registered maintained by Kfin Technologies Limited is annexed herewith and marked as Annexure – A.
4. The Scheme was thereafter read out and explained by me at the Meeting, and the question submitted to the Meeting was whether the Unsecured Creditors of the Applicant Company agree to the Scheme, submitted to the Meeting and agreed thereto.
5. Accordingly, the following resolutions were put to vote:

“RESOLVED THAT pursuant to the provisions of Sections 230 – 232 of the Companies Act, 2013, read with Section 234 and any other applicable provisions of the Companies Act, 2013, the rules and/ or regulations made thereunder (including any statutory modification(s) or re-enactment thereof, for the time being in force), including Rule 25A and other applicable rules of the Companies (Compromises, Arrangements and Amalgamations) Rules, 2016 and any other rules, circulars and notifications made under the Companies Act, 2013 as may be applicable, and pursuant to Section 210 read with Section 212 and other applicable provisions, if any, of the Companies Act 1967 of Singapore and the relevant provisions of other applicable laws, the memorandum of association and articles of association of Pine Labs Private Limited, and subject to the approval of the Chandigarh Bench of the National Company Law Tribunal and such other approvals, permissions and

The Transferor Company is a holding company and its subsidiaries are primarily engaged in the business of providing software and /or technology solutions for customers, including but not limited to, technology for digital payments, loyalty programs, business software applications, prepaid instruments and other ancillary services. The Transferee Company (as defined hereinafter) is a subsidiary of the Transferor Company and is engaged in the businesses as described hereinafter.
- II. Pine Labs Private Limited is a private limited company originally incorporated under the Companies Act, 1956 and continuing its existence under the Indian Companies Act (as defined hereinafter), and having its registered office at Unit No. 408, 4th floor, Time Tower, MG Road DLF QE, Gurgaon, Haryana 122002 (the "Transferee Company"). The Transferee Company is primarily engaged in the business of providing software and technology solutions, including but not limited to, technology for digital payments, loyalty programs, prepaid instruments, business software applications and other ancillary services.

RATIONALE AND PURPOSE OF THE SCHEME

- A. The primary purpose of this Scheme (as defined hereinafter) is to effect an Amalgamation (as defined hereinafter) between the Transferor Company and the Transferee Company, as described in further detail below.
- B. The Amalgamation of the Transferor Company into the Transferee Company would have the following benefits:
 - (i) The Amalgamation is expected to achieve business synergies and more economies of scale.

- (ii) The Amalgamation is expected to achieve cost savings from more focused operational efforts, rationalization and standardization of business processes by way of consolidation of the Group (as defined hereinafter).
 - (iii) The Amalgamation will lead to a reduction in overheads including administrative, statutory compliances and will improve efficiency and enable the Group to optimally allocate and utilize resources by avoiding duplication between India and Singapore.
 - (iv) The Amalgamation would enable the Transferee Company to use the combined managerial and operating strength of both, the Transferor Company and the Transferee Company, to build a wider capital and financial base as well as promote and secure overall growth of business.
 - (v) The Amalgamation will result in the shareholders of the Transferor Company directly holding shares in the Transferee Company, which will lead to simplification of the shareholding structure and reduction of shareholding tiers and also demonstrate the direct commitment to, and engagement of, shareholders in India.
 - (vi) The Amalgamation is intended to rationalize the business operations and activities of the Transferor Company and Transferee Company, to utilize the potential for growth, diversification and for optimization of costs and resources.
 - (vii) The Amalgamation would result in consolidation and simplification of the overall group structure, to enable more efficient management, control and operational excellence of its various businesses.
- C. In view of the above, it is proposed that the Transferor Company be amalgamated with the Transferee Company, pursuant to which the Transferor Company will cease to exist as a separate legal entity under the Singapore Companies Act, and shall be deemed to be dissolved without winding up for the purposes of the Singapore Companies Act.
- D. The Amalgamation of the Transferor Company with the Transferee Company pursuant to this Scheme shall take place with effect from the Appointed Date (as defined hereinafter).
- E. The Amalgamation of the Transferor Company with the Transferee Company in accordance with this Scheme will be in compliance with the provisions of Sections 230 to 232 read with Section 234 and other relevant provisions of the Indian Companies Act and Section 2(1B) of the Income-tax Act, 1961, such that:
- (i) all the assets / properties of the Transferor Company, immediately before the Amalgamation, shall become the property of the Transferee Company, by virtue of the Amalgamation;
 - (ii) all the liabilities of the Transferor Company, immediately before the Amalgamation, shall become the liabilities of the Transferee Company, by virtue of the Amalgamation; and
 - (iii) all shareholders holding shares in the Transferor Company as on the Record Date (as defined hereinafter) shall become shareholders of the Transferee Company by virtue of the Amalgamation.
- F. Further, the Transferee Company has significant debit balance in its 'Profit and Loss Account'. With effect from the Appointed Date and upon coming into effect of this Scheme, as an integral part of the Scheme and consequential to the Amalgamation, it is proposed to adjust the debit balance in the 'Profit and Loss Account' as on the Appointed Date against the balance in the 'Capital Reserve Account' (which will arise on account of the Amalgamation in accordance with Clause 32 in Part IV of this Scheme) under the head the 'Reserves and Surplus' in order to accurately and fairly reflect the liabilities of the Transferee Company in its books of accounts. This adjustment will ensure the Transferee Company to reflect its true financial position which would benefit the shareholders as it would yield better results and value. Further, the adjustment to the 'Capital Reserve Account' does not involve any financial outlay and therefore would not affect the ability or liquidity of the Transferee Company to meet its obligations/commitments or have any adverse impact on the creditors of the Transferee Company.

- G. Accordingly, this Scheme provides for the Amalgamation of the Transferor Company with the Transferee Company, reduction of the equity share capital of the Transferee Company to the extent of the Relevant Existing PLI Shares (as defined hereinafter) held by the Transferor Company in the Transferee Company, set-off of the debit balance of the 'Profit and Loss Account' of the Transferee Company against the 'Capital Reserve Account' of the Transferee Company and the consequent reduction of share capital of the Transferee Company to the extent of such adjustment and various other matters consequential to or otherwise integrally connected with the above pursuant to Sections 230 to 232 read with Section 234 and other relevant provisions of the Indian Companies Act, and Section 210 read with Section 212 and other relevant provisions of the Singapore Companies Act, in the manner provided for in this Scheme.
- H. This Scheme has been drawn up to comply with the conditions relating to "amalgamation" as specified under Section 2(1B) of the Income-tax Act, 1961. If any term or provision of the Scheme is found or interpreted to be inconsistent with the said provisions, including resulting from an amendment of law or for any other reason whatsoever, the Scheme may be modified in the manner provided in this Scheme to the extent determined necessary to comply with Section 2(1B) of the Income-tax Act, 1961. Such modification will however not affect other parts of the Scheme.
- I. The Amalgamation of the Transferor Company with the Transferee Company in accordance with this Scheme will be in compliance with the provisions of Section 210 read with Section 212 of the Singapore Companies Act, Sections 230 to 232 read with Section 234 of the Indian Companies Act and other relevant provisions of the Singapore Companies Act and/or the Indian Companies Act. Upon the effectiveness of the Scheme, inter alia:
- (i) the whole of the undertaking and of the property and liabilities of the Transferor Company shall be transferred to and vest in the Transferee Company;
 - (ii) any legal proceedings pending by or against the Transferor Company shall be continued by or against the Transferee Company;
 - (iii) the Scheme Shares (as defined hereinafter) shall be allotted and issued to each of the PLS Shareholders (as defined hereinafter) whose names are recorded in the register of members of the Transferor Company on the Record Date;
 - (iv) the Transferor Company shall be dissolved, without winding up; and
 - (v) the debit balance of the 'Profit and Loss Account' of the Transferee Company shall be set-off against the 'Capital Reserve Account' of the Transferee Company.

- J. The Transferee Company is primarily engaged in the business of providing software and technology solutions, including but not limited to, technology for digital payments, loyalty programs, prepaid instruments, business software applications and other ancillary services.

RATIONALE AND PURPOSE OF THE SCHEME

- A. The primary purpose of this Scheme (as defined hereinafter) is to effect an Amalgamation (as defined hereinafter) between the Transferor Company and the Transferee Company, as described in further detail below.
- B. The Amalgamation of the Transferor Company into the Transferee Company would have the following benefits:
 - (i) The Amalgamation is expected to achieve business synergies and more economies of scale.

- (ii) The Amalgamation is expected to achieve cost savings from more focused operational efforts, rationalization and standardization of business processes by way of consolidation of the Group (as defined hereinafter).
 - (iii) The Amalgamation will lead to a reduction in overheads including administrative, statutory compliances and will improve efficiency and enable the Group to optimally allocate and utilize resources by avoiding duplication between India and Singapore.
 - (iv) The Amalgamation would enable the Transferee Company to use the combined managerial and operating strength of both, the Transferor Company and the Transferee Company, to build a wider capital and financial base as well as promote and secure overall growth of business.
 - (v) The Amalgamation will result in the shareholders of the Transferor Company directly holding shares in the Transferee Company, which will lead to simplification of the shareholding structure and reduction of shareholding tiers and also demonstrate the direct commitment to, and engagement of, shareholders in India.
 - (vi) The Amalgamation is intended to rationalize the business operations and activities of the Transferor Company and Transferee Company, to utilize the potential for growth, diversification and for optimization of costs and resources.
 - (vii) The Amalgamation would result in consolidation and simplification of the overall group structure, to enable more efficient management, control and operational excellence of its various businesses.
- C. In view of the above, it is proposed that the Transferor Company be amalgamated with the Transferee Company, pursuant to which the Transferor Company will cease to exist as a separate legal entity under the Singapore Companies Act, and shall be deemed to be dissolved without winding up for the purposes of the Singapore Companies Act.
- D. The Amalgamation of the Transferor Company with the Transferee Company pursuant to this Scheme shall take place with effect from the Appointed Date (as defined hereinafter).
- E. The Amalgamation of the Transferor Company with the Transferee Company in accordance with this Scheme will be in compliance with the provisions of Sections 230 to 232 read with Section 234 and other relevant provisions of the Indian Companies Act and Section 2(1B) of the Income-tax Act, 1961, such that:
- (i) all the assets / properties of the Transferor Company, immediately before the Amalgamation, shall become the property of the Transferee Company, by virtue of the Amalgamation;
 - (ii) all the liabilities of the Transferor Company, immediately before the Amalgamation, shall become the liabilities of the Transferee Company, by virtue of the Amalgamation; and
 - (iii) all shareholders holding shares in the Transferor Company as on the Record Date (as defined hereinafter) shall become shareholders of the Transferee Company by virtue of the Amalgamation.
- F. Further, the Transferee Company has significant debit balance in its 'Profit and Loss Account'. With effect from the Appointed Date and upon coming into effect of this

This adjustment will ensure the Transferee Company to reflect its true financial position which would benefit the shareholders as it would yield better results and value. Further, the adjustment to the 'Capital Reserve Account' does not involve any financial outlay and therefore would not affect the ability or liquidity of the Transferee Company to meet its obligations/ commitments or have any adverse impact on the creditors of the Transferee Company.

- G. Accordingly, this Scheme provides for the Amalgamation of the Transferor Company with the Transferee Company, reduction of the equity share capital of the Transferee Company to the extent of the Relevant Existing PLI Shares (as defined hereinafter) held by the Transferor Company in the Transferee Company, set-off of the debit balance of the 'Profit and Loss Account' of the Transferee Company against the 'Capital Reserve Account' of the Transferee Company and the consequent reduction of share capital of the Transferee Company to the extent of such adjustment and various other matters consequential to or otherwise integrally connected with the above pursuant to Sections 230 to 232 read with Section 234 and other relevant provisions of the Indian Companies Act, and Section 210 read with Section 212 and other relevant provisions of the Singapore Companies Act, in the manner provided for in this Scheme.
- H. This Scheme has been drawn up to comply with the conditions relating to "amalgamation" as specified under Section 2(1B) of the Income-tax Act, 1961. If any term or provision of the Scheme is found or interpreted to be inconsistent with the said provisions, including resulting from an amendment of law or for any other reason whatsoever, the Scheme may be modified in the manner provided in this Scheme to the extent determined necessary to comply with Section 2(1B) of the Income-tax Act, 1961. Such modification will however not affect other parts of the Scheme.

 - (b) shall not affect the value held by the PLI Shareholders as such adjustment will only be a book entry in the balance sheet of the Transferee Company;
 - (c) shall not change or impact the book value of the PLI Shares, the Transferee Company's net worth, equity capital structure and shareholding pattern;
 - (d) shall not have any adverse impact on the creditors of the Transferee Company; and Further, the reduction of the share capital of the Transferee Company as aforesaid will not involve any diminution of liability in respect of the unpaid share capital.

- 33.7 The Transferee Company shall not be required to add the words "And Reduced" as a suffix to its name consequent upon such adjustment of the debit balance of the 'Profit and Loss Account' of the Transferee Company against the 'Capital Reserve Account' of the Transferee Company, and the consequent reduction of share capital of the Transferee Company to the extent of such adjustment.

- 34.2 Pursuant to this Scheme, the Transferee Company shall file the requisite forms with the Registrar of Companies for alteration of its authorized share capital.

D&P India Advisory Services LLP ("D&P" or "we" or the "Registered Valuer") has been engaged by Pine Labs Singapore and Pine Labs India (collectively "Client" or "You" or "the Conies") to provide an estimate of the relative values of equity and preference shares in order to recommend a fair share exchange / entitlement ratio ("Swap Ratio") as on November 30, 2023 ("Valuation Date"). We understand that the results of our analysis will be used for the above-mentioned purpose.

The information contained herein, and our report is confidential. It is intended only for the sole use and information of the Companies, and only in connection with the proposed Scheme of Arrangement / Amalgamation ("Scheme") for the purpose of obtaining requisite approvals. Valuation Conclusion

Based on the information and analysis summarized in this report, the estimated value of equity shares, on a fully diluted basis, of Pine Labs India is as follows:

Pine Labs India	Weight	Low (in INR Mn)	High (in INR Mn)
Income Approach: Discounted Cash Flow Method	25.0%	49,944.0	58,523.0
Market Approach: Guideline Public Companies Method	75.0%	114,850.0	129,780.0
Concluded Equity Value		98,623.5	111,965.8
Concluded Equity Value (Mid-Point)		105,294.6
Number of equity shares outstanding		839,950,356
Equity Value per share (INR)		125.4

Please refer to the exhibits for more details.

Based on the information and analysis summarized in this report, our estimated value of equity / ordinary and compulsory convertible preference shares ("CCPS" or "Preference Shares") of Pine Labs Singapore, on a fully diluted basis¹ is as follows:

Pine Labs Singapore	Weight	Low (in INR Mn)	High (in INR Mn)
Income Approach: Discounted Cash Flow Method	25.0%	69,979.0	81,505.0
Market Approach: Guideline Public Companies Method	75.0%	154,870.0	162,440.0
Total Value of Ordinary and Preference Shares		133,647.3	142,191.3

¹ Based on information and opinion shared by the Management, any and all rights of the investors in Pine Labs Limited and Lokvir Kapoor (promotor), under the shareholders agreement, shall be mutatis mutandis also be available in the Pine Labs Limited's subsidiaries. Based on this, we understand that the investors holding CCPS in Pine Labs Limited shall also have rights such as liquidation preference in Pine Labs Private Limited (being a subsidiary of Pine Labs Limited). Thus, we considered applying option pricing method for estimating the relative values of shares, however, due to limitations around practical application of option pricing method on Pine Labs Private Limited (pre-merger), we have estimated the relative values in order to recommend Swap Ratio on an as if converted basis or fully diluted basis.

² Includes 2,723,417 common equity shares (including allocated and unallocated options and shares) and 5,927,500 preference shares.

³ As the analysis is performed on an as if converted basis or fully diluted basis, the estimated value per share of INR 15,942.7 is same for ordinary shares and all preference shares. For reference, we have also performed the analysis of Pine Labs Limited (pre-merger) and Pine Labs Private Limited (post-merger) using option pricing method. Whilst the implied value per share of ordinary shares and preference shares vary due to differential rights including liquidation preference, the share exchange ratio would remain the same as all the shareholders (holding ordinary or preference shares prior to the merger) of Pine Labs Limited shall be issued same class of share with same preferential rights in Pine Labs Private Limited.

Approaches to Value

In developing our estimates, we considered various approaches to value Pine Labs India and Pine Labs Singapore and chose the most appropriate approach or approaches. Our conclusions rely on the approaches judged to be most appropriate for the purpose and scope of our analysis, as well as the nature and reliability of the data available to us.

Approach to Value

For equity valuation of the Companies, we have evaluated the three approaches to value as summarized below:

Income approach – The Income Approach is a valuation technique that provides an estimation of the value of an asset, or a business based on the cash flows that an asset or business can be expected to generate over its remaining useful life. The Income Approach begins with an estimation of the annual cash flows a hypothetical buyer would expect the subject asset or business to generate over a discrete projection period. The estimated cash flows for each of the years in the discrete projection period are then converted to their present value equivalent using a rate of return appropriate for the risk of achieving the projected cash flows. The present value of the estimated cash flows is then added to the present value equivalent of the residual value of the asset (if any) or the business at the end of the discrete projection period to arrive at an estimate of value.

Market approach – The market approach is a technique used to estimate value from an analysis of actual transactions or offerings for economically comparable assets/businesses available as of the valuation date. The process is essentially that of comparison and correlation between the subject business and similar businesses that have been recently sold or is offered for sale in the market. The transaction or offering prices of the comparable assets/businesses are adjusted for dissimilarities in characteristics including location, operating history, size, and utility, among others. The adjusted prices of the comparable assets/ businesses provide an indication of value for the subject asset/ business.

Cost approach – The cost approach is a technique that uses the reproduction or replacement cost as an initial basis for value. The cost to reproduce or replace the subject businesses with a new asset, either identical (reproduction) or having the same utility (replacement), establishes the highest amount a prudent investor is likely to pay. To the extent that the asset being valued provides less utility than a new one, due to physical deterioration, functional obsolescence, and/ or economic obsolescence, the value of the subject businesses is adjusted for those reductions in value. Obviously, this approach is more suited for valuation of individual assets than to businesses, especially operating businesses.

The valuation exercise may be carried out using the above generally accepted methodologies, the relative emphasis of each often varying with the factors such as:

- Specific nature of the business;
- Industry to which the entity belongs;
- Economic life cycle in which the industry or the company is operating;
- Extent to which industry and comparable company information is available;
- and
- Past track record of the business and estimates of future profits.

In estimating the enterprise value of the Companies, we have evaluated the suitability of the three approaches to value, as described above and considering the Companies' specific factors and the purpose of the valuation, we have utilized a combination of valuation approaches as described below:

- Gross margins stood at 66.6 percent in FY22 (INR 6,224.4 Mn) and 69.5 percent in FY23 (INR 8,909.1 Mn). Total operating expenses increased from 46.2 percent of revenue in FY22 (INR 4,318.4 Mn) to 49.7 percent of revenue in FY23 (INR 6,376.8 Mn). This is primarily on account of increase in goodwill from INR 5,077.1 Mn as of March 31, 2022, to INR 11,910.6 Mn as of March 31, 2023, increase in property, plant and equipment which increased from INR 5,205.6 Mn as of March 31, 2022, to INR 7,056.3 Mn as of March 31, 2023, increase in intangible assets from INR 2,322.9 Mn as of March 31, 2022, to INR 3,788.0 Mn as of March 31, 2023 and increase in non-current tax assets from INR 1,114.7 Mn as of March 31, 2022 to INR 1,957.8 Mn as of March 31, 2023. Non-current assets then decreased to INR 26,991.4 Mn as of November 30, 2023, primarily due to decrease in property, plant and equipment to INR 6,183.0 Mn as of November 30, 2023, decrease in intangible assets to INR 3,331.0 Mn as of November 30, 2023. This was partially offset by an increase in non-current tax assets to INR 2,438.1 Mn as of November 30, 2023, and increase in deferred tax assets (net) from INR 1,104.1 Mn as of March 31, 2023, to INR 1,415.8 Mn as of November 30, 2023.

- Shareholders' funds increased from INR 37,262.8 Mn as of March 31, 2022, to INR 37,371.3 Mn as of March 31, 2023, primarily due to increase in share capital from INR 80,046.3 Mn as of March 31, 2022, to INR 81,427.3 Mn as of March 31, 2023 and increase in other reserves from INR 69.1 Mn as of March 31, 2022 to INR 1,540.6 Mn as of March 31, 2023. increase in borrowings to INR 6,009.9 Mn as of November 30, 2023, increase in trade payables to INR 11,985.8 Mn as of November 30, 2023 and increase in contract liabilities to INR 39,749.3 Mn as of November 30, 2023.

Valuation of Pine Labs India

Valuation Approach

To estimate the enterprise value of Pine Labs India, we have evaluated the suitability of the three internationally accepted valuation approaches. We have relied on a combination of DCF Method under Income approach and Guideline Public Companies Method under the Market Approach to value the company.

We considered Guideline Transactions Method under Market Approach for the purpose of our analysis, however, since the comparable transactions are dated, we have utilized this method only for benchmarking purposes.

Further, NAV/Cost approach does not capture the going concern value of the company. Therefore, we have not applied the NAV/Cost approach to value the company.

Income Approach – Discounted Cash Flow Method

A Discounted Cash Flow (“DCF”) Method analysis provides an indication of the value of a business by reference to the present value of the future cash flows which are expected to arise from the business asset’s operations.

We have used a Free Cash Flow to Firm (“FCFF”) method to arrive at the fair value of enterprise owing to the nature of its operations. This method involves discounting of the future forecasted free cash flows to the firm holders using cost of capital to arrive at the firm value. The firm value is further adjusted, with non-operating assets and other liabilities basis the carved-out balance sheet provided by the Management, to arrive at the fair value of equity.

Since cash flow projections can only be prepared for a definite period, the valuation will not capture the cash generating capacity of the business beyond the discrete projected period and also the whole concept of going concern will not be considered. Hence, a terminal value is considered to capture value beyond the projection period through to perpetuity.

The terminal value is estimated taking into consideration the past growth rates of the business, economic life cycle of the business, expected growth rates in future, sustainable capital investments required for the business as well as the estimated growth rate of the industry and economy.

Projected Financial Performance of Pine Labs India

We have relied on the financial projections provided by the Management for our analysis. Management has provided projections for the period 4 months ending FY24 till FY29.

Income Approach – Discounted Cash Flow Method

The following are the key assumptions used in the DCF analysis:

- Revenue

The Management expects the revenues to increase from INR 13,977.1 Mn in FY24 to INR 42,083.9 Mn in FY29 growing at a CAGR of 24.7 percent. We understand that the revenue growth is projected mainly on account of expansion in merchant base or new deployments, increase in transaction volumes/value, processing/issuance of cards, as well as certain new products/initiatives etc.

The following table reflects revenue projections and the annual growth for Pine Labs India as provided by the Management:

INR Mn	2023A	8M	4M	2025P	2026P	2027P	2028P	2029P

- Earnings before Interest, Taxes, Depreciation and Amortization (“EBITDA”)

The Management expects EBITDA margin to increase from 12.4 percent in FY24 to 28.3 percent in FY29. The expansion in EBITDA margin is primarily on account of increase in economies of scale as the Company is currently investing in expansion/ growth.

The following table reflects the expected earnings before interest and taxes (“EBITDA”) based on the projections provided by the Management:

- Debt Free Non-Cash Working Capital

The working capital requirements that were incorporated into the cash flow calculations reflect the debt-free, non-cash; operating working capital necessary to run the business. As per Management, the working capital levels are expected to normalize in future as currently the Company is investing in cashbacks and other schemes which require higher working capital. The projected working capital levels of Pine Labs India are given below:

Working Capital	1,657.9	6,594.0	5,952.9	4,863.5	3,666.3	3,095.0	2,940.8	3,667.8
% Revenue	12.9%	51.7%	42.6%	28.6%	17.4%	11.8%	8.8%	8.7%

- Tax Rate

A corporate tax rate of 25.2 percent has been utilized based on the marginal tax rate of India.

- Invested Capital Cash Flow

Earnings Before Interest and Tax ("EBIT") was tax affected to derive the invested capital net income. From this, adjustments for depreciation, capital expenditure and incremental non-cash working capital were made to arrive at the invested capital cash flows for each projected year. The invested capital cash flows were then discounted to present value using a discount rate developed by analyzing the returns investors would require based on guideline public companies as of the Valuation Date. We developed the discount rate for the entity by computing the International Cost of Capital ("ICOC") using guideline public company data. The Discount Rate Development section of this report provides further discussions of the methodology employed to arrive at the discount rate.

- Terminal Value

The terminal value, or value attributed to the Pine Labs India operations beyond the explicit forecast period, was estimated using two-stage growth model ("H-model"). The first stage of the H-model is considered to be a high-growth phase while the second stage represents a constant normalized growth phase till perpetuity. We have made the following specific assumptions for the terminal period:

- For the high growth phase, revenues are expected to grow at a short-term growth rate of 26.6 percent for a period of 5 years.
- For the normalized growth phase, revenues are expected to grow at a long-term growth rate ("LTGR") of 4.5 percent which was assumed taking into consideration the past growth rates of the business, economic life cycle of the business, expected growth rates in future, sustainable capital investments required for the business as well as the estimated growth rate of the industry and economy.
- Sustainable EBITDA margin in the perpetuity period has been considered at 28.5 percent, based on EBITDA margin of FY29.
- As mentioned earlier, tax rate of 25.2 percent has been utilized based on the marginal tax rate of India.
- Capex is assumed to be primarily towards maintenance capex and is equated to depreciation.
- Normalized working capital is considered to be 8.4 percent of revenues similar to the working capital requirements (as percent of revenues) for FY29.

Discount Rate

We have discounted the cash flows using a discount rate of 16.5 percent (see Appendix C). The discount rate has been assessed by applying International Cost of Capital ("ICOC") model considering the guideline public companies in globally. For detailed analysis please refer to the Workpapers.

Market Approach

Market Approach - Guideline Public Companies Method

The Guideline Public Companies Method under Market Approach provides an indication of value by relating the equity or enterprise value of guideline public companies to various measures of their earnings and cash flow, then applying such multiples to the entity being valued.

The Guideline Public Companies Method makes use of market price data of stocks of corporations engaged in the same or a similar line of business as that of the subject company. Stocks of these corporations are actively traded in a public, free, and open market, either on an exchange or over the counter. Although no two companies are exactly alike, the only restriction imposed by the method is that the corporations selected as guideline public companies be engaged in the same or a similar line of business, or are subjected to similar financial and business risks, including the opportunity for growth. Other relevant factors may be considered in selecting and adjusting guidelines for public companies to make comparisons with the subject company.

In assessing the enterprise value of Pine Labs India by the Guideline Public Companies Method, we have analyzed the trading multiples of companies we consider comparable to Pine Labs India. We considered net revenue level to be an appropriate basis for comparison given that the profitability metric of the subject company is not normalized as the company is in expansion/growth stage. In forming our view as to an appropriate net revenue multiple, we have considered LTM multiple and one-year forward multiple to derive the value of the company using the Market Approach – Guideline Public Companies Method. Further, based on our comparative analysis of growth, profitability and size of the subject company viz-a-viz comparable companies, we have selected a range from 55th percentile to 65th percentile for multiples under our analysis.

We computed the LTM and forward net revenue multiples of the comparable companies. We have assigned equal weights to 55th percentile and 65th percentile. The LTM and forward multiples are as given in the table below:

	55 th Percentile	65 th Percentile	Selected Multiple
LTM Multiple	8.9x	10.3x	9.5x
1YForward Multiple	6.9x	7.6x	7.0x

Summary- Guideline Public Companies Method

The concluded multiples have been multiplied with Pine Labs India's LTM and one-year forward net revenue to arrive at the implied enterprise value. The enterprise value of Pine Labs India, as indicated by the Market approach is as follows. A detailed analysis is presented in the exhibits.

Particulars	LTM	31-Dec-24
Adjusted Revenue Metric	13,535.1	16,236.5
EV / Net Revenue Multiple Range (Rounded)	9.5x	7.0x
Concluded Enterprise Value (in INR Mn)	128,583.7	113,655.5
Less: Current and Non-current non-operating liabilities	8,101.4	8,101.4
Add: Current and Non-current non-operating assets	9,300.6	9,300.6

Estimated Equity Value (in INR Mn) (Rounded)	129,780.0	114,850.0

Market Approach - Guideline Transactions Method

Transaction Date	Target	Acquirer	EV/ Net Revenue Multiple
2/28/2022	Sezzle Inc.	Zip Co Limited	4.5x
9/17/2019	Total System Services, Inc.	Global Payments Inc.	6.8x
7/31/2019	Worldpay, Inc.	Fidelity National Information Services, Inc.	12.3x
7/29/2019	First Data Corporation	Fiserv, Inc.	5.5x
Low			4.5x
Low Quartile			5.3x
Mean			7.3x
Median			6.2x
Upper Quartile			8.2x
High			12.3x

For reference, the implied EV/LTM net revenue multiple range of 7.2x-8.2x based on concluded enterprise value of Pine Labs India is broadly in-line with the multiples observed for the guideline transactions presented above. As most of these transactions are dated and due to lack of availability of detailed financial information, we have not estimated the EV under this approach.

Cost Approach – Net Asset Value Approach

Cost Approach – Net Asset Value Approach

The Net Asset Value (“NAV”) Approach provides an indication of the fair value of a business by adjusting the asset and liability balances on a company’s balance sheet to their fair value equivalents. The fair value of the equity is then indicated by the fair value of the assets less the fair value of the liabilities to arrive at the net asset value. In applying this approach, the book value of the individual assets and liabilities is often relied upon as an indicator of fair value. The NAV Approach is useful in situations where indications of value from the Income or Market Approaches are below the book value of an entity. In these situations, the NAV Approach can be considered a minimum, or floor, value for an entity.

This approach is less relevant in case of Pine Labs India, since the Fair Value derived using the NAV approach does not capture the following:

- » The going concern value of the company; and
- » The value embedded in the company’s workforce and its knowledge base since these do not get reflected in the company’s balance sheet.

Hence, we have not considered cost approach for the purposes of our analysis.

Section 06

Valuation of Pine Labs Singapore

Valuation Approach

In estimating the value of the business of Pine Labs Singapore, we have evaluated the suitability of the three internationally accepted valuation approaches. We have relied on a combination of DCF Method under Income approach and Guideline Public Companies Method under the Market Approach to value the company.

We considered Guideline Transactions Method under Market Approach for the purpose of our analysis, however, since the comparable transactions are dated, we have utilized this method only for benchmarking purposes.

Further, NAV/Cost approach does not capture the going concern value of the company. Therefore, we have not applied the NAV/Cost approach to value the company.

Income Approach – Discounted Cash Flow Method

A Discounted Cash Flow (“DCF”) Method analysis provides an indication of the value of a business by reference to the present value of the future cash flows which are expected to arise from the business asset’s operations.

We have used a Free Cash Flow to Firm (“FCFF”) method to arrive at the fair value of enterprise owing to the nature of its operations. This method involves discounting of the future forecasted free cash flows to the firm holders using cost of capital to arrive at the firm value. The firm value is further adjusted, with non-operating assets and other liabilities basis the carved-out balance sheet provided by the Management, to arrive at the fair value of equity.

Since cash flow projections can only be prepared for a definite period, the valuation will not capture the cash generating capacity of the business beyond the discrete projected period and also the whole concept of going concern will not be considered. Hence, a terminal value is considered to capture value beyond the projection period through to perpetuity.

The terminal value is estimated taking into consideration the past growth rates of the business, economic life cycle of the business, expected growth rates in future, sustainable capital investments required for the business as well as the estimated growth rate of the industry and economy.

Projected Financial Performance of Pine Labs Singapore

We have relied on the financial projections provided by the Management for our analysis. The Management has provided projections for the period 4 months ending FY24 till FY29.

Income Approach – Discounted Cash Flow Method

The following are the key assumptions used in the DCF analysis:

- Revenue

The Management expects the revenues to increase from INR 17,853.2 Mn in FY24 to INR 61,411.4 Mn in FY29 growing at a CAGR of 28.0 percent. We understand that the revenue growth is projected mainly on account of expansion in merchant base or new deployments, increase in transaction volumes/value, processing/issuance of cards, as well as from new products/initiatives etc.

The following table reflects revenue projections and the annual growth for Pine Labs Singapore as provided by the Management:

% Growth	56.1%		12.4%	228.1%	27.3%	28.3%	28.5%	28.6%

- Earnings before Interest, Taxes, Depreciation and Amortization (“EBITDA”)

The Management expects EBITDA margin to increase from 7.3 percent in FY24 to 27.4 percent in FY29. The expansion in EBITDA margin is primarily on account of increase in economies of scale as the Company is currently investing in expansion/ growth.

The following table reflects the expected earnings before interest and taxes (“EBITDA”) based on the projections provided by the Management:

INR Mn	2023A	8M	4M	2025P	2026P	2027P	2028P	2029P

- Debt Free Non-Cash Working Capital

The working capital requirements that were incorporated into the cash flow calculations reflect the debt-free, non-cash; operating working capital necessary to run the business. As per Management, the working capital levels are expected to normalize in future as currently the Company is investing in cashbacks and other schemes which require higher working capital. The projected working capital levels of Pine Labs Singapore are given below:

- Tax Rate

A corporate tax rate of 24.7 percent has been utilized based on blended tax rate applicable to Pine Labs Singapore. The blended tax rate is a weighted average tax rate of India and International businesses (which includes Malaysia, UAE, Singapore and Indonesia) weighed on projected revenue share for FY29.

- Invested Capital Cash Flow

Earnings Before Interest and Tax ("EBIT") was tax affected to derive the invested capital net income. From this, adjustments for depreciation, capital expenditure and incremental non-cash working capital were made to arrive at the invested capital cash flows for each projected year. The invested capital cash flows were then discounted to present value using a discount rate developed by analyzing the returns investors would require based on guideline public companies as of the Valuation Date. We developed the discount rate for the entity by computing the International Cost of Capital ("ICOC") using guideline public company data. The Discount Rate Development section of this report provides further discussions of the methodology employed to arrive at the discount rate.

- Terminal Value

The terminal value, or value attributed to the Pine Labs Singapore operations beyond the explicit forecast period, was estimated using two-stage growth model ("H-model"). The first stage of the H-model is considered to be a high-growth phase while the second stage represents a constant normalized growth phase till perpetuity. We have made the following specific assumptions for the terminal period:

- For the high growth phase, revenues are expected to grow at a short-term growth rate of 28.6 percent for a period of 4 years.
- For the normalized growth phase, revenues are expected to grow at a long-term growth rate ("LTGR") of 4.5 percent which was assumed taking into consideration the past growth rates of the business, economic life cycle of the business, expected growth rates in future, sustainable capital investments required for the business as well as the estimated growth rate of the industry and economy.
- Sustainable EBITDA margin in the perpetuity period has been considered at 27.0 percent, based on EBITDA margin of FY29.
- As mentioned earlier, tax rate of 24.7 percent has been utilized which is based on blended tax rate of India and International geographies (which includes Malaysia, UAE, Singapore and Indonesia).
- Capex is assumed to be primarily towards maintenance capex and is equated to depreciation.
- Normalized working capital is considered to be 11.6 percent of revenues similar to the working capital requirements (as percent of revenues) for FY29.

Discount Rate

We have discounted the cash flows using a discount rate of 16.5 percent (see Appendix C). The discount rate has been assessed by applying International Cost of Capital ("ICOC") model considering the guideline public companies in globally. For detailed analysis please refer to the Workpapers.

Market Approach

Market Approach - Guideline Public Companies Method

The Guideline Public Companies Method under Market Approach provides an indication of value by relating the equity or enterprise value of guideline public companies to various measures of their earnings and cash flow, then applying such multiples to the entity being valued.

The Guideline Public Companies Method makes use of market price data of stocks of corporations engaged in the same or a similar line of business as that of the subject company. Stocks of these corporations are actively traded in a public, free, and open market, either on an exchange or over the counter. Although no two companies are exactly alike, the only restriction imposed by the method is that the corporations selected as guideline public companies be engaged in the same or a similar line of business, or are subjected to similar financial and business risks, including the opportunity for growth. Other relevant factors may be considered in selecting and adjusting guidelines for public companies to make comparisons with the subject company.

In assessing the enterprise value of Pine Labs Singapore by the Guideline Public Companies Method, we have analyzed the trading multiples of companies we consider comparable to Pine Labs Singapore. We considered earnings on net revenue level to be an appropriate basis for comparison given that the profitability metric of the subject company is not normalized as the company is in expansion/growth stage of the industry. In forming our view as to an appropriate net revenue multiple, we have considered LTM multiple and one-year forward multiple to derive the value of the company using the Market Approach – Guideline Public Companies Method. Further, based on our comparative analysis of growth, profitability and size of the subject company viz-a-viz comparable companies, we have selected a range from 55th percentile to 65th percentile for multiples under our analysis.

We computed the LTM and forward net revenue multiples of the comparable companies. We have assigned equal weights to 55th percentile and 65th percentile. The LTM and forward multiples are as given in the table below:

This approach is less relevant in case of Pine Labs Singapore, since the Fair Value derived using the NAV approach does not capture the following:

Hence, we have not considered cost approach for the purposes of our analysis.

B. Comparable Companies

B. Comparable Company Analysis

We have considered publicly traded companies which are broadly in the same industry as Pine Labs India and Pine Labs Singapore for estimating beta and multiples. Following is the approach considered to identify the guideline listed companies as the comparable set.

Guideline Public Companies - Screening Methodology

- We looked for companies operating in the relevant sector with similar product lines operating in various geographies due to very limited number of comparable companies in India and Singapore.

C. Derivation of Discount Rate

C. Derivation of Discount Rate

When applying the DCF methodology, the cash flows expected to be generated by a business are discounted to their present value equivalent using a rate of return that reflects the relative risk of the investment, as well as the time value of money.

Since we are discounting free cash flows available to all the stakeholders and considering the comparable companies are based in the US, we are using International Cost of Capital (“ICOC”) as the discount rate. ICOC is calculated by multiplying cost of equity and cost of debt with their respective weights in the overall capital structure of Pine Labs India and Pine Labs Singapore and adding both.

International Cost of Capital (ICOC) applicable to Pine Labs India and Pine Labs Singapore

ICOC provides an expected rate of return based on the capital structure, the required return on the equity, and the required yield on the interest-bearing debt. Since value is premised on a current transaction between willing parties, industry specific estimates relative to capital structure, required return on equity, and required yield on interest-bearing debt have been applied. The formula for calculating the weighted average cost of capital is:

The derivation of each of the inputs into the model is described below.

Cost of Equity (K_e)

The cost of equity has been estimated using Capital Asset Pricing Model (CAPM). We looked at the financial return data for other similar firms in the industry to arrive at the estimated required return on equity the holder would expect for his investment. The CAPM can be expressed as follows:

$$K_e = \text{RFR} + \beta \times (\text{ERP}) + \text{CSRP}$$

Where:

All factors relevant to the K_e calculation are based on publicly available sources and considered reliable.

$$K_e = R_f + \beta \times (\text{ERP}) + \text{CSRP}$$

Where

K_e = Cost of equity

R_f	= Risk-free rate of return	= 4.7%	The yield on the US 20-Year Sovereign Bond Yield as of the Valuation Date was used as a proxy for the risk-free rate.
ERP	= Market equity risk premium	= 5.5%	The ERP is the expected return of the market (R_m) in excess of the risk-free rate (R_f), or, mathematically, $R_m - R_f$. The market equity risk premium is estimated based on consideration of historical realized returns on equity investments over a risk-free rate as represented by long-term government bonds and forward-looking equity risk premium estimates. A 5.5 percent equity risk premium was considered to be reasonable. Source: Kroll Cost of Capital Study
β	= Beta	= 1.39	Beta is a measure of the risk of a given security relative to that of the overall market. The concluded beta is based on the median of the unlevered beta(s) of the selected guideline companies, which was then re-levered based on the concluded capital structure.

Employing the preceding inputs, the base cost of equity (K_e) in the US was estimated as follows:

Base Cost of Equity

$$K_e = R_f + \beta (\text{ERP})$$

$$K_e = 12.3\%$$

We have then adjusted the base cost of equity in the US for Country Risk Premium ("CRP"). Country risk premium is quantified as the spread between the foreign country's government bond yield in U.S. Dollars and the U.S. Treasury Bond yield of the same maturity.

We understand that the Pine Labs Singapore has operations in India, Malaysia, UAE, Indonesia, and Singapore. Therefore, we have considered a weighted average CRP of India and other international countries based on the projected relative revenue share of FY29 in our analysis. While for Pine Labs India, we have considered CRP of India since it has operations in India only.

	Pine Labs Singapore	Pine Labs India
Country Risk Premium	1.7%	1.8%

Accordingly, the cost of equity (K_e) in India was estimated as follows:

Cost of Equity

$$K_e = R_f + \beta (\text{ERP}) + \text{CRP}$$

	Pine Labs Singapore	Pine Labs India
K_e =	12.3% + 1.7%	12.3% + 1.8%
K_e =	14.0%	14.1%

We have used the International Fisher Effect to adjust for differences in inflation between the foreign country and the home country to arrive at a risk adjusted cost of equity.

Cost of Equity

	Pine Labs Singapore	Pine Labs India
K_e =	$\frac{(1 + 14.0\%) * (1 + 4.3\%)}{(1 + 2.2\%)}$	$\frac{(1 + 14.3\%) * (1 + 4.5\%)}{(1 + 2.2\%)}$
K_e =	16.4%	16.7%

The cost of equity for the home country after adjusting for Fisher's effect is then adjusted for Company Specific Risk ("CSR") to accounts for perceived risk in achieving projections and company-specific factors such as size relative to the selected comparable companies.

The concluded cost of equity after adding the Company Specific Risk is presented below:

Cost of Equity (Established Segment)

$$K_e = K_e + \text{CSR}$$

	Pine Labs Singapore	Pine Labs India
K_e =	16.4% + 1.0%	16.7% + 0.0%
K_e (Rounded) =	17.0%	17.0%

Cost of Equity (Emerging Segment)

$$K_e = K_e + \text{CSR}$$

	Pine Labs Singapore	Pine Labs India
K_e =	16.4% + 4.0%	16.7% + 3.5%
K_e (Rounded) =	20.0%	20.0%

Concluded cost of equity (as below) is based on the weighted average cost of equity for Established and Emerging segments of Pine Labs India and Pine Labs Singapore.

Cost of Equity (Pine Labs Singapore)	Revenue Weight	Cost of Equity
Established	80.0%	17.0%
Emerging	20.0%	20.0%
Concluded Cost of Equity		17.6%

Cost of Equity (Pine Labs India)	Revenue Weight	Cost of Equity
Established	90.0%	17.0%
Emerging	10.0%	20.0%
Concluded Cost of Equity		17.3%

Tax Rate

The tax rate considered for ICOC for Pine Labs Singapore is 24.7 percent, based on the blended tax rate of India and other countries (which includes Malaysia, UAE, Indonesia and Singapore) which is being considered in the normalized cash flow projections.

The tax rate considered for ICOC for Pine Labs India is 25.2 percent, same as marginal tax rate considered in the normalized cash flow projections.

Cost of Debt (K_d)

The cost of debt capital (K_d) is the current average borrowing cost that a market participant would expect to pay to obtain its debt financing assuming the target capital structure. However, because interest expense is tax deductible, the effective cost of debt is the after-tax cost.

Based on the above, pre-tax cost of debt for both Pine Labs Singapore and Pine Labs India was taken at 11.8 percent as of the Valuation Date, based on BBB rated bond yield of India.

(This space has been left blank intentionally)

Accordingly, the after-tax cost of debt was calculated as below:

Cost of Debt

$$K_d = \text{Representative Pretax Interest Rate} \times (1-t)$$

Where,

$$T = \text{Tax rate for the company}$$

	Pine Labs Singapore	Pine Labs India
K_d	$11.8\% \times (1 - 24.7\%)$	$11.8\% \times (1 - 25.2\%)$
K_d	8.9%	8.8%

Capital Structure

Based on the discussions with the Management we have considered the following as target capital structure for Pine Labs Singapore and Pine Labs India.

Debt/Total Capital	Equity/Total Capital	Capital Structure

Concluded Discount Rate

Based on these inputs, the discount rate for Pine Labs Singapore and Pine Labs India is concluded at 16.5 percent (rounded). Please refer to the workpapers for detailed analysis.

- We have employed H-Growth Model to estimate the terminal value as it assumes a gradual decrease in the growth rate. The formula is $[(D0 * (1+gL))/(r-gL) + (D0 * H/2 * (gS-gL))/(r-gL)]$. It utilizes short-term growth rate, long-term growth rate and high growth rate period; where short-term growth rate is 28.6 percent and long-term growth rate is based on perpetuity growth rate.
- We have used weighted average tax rate of India and International (which includes Indonesia, Malaysia, Singapore, UAE) based on projected revenue share.
- Provided by Management. Refer to Workpaper 7A
- Incremental Working Capital for discrete period was provided by management were checked for reasonableness with that of guideline companies and found appropriate.

- The market equity risk premium is estimated based on consideration of historical realized returns on equity investments over a risk-free rate as represented by 20 year government bond and forward-looking equity risk premium estimates. Data sources reviewed generated a range of equity risk premium indications. However, a 5.5% equity risk premium for the U.S. was considered to reasonably represent a consensus viewpoint of the market equity risk premium. Source: Kroll

- (2) We have used the International Cost of Capital Method to adjust the US-based Cost of Equity to arrive at an India based Cost of equity. We have used the Country Yield Spread Model (CRP) model to arrive at the India based cost of equity. The CRP factor represents Country risk premium, determined as the difference between the yield-to-maturity on a foreign country government bond (issued in the home country's currency) and the yield-to-maturity on a home country government bond with a similar maturity. Source: Kroll
- (3) The international Fisher's effect is an economic hypothesis in international finance which suggests that the difference in the nominal interest rates of different geographies reflects the expected changes in the currency spot exchange rate between those geographies. The adjustment for International Fisher's effect is included to capture the risk associated with difference in changes of two currencies which is captured with help of long term inflation rates of the two countries. Long term inflation rates are sourced from IHS Economics Overview.

2. The proposed process to achieve the Restructuring is to make an application, under Section 210 read with Section 212 of the Companies Act 1967 of Singapore (the "Companies Act") to the General Division of the High Court of the Republic of Singapore (the "Court"), for the Court to approve a scheme of arrangement that is proposed for the purposes of or in connection with the Restructuring (the "Scheme"). In our opinion and to the best of our information and according to the explanations given to us, the aforesaid standalone financial statements give the information required by the Companies Act, 2013 ("Act") in the manner so required and give a true and fair view in conformity with the accounting principles generally accepted in India, of the state of affairs of the Company as at 31 March 2024, and its loss and other comprehensive income, changes in equity and its cash flows for the year ended on that date.

Basis for Opinion

We conducted our audit in accordance with the Standards on Auditing (SAs) specified under Section 143(10) of the Act. Our responsibilities under those SAs are further described in the Auditor's Responsibilities for the Audit of the Standalone Financial Statements section of our report. We are independent of the Company in accordance with the Code of Ethics issued by the Institute of Chartered Accountants of India together with the ethical requirements that are relevant to our audit of the standalone financial statements under the provisions of the Act and the Rules thereunder, and we have fulfilled our other ethical responsibilities in accordance with these requirements and the Code of Ethics. We believe that the audit evidence we have obtained is sufficient and appropriate to provide a basis for our opinion on the standalone financial statements.

Other Information

The Company's Management and Board of Directors are responsible for the other information. The other information comprises the information included in the Company's directors' report, but does not include the financial statements and auditor's report(s) thereon.

Our opinion on the standalone financial statements does not cover the other information and we do not express any form of assurance conclusion thereon.

In connection with our audit of the standalone financial statements, our responsibility is to read the other information and, in doing so, consider whether the other information is materially inconsistent with the standalone financial statements or our knowledge obtained in the audit or otherwise appears to be materially misstated. If, based on the work we have performed, we conclude that there is a material misstatement of this other information, we are required to report that fact. We have nothing to report in this regard.

including the Indian Accounting Standards (Ind AS) specified under Section 133 of the Act. This responsibility also includes maintenance of adequate accounting records in accordance with the provisions of the Act for safeguarding of the assets of the Company and for preventing and detecting frauds and other irregularities; selection and application of appropriate accounting policies; making judgments and estimates that are reasonable and prudent; and design, implementation and maintenance of adequate internal financial controls, that were operating effectively for ensuring the accuracy and completeness of the accounting records, relevant to the preparation and presentation of the standalone financial statements that give a true and fair view and are free from material misstatement, whether due to fraud or error.

In preparing the standalone financial statements, the Management and Board of Directors are responsible for assessing the Company's ability to continue as a going concern, disclosing, as applicable, matters related to going concern and using the going concern basis of accounting unless the Board of Directors either intends to liquidate the Company or to cease operations, or has no realistic alternative but to do so.

The Board of Directors is also responsible for overseeing the Company's financial reporting process.

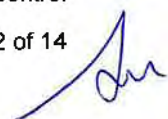

Auditor's Responsibilities for the Audit of the Standalone Financial Statements

Our objectives are to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the standalone financial statements as a whole are free from material misstatement, whether due to fraud or error, and to issue an auditor's report that includes our opinion. Reasonable assurance is a high level of assurance, but is not a guarantee that an audit conducted in accordance with SAs will always detect a material misstatement when it exists. Misstatements can arise from fraud or error and are considered material if, individually or in the aggregate, they could reasonably be expected to influence the economic decisions of users taken on the basis of these standalone financial statements.

As part of an audit in accordance with SAs, we exercise professional judgment and maintain professional skepticism throughout the audit. We also:

- Identify and assess the risks of material misstatement of the standalone financial statements, whether due to fraud or error, design and perform audit procedures responsive to those risks, and obtain audit evidence that is sufficient and appropriate to provide a basis for our opinion. The risk of not detecting a material misstatement resulting from fraud is higher than for one resulting from error, as fraud may involve collusion, forgery, intentional omissions, misrepresentations, or the override of internal control.
- Obtain an understanding of internal control relevant to the audit in order to design audit procedures that are appropriate in the circumstances. Under Section 143(3)(i) of the Act, we are also responsible for expressing our opinion on whether the company has adequate internal financial controls with reference to financial statements in place and the operating effectiveness of such controls.
- Evaluate the appropriateness of accounting policies used and the reasonableness of accounting estimates and related disclosures made by the Management and Board of Directors.
- Conclude on the appropriateness of the Management and Board of Directors use of the going concern basis of accounting in preparation of standalone financial statements and, based on the audit evidence obtained, whether a material uncertainty exists related to events or conditions that may cast significant doubt on the Company's ability to continue as a going concern. If we conclude that a material uncertainty exists, we are required to draw attention in our auditor's report to the related disclosures in the standalone financial statements or, if such disclosures are inadequate, to modify our opinion. Our conclusions are based on the audit evidence obtained up to the date of our auditor's report. However, future events or conditions may cause the Company to cease to continue as a going concern.
- Evaluate the overall presentation, structure and content of the standalone financial statements, including the disclosures, and whether the standalone financial statements represent the underlying transactions and events in a manner that achieves fair presentation.

We communicate with those charged with governance regarding, among other matters, the planned scope and timing of the audit and significant audit findings, including any significant deficiencies in internal control that we identify during our audit.

We also provide those charged with governance with a statement that we have complied with relevant ethical requirements regarding independence, and to communicate with them all relationships and other matters that may reasonably be thought to bear on our independence, and where applicable, related safeguards.

Annexure A to the Independent Auditor's Report on the Standalone Financial Statements of Pine Labs Private Limited for the year ended 31 March 2024

(Referred to in paragraph 1 under 'Report on Other Legal and Regulatory Requirements' section of our report of even date)

- (i) (a) (A) The Company has maintained proper records showing full particulars, including quantitative details and situation of Property, Plant and Equipment except for location of Point of Sale ('POS') devices for which separate records are maintained.
- (B) The Company has maintained proper records showing full particulars of intangible assets.
- (i) (b) According to the information and explanations given to us and on the basis of our examination of the records of the Company, the Company has a regular programme of physical verification of its Property, Plant and Equipment by which all Property, Plant and Equipment (except Point of Sale ('POS') devices provided to various merchants) are verified once in every three years. In accordance with this programme, certain Property, Plant and Equipment were verified during the previous year. In our opinion, this periodicity of physical verification is reasonable having regard to the size of the Company and the nature of its assets. No material discrepancies were noticed on such verification. In respect of POS devices with merchants, as explained to us, the Company does not have a specific frequency to carry out physical verification as these are monitored separately through their systems which track the operational status of the POS devices.
- (c) The Company does not have any immovable property (other than immovable properties where the Company is the lessee and the leases agreements are duly executed in favour of the lessee). Accordingly, clause 3(i)(c) of the Order is not applicable.
- (d) According to the information and explanations given to us and on the basis of our examination of the records of the Company, the Company has not revalued its Property, Plant and Equipment (including Right of Use assets) or intangible assets or both during the year.
- (e) According to the information and explanations given to us and on the basis of our examination of the records of the Company, there are no proceedings initiated or pending against the Company for holding any benami property under the Prohibition of Benami Property Transactions Act, 1988 and rules made thereunder.
- (ii) (a) The inventory, except goods-in-transit and stocks lying with third parties, has been physically verified by the management during the year. For stocks lying with third parties at the year-end, written confirmations have been obtained and for goods-in-transit subsequent evidence of receipts has been linked with inventory records. In our opinion, the frequency of such verification is reasonable and procedures and coverage as followed by management were appropriate. No discrepancies were noticed on verification between the physical stocks and the book records that were more than 10% in the aggregate of each class of inventory
- (b) According to the information and explanations given to us and on the basis of our examination of the records of the Company, the Company has been sanctioned working capital limits in excess of five crore rupees, in aggregate, from banks or financial institutions on the basis of security of current assets. In our opinion, the quarterly returns or statements filed by the Company with such banks or financial institutions are in agreement with the books of account of the Company except as follows:

Annexure B to the Independent Auditor's Report on the standalone financial statements of Pine Labs Private Limited for the year ended 31 March 2024

Report on the internal financial controls with reference to the aforesaid standalone financial statements under Clause (i) of Sub-section 3 of Section 143 of the Act

(Referred to in paragraph 2(A)(e) under 'Report on Other Legal and Regulatory Requirements' section of our report of even date)

Opinion

We have audited the internal financial controls with reference to financial statements of Pine Labs Private Limited ("the Company") as of 31 March 2024 in conjunction with our audit of the standalone financial statements of the Company for the year ended on that date.

In our opinion, the Company has, in all material respects, adequate internal financial controls with reference to financial statements and such internal financial controls were operating effectively as at 31 March 2024, based on the internal financial controls with reference to financial statements criteria established by the Company considering the essential components of internal control stated in the Guidance Note on Audit of Internal Financial Controls Over Financial Reporting issued by the Institute of Chartered Accountants of India (the "Guidance Note").

Management's and Board of Directors' Responsibilities for Internal Financial Controls

The Company's Management and the Board of Directors are responsible for establishing and maintaining internal financial controls based on the internal financial controls with reference to financial statements criteria established by the Company considering the essential components of internal control stated in the Guidance Note. These responsibilities include the design, implementation and maintenance of adequate internal financial controls that were operating effectively for ensuring the orderly and efficient conduct of its business, including adherence to company's policies, the safeguarding of its assets, the prevention and detection of frauds and errors, the accuracy and completeness of the accounting records, and the timely preparation of reliable financial information, as required under the Act.

Auditor's Responsibility

Our responsibility is to express an opinion on the Company's internal financial controls with reference to financial statements based on our audit. We conducted our audit in accordance with the Guidance Note and the Standards on Auditing, prescribed under Section 143(10) of the Act, to the extent applicable to an audit of internal financial controls with reference to financial statements. Those Standards and the Guidance Note require that we comply with ethical requirements and plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether adequate internal financial controls with reference to financial statements were established and maintained and if such controls operated effectively in all material respects.

Our audit involves performing procedures to obtain audit evidence about the adequacy of the internal financial controls with reference to financial statements and their operating effectiveness. Our audit of internal financial controls with reference to financial statements included obtaining an understanding of internal financial controls with reference to financial statements, assessing the risk that a material weakness exists, and testing and evaluating the design and operating effectiveness of internal control based on the assessed risk. The procedures selected depend on the auditor's judgement, including the assessment of the risks of material misstatement of the standalone financial statements, whether due to fraud or error.

We believe that the audit evidence we have obtained is sufficient and appropriate to provide a basis for our audit opinion on the Company's internal financial controls with reference to financial statements.

Meaning of Internal Financial Controls with Reference to Financial Statements

B S R & Co. LLP

provide reasonable assurance regarding the reliability of financial reporting and the preparation of financial statements for external purposes in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles. A company's internal financial controls with reference to financial statements include those policies and procedures that (1) pertain to the maintenance of records that, in reasonable detail, accurately and fairly reflect the transactions and dispositions of the assets of the company; (2) provide reasonable assurance that transactions are recorded as necessary to permit preparation of financial statements in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles, and that receipts and expenditures of the company are being made only in accordance with authorisations of management and directors of the company; and (3) provide reasonable assurance regarding prevention or timely detection of unauthorised acquisition, use, or disposition of the company's assets that could have a material effect on the financial statements.

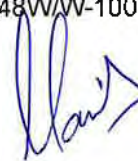

Inherent Limitations of Internal Financial Controls with Reference to Financial Statements

Because of the inherent limitations of internal financial controls with reference to financial statements, including the possibility of collusion or improper management override of controls, material misstatements due to error or fraud may occur and not be detected. Also, projections of any evaluation of the internal financial controls with reference to financial statements to future periods are subject to the risk that the internal financial controls with reference to financial statements may become inadequate because of changes in conditions, or that the degree of compliance with the policies or procedures may deteriorate.

Pine Labs Private Limited

(Amount in Indian Rupees (INR) lakhs, except per share data, unless otherwise stated)

1. Reporting entity

Pine Labs Private Limited (the 'Company') is incorporated under the provisions of the Companies Act applicable in India on 18 May 1998. The registered office of the Company is located at Unit No 408, 4th Floor, Time Tower, MG Road, Gurugram-122002, Haryana.

The Company is primarily engaged in providing services related to transaction processing, payment solutions, gifting solutions and petroleum retail automation (including supply of materials) to its customers.

2.1 Basis of Preparation

i Statement of compliance

These standalone financial statements of the Company have been prepared in accordance with Indian Accounting Standards (Ind AS) as per the Companies (Indian Accounting Standards) Rules, 2015 notified under Section 133 of Companies Act, 2013, (the 'Act') and other relevant provisions of the Act.

These standalone financial statements are authorised for issue by the Board of Directors of the Company at their meeting held on 30 June 2024.

Details of the Company's accounting policies are set out below.

ii Basis of measurement

The standalone financial statements have been prepared on a historical cost basis, except for the following items:

- certain financial assets and liabilities measured at fair value where Ind AS requires a different accounting treatment (refer accounting policy regarding financial instruments).
- defined benefit asset/ (liability) measured at fair value of plan assets (if any) less the present value of defined benefit obligation.

iii Functional and presentation currency

The standalone financial statements are presented in Indian Rupees (INR), which is also the Company's functional currency. All amounts have been rounded-off to the nearest lakhs, unless otherwise indicated.

iv Use of estimates and judgements

In preparing these standalone financial statements, management has made judgements, estimates and assumptions that affect the application of accounting policies and the reported amounts of assets, liabilities, income and expenses. Actual results may differ from these estimates.

Estimates and underlying assumptions are reviewed on an ongoing basis. Revisions to accounting estimates are recognised prospectively.

Judgments

In the process of applying the accounting policies, management has made the following judgements, which have the most significant effect on the amounts recognised in the standalone financial statements:

a) Revenue from contracts with customers

The determination of gross versus net recognition of revenue requires judgment that depends on whether the Company controls the good or service before it is transferred to the merchant or whether the Company is acting as an agent of a third party in accordance with Ind AS 115. The Company has generally concluded that it is the principal in its revenue arrangements, because it typically controls the services before transferring them to the client, except in case of revenue from aggregator services and distribution revenue from SCLP, CLP, Woohoo gift cards and other brand gift cards, and provision of payment solutions.

The Company applied judgements that significantly affect the determination of the amount and timing of revenue from contracts with customers, such as identifying performance obligations, wherein, the Company provides multiple services as part of the arrangement. The Company allocated the portion of the transaction price to services basis its relative standalone prices.

Before including any amount of variable consideration in the transaction price, the Company considers whether the amount of variable consideration is constrained. The Company determined that the estimates of variable consideration are not constrained based on its historical experience, business forecast and the current economic conditions. In addition, the uncertainty on the variable consideration will be resolved within a short time frame.

b) Determining lease term

The Company determines the lease term as the non-cancellable term of the lease, together with any periods covered by an option to extend the lease if it is reasonably certain to be exercised, or any periods covered by an option to terminate the lease, if it is reasonably certain not to be exercised. The Company has some property lease arrangements with its vendors that include option to renew or terminate the contract by the Company by giving advance notice or either party option to terminate the contract by either party at any time by giving advance. The Company applied judgment in evaluating whether it is reasonably certain for the Company to renew or terminate the property lease contract before the lease term. It considered all the factors that create economic incentive for the Company to continue with lease or renew or terminate including alternatives available for the office lease, use of underlying property, location of the office, leasehold improvements made and accordingly determined lease term.

The lease term is reassessed if an option is actually exercised (or not exercised) or the Company becomes obliged to exercise (or not exercise) it. The assessment of reasonable certainty is only revised if a significant event or a significant change in circumstances occurs, which affects this assessment, and that is within the control of the lessee.

c) Determining sale and leaseback transactions

The Company applies the requirements for determining when a performance obligation is satisfied in Ind AS 115 to determine whether the transfer of an asset is accounted for as a sale of that asset. If control of an underlying asset passes to the buyer-lessor, the transaction is accounted for as a sale of the asset and a lease. If not, both the seller-lessee and the buyer-lessor account for the transaction as a financing transaction. Judgement is required to determine whether the transferred asset to buyer-lessor constitutes sale (i.e. transfer of control) or not. Management considers the nature and commercial substance of the arrangement, option to extend a lease for substantially all of the remaining economic life of the underlying asset or option to repurchase the asset after end of the lease term at nominal value, if any and other parameters of determining control in assessing the assessment.

d) Income taxes

The Company's current tax provision relates to management's assessment of the amount of tax payable on open tax positions where the liabilities remain to be agreed with the relevant Tax Authority. Uncertain tax items for which a provision is made, relate principally to the interpretation of tax legislation regarding arrangements entered into by the Company. Due to the uncertainty associated with such tax items, there is a possibility that, on conclusion of open tax matters at a future date, the final outcome may differ significantly.

Deferred tax assets are recognised for unused tax losses to the extent that it is probable that future taxable profit will be available against which the losses can be utilised. In assessing the probability, the Company considers whether the Company entity has sufficient taxable temporary differences relating to the same taxation authority and the same taxable entity, which will result in taxable amounts against which the unused tax losses can be utilised before they expire. Significant management judgement is required to determine the amount of deferred tax assets that can be recognised, based upon the likely timing and the level of future taxable profits together with future tax planning strategies.

e) Determination of Cash Generating Unit (CGU)

For the purpose of impairment testing, assets are grouped together into the smallest group of assets that generates cash inflows from continuing use that are largely independent of the cash inflows of other assets or CGUs. Judgement is involved in determining the CGU/grouping of CGUs for allocation of the goodwill and other assets.

Estimates and assumptions

The key assumptions concerning the future and other key sources of estimation uncertainty at the reporting date, that have a significant risk of causing a material adjustment to the carrying amounts of assets and liabilities within the next financial year, are described below. The Company based its assumptions and estimates on parameters available when the standalone financial statements were prepared. Existing circumstances and assumptions about future developments, however, may change due to market changes or circumstances arising that are beyond the control of the Company. Such changes are reflected in the assumptions when they occur.

a) Recognition of revenue from Subscription based services

The recognition of revenue from Subscription based services included preparation of estimates to determine the average customer relationship period, with the objective to recognize revenue on a straight-line basis. The estimates are related to the average time that the merchant will process the transactions with the Company.

b) Estimating breakage revenue

The Company is entitled to breakage revenue majorly arising from unutilised amount of deal vouchers or prepaid cards upon expiry. The Company estimates such amounts using historical data and customer behaviour patterns. (Refer accounting policy regarding revenue from contracts with customers, for further details.)

c) Impairment of Goodwill

Goodwill has arisen on the acquisition of subsidiary (erstwhile known as Qwiksilver Solutions Private Limited which merged with Pine India Private Limited in last year). Goodwill is tested for impairment on an annual basis on 31 March and whenever there is an indication that the recoverable amount of a cash generating unit (CGUs) is less than its carrying amount. For the impairment test, goodwill is allocated to the CGU or group of CGUs which benefit from the synergies of the acquisition and which represent the lowest level at which goodwill is monitored for internal management purposes. The recoverable amount of CGUs is determined based on higher of value-in-use and fair value less cost to sell. Key assumptions in the cash flow projections are prepared based on current economic conditions and comprises estimated perpetuity growth rates, weighted average cost of capital and average free cash flows to equity. Refer note 44 for further details.

d) Loss allowance of trade receivables and contract assets

In calculating expected credit loss, the Company uses judgment in making these assumptions and selecting the inputs to expected credit loss calculation based on the Company's past history of collections, existing market conditions as well as forward looking estimates at the end of each reporting period. Management also exercises judgment in specific cases and basis past experience estimates additional impairment loss provisions. These include trade and other receivables associated with litigations, balances related to customer who have not transacted/paid for more than a specific period and other reasons. Refer note 34 for further details.

e) Useful life of property, plant and equipment

The Company depreciates property, plant and equipment on a straight-line basis over the estimated useful life of the assets. The charge in respect of periodic depreciation is derived based on an estimate of an asset's expected useful life and the expected residual value at the end of its life. The life is based on historical experience with similar assets as well as anticipation of future events, which may impact their life, such as changes in technology. The estimated useful life is reviewed at least annually.

f) Useful life of intangibles

The Company amortizes intangible assets on a straight-line basis over estimated useful life of the assets. The useful life is estimated based on a number of factors including the effects of obsolescence, demand, competition and other economic factors such as the stability of the industry and known technological advances and the level of maintenance expenditures required to obtain the expected future cash flows from the assets. The estimated useful life is reviewed at least annually.

g) Defined benefits plan and other long-term benefits

The obligations arising from defined benefit plan and other long-term benefits are determined on the basis of actuarial assumptions. Key actuarial assumptions include discount rate, trends in salary escalation, actuarial rates and life expectancy. The discount rate is determined by reference to market yields at the end of the reporting period on government bonds. The period to maturity of the underlying bonds correspond to the probable maturity of the employee benefit obligations. Due to complexities involved in the valuation and its long-term nature, employee benefit obligation is sensitive to changes in these assumptions. All assumptions are reviewed at each reporting period. Refer note 38 for further details.

h) Leases – Estimating the incremental borrowing rate

The Company cannot readily determine the interest rate implicit in the lease, therefore, it uses its incremental borrowing rate ("IBR") to measure lease liabilities. The IBR is the rate of interest that the Company would have to pay to borrow over a similar term, and with a similar security, the funds necessary to obtain an asset of a similar value to the right-of-use asset in a similar economic environment. The IBR therefore reflects what the Company "would have to pay", which requires estimation when no observable rates are available or when they need to be adjusted to reflect the terms and conditions of the lease. The Company estimates the IBR using observable inputs (such as market interest rates) when available and is required to make certain entity-specific estimates.

i) Share-based payments

The employees of the Company are entitled to share options of the Parent Company. Estimating fair value for share-based payment transactions requires determination of the most appropriate valuation model, which depends on the terms and conditions of the grant. This estimate also requires determination of the most appropriate inputs to the valuation model including the expected life of the share options, volatility and dividend yield and making assumptions about them. For the measurement of the fair value of equity-settled with employees at the grant date and cash settled and at each reporting date until settlement, the Company uses a Black-Scholes model and Monte Carlo simulation model respectively. The assumptions and models used for estimating fair value for share-based payment transactions are disclosed in note 43.

j) Recognition and measurement of provisions and contingencies

The amount recognized as a provision is the best estimate of the consideration required to settle the present obligation at reporting date, taking into account the risks and uncertainties surrounding the obligation. The Company is involved in various legal matters, the outcome of which may not be favourable to the Company. Management in consultation with the legal, and other advisers assess the likelihood that a pending claim will succeed. The Company has recognised liabilities based on whether additional amounts will be payable and has included contingent liabilities where economic outflows are considered possible but not probable.

k) Government Grant

Government grants are recognised at their fair value when there is a reasonable assurance that the grant will be received and all attached conditions will be complied with. When the grant relates to an expense item, it is deferred and recognised as income in the standalone statement of profit and loss on a systematic basis over the periods necessary to match the related costs, which they are intended to compensate. When the grant relates to an asset or a non-monetary item, it is recognised as deferred income under liabilities and is recognised as income in the standalone statement of profit and loss on a straight line basis over the expected useful life of the related asset or a non-monetary item.

v Measurement of fair values

Fair value is the price that would be received to sell an asset or paid to transfer a liability in an orderly transaction between market participants at the measurement date. The fair value measurement is based on the presumption that the transaction to sell the asset or transfer the liability takes place either:

- In the principal market for the asset or liability; or
- In the absence of a principal market, in the most advantageous market for the asset or liability.

The fair value of an asset or a liability is measured using the assumptions that market participants would use when pricing the asset or liability, assuming that market participants act in their economic best interest.

The Company uses valuation techniques that are appropriate in the circumstances and for which sufficient data are available to measure fair value, maximizing the use of relevant observable inputs and minimizing the use of unobservable inputs.

All assets and liabilities for which fair value is measured or disclosed in the standalone financial statements are categorized within the fair value hierarchy, described as follows, based on the lowest level input that is significant to the fair value measurement as a whole:

The Company uses the following hierarchy to determine and disclose the fair value of financial instruments through the following measurement techniques:

- Level I - quoted prices in active markets for identical assets or liabilities;
- Level II - other techniques for which all inputs that have a significant effect on the recorded fair value are observable, either directly or indirectly; and
- Level III - techniques using inputs that have a significant effect on the recorded fair value that are not based on observable market data.

For assets and liabilities that are recognized in the standalone financial statements at fair value on a recurring basis, the Company determines whether transfers have occurred between levels in the hierarchy by re-assessing categorization (based on the lowest level input that is significant to the fair value measurement as a whole) at the end of each reporting period.

2.2 Material accounting policies

The Company adopted Disclosure of Accounting Policies (Amendments to Ind AS 1) from April 1, 2023. Although the amendments did not result in any changes to the accounting policies themselves, they impacted the accounting policy information disclosed in financial statements.

The amendments require the disclosure of 'material', rather than 'significant', accounting policies. The amendments also provide guidance on the application of materiality to disclosure of accounting policies, assisting entities to provide useful, entity specific accounting policy information that users need to understand other information in the Financials Statements.

Management reviewed the accounting policies and made updates to the information disclosed in below material accounting policies in certain instances in line with the amendments.

A Foreign currencyi. Foreign currency transactions

Transactions in foreign currencies are translated into functional currency of the Company at the exchange rates at the dates of the transactions or an average rate if the average rate approximates the actual rate at the date of the transaction.

Monetary assets and liabilities denominated in foreign currencies are translated into the functional currency at the exchange rate at the reporting date. Non-monetary assets and liabilities that are measured at fair value in a foreign currency are translated into the functional currency at the exchange rate when the fair value was determined. Non-monetary assets and liabilities that are measured based on historical cost in a foreign currency are translated at the exchange rate at the date of the transaction. Exchange differences are recognised profit or loss in the period in which they arise.

B Financial InstrumentsInitial recognition and measurement

Financial assets and financial liabilities are recognised in the Company's balance sheet when the Company becomes a party to the contractual provisions of the instrument. Financial assets and financial liabilities are initially measured at fair value, except for trade receivables that do not have a significant financing component which are measured at transaction price. Trade receivables that do not contain a significant financing component or for which the Company has applied the practical expedient are measured at the transaction price determined under Ind AS 115 – Revenue from Contracts with Customers. Transaction costs that are directly attributable to the acquisition or issue of financial assets and financial liabilities (other than financial assets and financial liabilities at fair value through profit and loss) are added to or deducted from the fair value of the financial assets or financial liabilities, as appropriate, on initial recognition. Transaction costs directly attributable to the acquisition of financial assets or financial liabilities at fair value through profit and loss are recognised immediately in profit or loss.

(Amount in Indian Rupees (INR) lakhs, except per share data, unless otherwise stated)

Financial assets

The classification of financial assets at initial recognition depends on the financial asset's contractual cash flow characteristics and the Company's business model for managing them. For a financial asset to be classified and measured at amortised cost or Fair value through other comprehensive income (FVOCI), it needs to give rise to cash flows that are solely payments of principal and interest ("SPPI") on the principal amount outstanding. This assessment is referred to as the SPPI test and is performed at an instrument level. Financial assets with cash flows that are not SPPI are classified and measured at Fair value through profit and loss (FVPL), irrespective of the business model.

The Company's business model for managing financial assets refers to how it manages its financial assets in order to generate cash flows. The business model determines whether cash flows will result from collecting contractual cash flows, selling the financial assets, or both. Financial assets classified and measured at amortised cost are held within a business model with the objective to hold financial assets in order to collect contractual cash flows while financial assets classified and measured at FVOCI are held within a business model with the objective of both, holding to collect contractual cash flows and selling.

Financial assets at FVPL include financial assets held for trading, financial assets designated upon initial recognition at FVPL, or financial assets mandatorily required to be measured at fair value. Financial assets are classified as held for trading if they are acquired for the purpose of selling or repurchasing in the near term. Notwithstanding the criteria for debt instruments to be classified at amortised cost or at FVOCI, as described above, debt instruments may be designated at FVPL on initial recognition if doing so eliminates, or significantly reduces, an accounting mismatch.

Subsequent measurement

All recognised financial assets are measured subsequently in their entirety at either amortised cost or fair value, depending on the classification of the financial assets.

a) Classification, recognition and measurement of financial assets

The Company classifies its financial assets in the following measurement categories:

- Financial assets at amortised cost (debt instruments);
- Financial assets at FVOCI with recycling of cumulative gains and losses (debt instruments);
- Financial assets at FVOCI with no recycling of cumulative gains and losses upon derecognition (equity instruments); or
- Fair value through profit or loss (FVPL).

Financial assets at amortised cost (debt instruments)

Financial assets at amortised cost are subsequently measured using the effective interest rate ("EIR") method and are subject to impairment. Gains and losses are recognized in profit or loss when the asset is derecognized, modified or impaired.

The Company's financial assets at amortised cost include trade receivables, contract assets, term deposits, security deposits, restricted cash and cash equivalents, interest accrued on deposits, receivable for cash back, loans to employees and other receivables.

The effective interest method is a method of calculating the amortised cost of a debt instrument and of allocating interest income over the relevant period.

Effective interest rate is the rate that exactly discounts estimated future cash receipts (including all fees and points paid or received that form an integral part of the effective interest rate, transaction costs and other premiums or discounts) excluding expected credit losses, through the expected life of the debt instrument, or, where appropriate, a shorter period, to the gross carrying amount of the debt instrument on initial recognition.

The amortised cost of a financial asset is the amount at which the financial asset is measured at initial recognition minus the principal repayments, plus the cumulative amortisation using the effective interest method of any difference between that initial amount and the maturity amount, adjusted for any loss allowance. The gross carrying amount of a financial asset is the amortised cost of a financial asset before adjusting for any loss allowance.

Interest income is recognised using the effective interest method for debt instruments measured subsequently at amortised cost. Interest income is calculated by applying the effective interest rate to the gross carrying amount of a financial asset.

Interest income is recognised in profit and loss and is included under the head "Other income".

Financial assets at FVOCI (debt instruments)

For debt instruments at FVOCI, interest income, foreign exchange revaluation and impairment losses or reversals are recognized in the standalone statement of profit and loss similar to financial assets measured at amortised cost. The remaining fair value changes are recognized in OCI. Upon derecognition, the cumulative fair value change recognized in OCI is recycled to profit or loss.

Financial assets at FVOCI (equity instruments)

Upon initial recognition, the Company can elect to classify irrevocably its equity investments as equity instruments designated at FVOCI when they meet the definition of equity under Ind AS 32 – Financial Instruments: Presentation and are not held for trading. The classification is determined on an instrument-by-instrument basis.

Gains and losses on these financial assets are never recycled to profit or loss. Dividends are recognized as other income in the standalone statement of profit and loss when the right of payment has been established, except when the Company benefits from such proceeds as a recovery of part of the cost of the financial asset, in which case, such gains are recorded in OCI. Equity instruments designated at FVOCI are not subject to impairment assessment.

Financial assets at FVPL

The Company's financial assets measured at FVPL include investment in mutual funds shown under the head "financial asset at fair value through profit and loss". Financial assets at fair value through profit or loss are carried in the standalone balance sheet at fair value with net changes in fair value recognised in the standalone statement of profit and loss in other income.

Pine Labs Private Limited

Derecognition

A financial asset (or, where applicable, a part of a financial asset or part of a group of similar financial assets) is primarily derecognized (i.e., removed from the Company's balance sheet) when:

- The contractual rights to receive cash flows from the asset have expired; or
 - The Company has transferred its contractual rights to receive cash flows from the asset or has assumed a contractual obligation to pay the received cash flows in full without material delay to a third party under a 'pass-through' arrangement; and either
 - (a) the Company has transferred substantially all the risks and rewards of the asset, or
 - (b) the Company has neither transferred nor retained substantially all the risks and rewards of the asset but has transferred control of the asset.
- When the Company has transferred its contractual rights to receive cash flows from an asset or has entered into a pass-through arrangement, it evaluates if, and to what extent, it has retained the risks and rewards of ownership. When it has neither transferred nor retained substantially all the risks and rewards of the asset, nor transferred control of the asset, the Company continues to recognize the transferred asset to the extent of its continuing involvement.

In that case, the Company also recognizes an associated liability. The transferred asset and the associated liability are measured on a basis that reflects the rights and obligations that the Company has retained.

b) Impairment of financial assets

The Company recognises a loss allowance for expected credit losses ('ECL') on trade receivables and contract assets. The amount of expected credit losses is updated at each reporting date to reflect changes in credit risk since initial recognition of the respective financial instrument.

For trade receivables and contract assets, the Company applies a simplified approach in calculating ECL, whereby a loss allowance is computed based on lifetime ECL at each reporting date. The Company has established a flow rate approach that is based on its historical credit loss experience, adjusted for forward-looking factors specific to the receivables and the economic environment.

Management also exercises judgment in specific cases and basis past experience makes additional impairment loss provisions. These include trade and other receivables associated with litigations, balances related to customer who have not transacted/ paid for more than a specific period and other reasons.

Measurement and recognition of expected credit losses

For financial assets, the expected credit loss is estimated as the difference between all contractual cash flows that are due to the Company in accordance with the contract and all the cash flows that the Company expects to receive, computed by using a loss rate.

The Company recognises an impairment gain or loss in standalone statement of profit and loss for all financial instruments with a corresponding adjustment to their carrying amount through a loss allowance account.

c) Write off policy

The Company writes off a financial asset when there is information indicating that the receivables are in severe financial difficulty and there is no realistic prospect of recovery. Financial assets written off may still be subject to enforcement activities under the Company's recovery procedures, taking into account legal advice where appropriate. Any recoveries made are recognised in standalone statement of profit and loss.

Financial liabilities and equity

a) Classification as debt or equity

Debt and equity instruments are classified as either financial liabilities or as equity in accordance with the substance of the contractual arrangements and the definitions of a financial liability and an equity instrument.

Equity instruments

An equity instrument is any contract that evidences a residual interest in the assets of an entity after deducting all of its liabilities. Equity instruments issued by the Company are recognized at the proceeds received, net of direct issue costs.

Repurchase of the Company's own equity instruments is derecognized and deducted directly in equity. No gain or loss is recognized in profit or loss on the purchase, sale, issue or cancellation of the Company's own equity instruments.

Initial recognition and measurement

Financial liabilities are classified, at initial recognition, as financial liabilities at FVPL, amortised cost or as derivatives designated as hedging instruments in an effective hedge, as appropriate.

All financial liabilities are recognized initially at fair value and, in the case of amortised cost, net of directly attributable transaction costs.

The Company's financial liabilities include, trade and other liabilities, loans and financing including bank overdrafts, cash credit facilities from bank and financial institution.

Subsequent measurement

The measurement of financial liabilities depends on their classification, as described below:

Financial liabilities at FVPL

Financial liabilities at FVPL include financial liabilities held for trading and financial liabilities designated upon initial recognition as at FVPL.

Financial liabilities are classified as held for trading if they are incurred for the purpose of repurchasing in the near term.

Gains or losses on liabilities held for trading are recognized in the standalone statement of profit and loss.

Financial liabilities designated upon initial recognition at FVPL are designated at the initial date of recognition, and only if the criteria in Ind AS 109 are satisfied. This category includes only derivative financial instruments.

(Amount in Indian Rupees (INR) lakhs, except per share data, unless otherwise stated)

Financial liabilities at amortised cost

After initial recognition, interest-bearing loans and borrowings are subsequently measured at amortised cost using the EIR method. Gains and losses are recognized in profit or loss when the liabilities are derecognized as well as through the EIR amortization process. This category is the most relevant to the Company.

Amortised cost is calculated by considering any discount or premium on acquisition and fees or costs that are an integral part of the EIR. The EIR amortization is included as finance costs in the standalone statement of profit and loss.

Derecognition

The Company derecognises financial liabilities when, and only when, the Company's obligations are discharged, cancelled or have expired. The difference between the carrying amount of the financial liability derecognised and the consideration paid and payable is recognised in profit or loss.

Offsetting of financial instruments

Financial assets and financial liabilities are offset and the net amount is reported in the balance sheet if there is a currently enforceable legal right to offset the recognized amounts and there is an intention to settle on a net basis, to realize the assets and settle the liabilities simultaneously.

C Property, plant and equipment

All items of property, plant and equipment, are initially recorded at cost. Subsequent to recognition, property, plant and equipment are measured at cost less accumulated depreciation and accumulated impairment losses, if any. The cost includes directly attributable expenses incurred to bring the asset to the location and condition necessary for it to be capable of being operated in the manner intended by management and initial estimate of decommissioning, restoring and similar liabilities.

Subsequent costs related to an item of property, plant and equipment are recognized as a separate asset, as appropriate, only when it is probable that future economic benefits associated with the item will flow to the Company and the cost of the item can be measured reliably. The carrying amount of any component accounted for as a separate asset is derecognized when replaced. All other repairs and maintenance are recognized in the standalone statement of profit and loss during the reporting period when they are incurred.

Depreciation methods, estimated useful life and residual value

Depreciation on property, plant and equipment is calculated on a straight line basis using the rates arrived at based on the useful life estimated by the management. The Company has used the following rates to provide depreciation on its property, plant and equipment:

Particulars	Useful life estimated by the management (in years)
Furniture and fixtures	5 to 10
Plant and machinery*	1.5 to 5
Office equipment	2 to 5
Computers	3
Servers and networks	3 to 6
Vehicles	3

Leasehold improvements are depreciated over lower of lease term or 7 years.

Capital work-in-progress includes cost of property, plant and equipment under installation/under development as at the balance sheet date and are not depreciated as these assets are not yet available for use.

The useful life and depreciation method are reviewed at each financial year-end to ensure that the amount, method and period of depreciation are consistent with previous estimates and the expected pattern of consumption of the future economic benefits embodied in the items of property, plant and equipment. The effect of changes in estimates, if any, is taken on a prospective basis.

An item of property, plant and equipment is derecognised upon disposal or when no future economic benefits are expected to arise from the continued use of the asset. The gain or loss arising on the disposal or retirement of an asset is determined as the difference between the sales proceeds and the carrying amount of the asset and is recognised in the standalone statement of profit and loss.

D Intangible assets

Intangible assets acquired separately are measured on initial recognition at cost. The cost of intangible assets acquired in a business combination is their fair value at the date of acquisition. Following initial recognition, intangible assets are carried at cost less any accumulated amortisation and accumulated impairment losses. Internally generated intangibles, excluding capitalised development costs, are not capitalised and the related expenditure is reflected in profit and loss in the period in which the expenditure is incurred.

Software and development cost

Certain direct development costs associated with internally developed software and software enhancements of the Company technology platform are capitalized. Capitalized costs, which occur post determination by management of technical feasibility, include external services and internal payroll costs. These costs are recorded as intangible assets when development is complete and the asset is ready for use, and are amortised on a straight-line basis, generally over a period of 3 to 5 years. Development activities involve a plan or design for the production of new or substantially improved products and processes. Development expenditure is capitalized only if development costs can be measured. Research and pre-feasibility development costs, as well as maintenance and training costs, are expensed as incurred. In certain circumstances, management may determine that previously developed software and its related expense no longer meets management's definition of feasible, which could then result in the impairment of such asset. Incidental operations are not necessary to bring an asset to the condition necessary for it to be capable of operating in the manner intended by management, the income and related expenses of incidental operations are recognized immediately in profit or loss, and included in their respective classifications of income and expense.

The useful life of intangible assets are assessed as either finite or indefinite.

An intangible asset is derecognised on disposal, or when no future economic benefits are expected from use or disposal. Gains or losses arising from derecognition of an intangible asset, measured as the difference between the net disposal proceeds and the carrying amount of the asset, are recognised in standalone statement of profit and loss, when the asset is derecognized.

The estimated useful life and amortization method are reviewed at the end of each reporting period.

Amortization is recognized on a straight-line basis over their estimated useful life which are as follows:

Particulars	Useful life estimated by the management (in years)
Computer software	3
Customer relationship	5
Technology	3-5
Non compete	4.25

E Leases

The Company assesses whether a contract is or contains a lease, at inception of the contract. The Company recognizes a right-of-use asset and a corresponding lease liability with respect to all lease arrangements in which it is the lessee, except for short-term leases (defined as leases with a lease term of 12 months or less) and leases of low value assets (such as office equipment). For these leases, the Company recognizes the lease payments as an operating expense on a straight-line basis over the term of the lease unless another systematic basis is more representative of the time pattern in which economic benefits from the leased assets are consumed.

Lease liabilities

The lease liability is initially measured at the present value of the lease payments that are not paid at the commencement date, discounted by using the rate implicit in the lease. If this rate cannot be readily determined, the Company uses its incremental borrowing rate, being the rate that the individual lessee would have to pay to borrow the funds necessary to obtain an asset of similar value to the right-of-use asset in a similar economic environment with similar terms, security and conditions.

To determine the incremental borrowing rate, the Company, where possible, uses recent bank borrowings obtained by the individual lessees as a starting point, adjusted to reflect changes in financing conditions since the borrowing was received.

Lease payments included in the measurement of the lease liability comprise:

- Fixed lease payments (including in-substance fixed payments), less any lease incentives receivable;
- Variable lease payments that depend on an index or rate, initially measured using the index or rate at the commencement date;
- The amount expected to be payable by the lessee under residual value guarantees;
- The exercise price of purchase options, if the lessee is reasonably certain to exercise the options; and
- Payments of penalties for terminating the lease, if the lease term reflects the exercise of an option to terminate the lease.

The lease liability is presented as a separate line in the standalone balance sheet.

The lease liability is subsequently measured by increasing the carrying amount to reflect interest on the lease liability (using the effective interest method) and by reducing the carrying amount to reflect the lease payments made.

Lease payments are allocated between principal and finance cost. The finance cost is charged to profit or loss over the lease period so as to produce a constant periodic rate of interest on the remaining balance of the liability for each period.

The Company remeasures the lease liability (and makes a corresponding adjustment to the related right-of-use asset) whenever:

- The lease term has changed or there is a significant event or change in circumstances resulting in a change in the assessment of exercise of a purchase option, in which case the lease liability is remeasured by discounting the revised lease payments using a revised discount rate.
- The lease payments change due to changes in an index or rate or a change in expected payment under a guaranteed residual value, in which case the lease liability is remeasured by discounting the revised lease payments using an unchanged discount rate (unless the lease payments change is due to a change in a floating interest rate, in which case a revised discount rate is used).
- A lease contract is modified and the lease modification is not accounted for as a separate lease, in which case the lease liability is remeasured based on the lease term of the modified lease by discounting the revised lease payments using a revised discount rate at the effective date of the modification.

Right-of-use assets

Right-of-use assets comprise the initial measurement of the corresponding lease liability, lease payments made at or before the commencement date, less any lease incentives received and any initial direct costs. They are subsequently measured at cost less accumulated depreciation and impairment losses.

Whenever the Company incurs an obligation for costs to dismantle and remove a leased asset, restore the site on which it is located or restore the underlying asset to the condition required by the terms and conditions of the lease, a provision is recognised and measured under Ind AS 37. To the extent that the costs relate to a right-of-use asset, the costs are included in the related right-of-use asset, unless those costs are incurred to produce inventories.

Right-of-use assets are depreciated over the period of the lease term. If a lessor transfers ownership of the underlying asset or the cost of the right-of-use asset reflects that the Company expects to exercise a purchase option, the related right-of-use asset is depreciated over the useful life of the underlying asset.

The Company applies Ind AS 36 to determine whether a right-of-use asset is impaired and accounts for any identified impairment loss as described in the 'Impairment of non-financial assets' policy.

F Impairment of non-financial assetsGoodwill

Goodwill is not amortised but is reviewed for impairment at least annually. For the purpose of impairment testing, goodwill is allocated to each of the Company's cash-generating units (or group of cash-generating units) expected to benefit from the synergies of the combination.

The Company tests whether goodwill has suffered any impairment on an annual basis at March 31 and when circumstances indicate that the value may be impaired. If the recoverable amount of the cash-generating unit is less than the carrying amount of the unit, the impairment loss is allocated first to reduce the carrying amount of any goodwill allocated to the unit and then to the other assets of the unit pro-rata on the basis of the carrying amount of each asset in the unit. An impairment loss recognised for goodwill is not reversed in a subsequent period. Refer note 44 for a discussion of the model and key assumptions.

On disposal of a cash-generating unit, the attributable amount of goodwill is included in the determination of the profit or loss on disposal.

Intangible assets, property, plant and equipment and right-of-use assets

At each reporting date, the Company reviews the carrying amounts of its property, plant and equipment, intangible assets and right-of-use assets to determine whether there is any indication that those assets have suffered an impairment loss. If any such indication exists, the recoverable amount of the asset is estimated to determine the extent of the impairment loss (if any). Where the asset does not generate cash flows that are independent from other assets, the Company estimates the recoverable amount of the cash-generating unit to which the asset belongs. When a reasonable and consistent basis of allocation can be identified, corporate assets are also allocated to individual cash-generating units, or otherwise they are allocated to the smallest group of cash-generating units for which a reasonable and consistent allocation basis can be identified.

Recoverable amount is the higher of fair value less costs of disposal and value in use. In assessing value in use, the estimated future cash flows are discounted to their present value using a pre-tax discount rate that reflects current market assessments of the time value of money and the risks specific to the asset for which the estimates of future cash flows have not been adjusted.

If the recoverable amount of an asset (or cash-generating unit) is estimated to be less than its carrying amount, the carrying amount of the asset (or cash-generating unit) is reduced to its recoverable amount. An impairment loss is recognised immediately in profit or loss.

Where an impairment loss subsequently reverses, the carrying amount of the asset (or cash-generating unit) is increased to the revised estimate of its recoverable amount, but so that the increased carrying amount does not exceed the carrying amount that would have been determined had no impairment loss been recognised for the asset (or cash-generating unit) in prior years. A reversal of an impairment loss is recognised immediately in profit or loss to the extent that it eliminates the impairment loss which has been recognised for the asset in prior years.

G Inventories

Inventories are stated at the lower of cost and net realisable value. Costs comprise direct material, pre-purchased voucher cost, pre-purchased prepaid cards, direct labour cost and direct overheads incurred (as applicable), in bringing the inventories to their present location and condition. Inventory is valued on weighted average cost basis. Net realisable value is the estimated selling price in the ordinary course of business less estimated cost necessary to make the sale.

Where necessary, allowance is provided for damaged, obsolete and slow-moving items to adjust the carrying value of inventories to the lower of cost and net realisable value.

H Employee benefits

Employee benefits include provident fund, employee state insurance scheme, gratuity, compensated absences and other incentives to employees.

a. Post-employment and termination benefit costs

Payments to defined contribution retirement benefit plans, such as provident fund, employee state insurance scheme and pension schemes, are recognised as an expense when employees have rendered service entitling them to the contributions.

For defined benefit retirement benefit plans such as gratuity and other post-employment defined benefit retirement plans, the cost of providing benefits is determined using the Projected Unit Credit Method, with actuarial valuations being carried out at the end of each annual reporting period. Remeasurements comprising actuarial gains and losses are recognised immediately in the balance sheet with a charge or credit to other comprehensive income in the period in which they occur. Remeasurements recognised in other comprehensive income are not reclassified. Past service cost is recognised in profit and loss when the plan amendment or curtailment occurs. Gains or losses on settlement of a defined benefit plan are recognised when the settlement occurs. Net interest is calculated by applying a discount rate to the net defined benefit liability or asset. Defined benefit costs are split into three categories:

- service costs, which includes current service cost, past service cost and gains and losses on curtailments and settlements
- interest expense or income; and
- remeasurements.

The Company recognises service costs within standalone statement of profit and loss as Gratuity and other defined benefit plans expenses under employee benefits expense.

Net interest expense or income is recognised within employee benefits expense.

b. Short term and other long-term employee benefits

A liability is recognised for benefits accruing to employees in respect of salaries, annual leave and sick leave, performance incentives etc. in the period the related service is rendered at the undiscounted amount of the benefits expected to be paid in exchange for that service.

Liabilities recognised in respect of short-term employee benefits are measured at the undiscounted amount of the benefits expected to be paid in exchange for the related service.

Accumulated leave, which is expected to be utilized within the next twelve months, is treated as short-term employee benefit.

The Company treats accumulated leave and long-term service award expected to be carried forward beyond twelve months, as long-term employee benefit for measurement purposes. Such long-term compensated absences and long-term service award are provided for based on the actuarial valuation using the projected unit credit method at the year-end. Actuarial gain/loss are immediately taken to the standalone statement of profit and loss and are not deferred.

c. Share-based payments

The employees of the Company have been granted stock options by Pine Labs Limited, the Parent Company.

The Company recognizes and measures compensation expense for all share-based awards based on the grant date fair value as per Ind AS 102, share based payments. For option awards, grant date fair value is determined under the option-pricing model (Black-Scholes-Method). The Company recognizes compensation expense for share based awards net of estimated forfeitures. Share-based compensation recognized in the standalone Statement of Profit and Loss is based on options ultimately expected to vest. As a result, the expense has been reduced for estimated forfeitures. Forfeitures are estimated at the time of grant and revised, if necessary, in subsequent periods if actual forfeitures differ from those estimates. The cost is recognised, together with a corresponding increase in liability towards payable to Parent Company, over the period in which the performance and/or service conditions are fulfilled in employee share option expense under employee compensation. The movement in cumulative expense recognised as at the beginning and end of that period is recognised in employee share option expense under employee compensation in the standalone statement of profit and loss.

I Provisions and contingent liabilities

Provisions are recognised when the Company has a present obligation (legal or constructive) as a result of a past event, it is probable that an outflow of resources embodying economic benefits will be required to settle the obligation and the amount of the obligation can be estimated reliably.

The amount recognised as a provision is the best estimate of the consideration required to settle the present obligation at the reporting date, taking into account the risks and uncertainties surrounding the obligation.

Provisions are reviewed at the end of each reporting period and adjusted to reflect the current best estimate. If it is no longer probable that an outflow of economic resources will be required to settle the obligation, the provision is reversed.

Where the Company expects some or all of a provision to be reimbursed, the reimbursement is recognised as a separate asset but only when the reimbursement is virtually certain. The expense relating to any provision is presented in the standalone statement of profit and loss net of any reimbursement.

Contingent liability

A contingent liability is:

a) a possible obligation that arises from past events and whose existence will be confirmed only by the occurrence or non-occurrence of one or more uncertain future events not wholly within the control of the Company; or

b) a present obligation that arises from past events but is not recognised because:

- (i) It is not probable that an outflow of resources embodying economic benefits will be required to settle the obligation; or
- (ii) The amount of the obligation cannot be measured with sufficient reliability.

The Company does not recognise a contingent liability but discloses its existence in the standalone financial statements.

J Revenue from contract with customer

- A. Digital payments
- B. Issuing

Revenue from contracts with customers is recognized when control of the goods or services is transferred to the customer at an amount that reflects the consideration to which the Company expects to be entitled in exchange for those goods or services.

For the purpose of revenue recognition, the Company determines whether revenue should be recognized on a gross or net basis, which depends on which party controls the good or service before it is transferred to the customer, and whether the Company is acting as a principal or an agent to the transaction. The assessment is performed separately for each performance obligation identified.

No significant element of financing is deemed present as the sales are made with credit terms consistent with market practice.

A. Digital payments

The revenue under Digital payments is derived from following:

(a) Merchant Services

Transaction and processing services revenue is comprised of: 1) fees calculated based on percentage of the monetary value of transaction processed; 2) fees calculated based on number of transactions processed; 3) fixed monthly amounts; 4) combinations thereof that are associated with transaction and processing services. The Company typically contracts with financial institutions, merchants, or affiliates of those parties. Contracts stipulate the types of processing services and articulate how fees will be incurred and calculated.

The Company's core performance obligations are to stand ready to provide continuous access to electronic payment and transaction processing services in order to be able to process as many transactions as clients require on a daily basis over the contract term and the consideration received is contingent upon the clients' use (i.e., number of payment transactions processed, number of cards on file, etc.); as such, the total transaction price is variable. These services are stand ready obligations, as the timing and quantity of transactions to be processed is not determinable. Under a stand-ready obligation, the performance obligation is defined by each time increment rather than by the underlying activities satisfied over time based on days elapsed. Because the service of standing ready is substantially the same each day and has the same pattern of transfer to the client, the Company has determined that its stand-ready performance obligation comprises a series of distinct days of service. The performance obligation to stand ready to provide continued access to transaction and processing services is satisfied equally over time and therefore, the progress is measured on a time basis. Transaction based fee represents variable consideration for which the criteria for permitting allocation of the variable consideration to distinct days of service that forms part of the single performance obligation are met, namely:

- the terms of the variable payment relate specifically to its efforts to satisfy the distinct service on a particular day (i.e. it reflects the number of transactions processed on a particular day); and
- allocating the variable amount of consideration entirely to the distinct service on a particular day is consistent with the allocation objective when considering all of the performance obligations and payment terms in the contract.

Fees for transaction and processing services are recognized each day based on the volume or transaction count at the time the merchants' transactions are processed. In case of fixed monthly amounts, revenue is recognised as and when it is accrued based on the contractual rates agreed with customers.

Pine Labs Private Limited

(Amount in Indian Rupees (INR) lakhs, except per share data, unless otherwise stated)

(b) Aggregator services

The Company offers merchant aggregator services to various merchants by way of facilitating the processing and settlement of transactions between the merchants and the acquirer banks, regardless of which issuing bank and card network to which the transaction relates. Revenue comprises settlement fees paid by merchants, usually as a percentage of the transaction value. The Company frequently enters into agreements with merchants under which the merchant engages the Company to provide both payment authorization services and transaction settlement services for all of the cardholder transactions of the merchant, regardless of which issuing bank and card network to which the transaction relates. The Company's core performance obligations are to stand ready to provide continuous access to the payment authorization services and transaction processing and settlement services in order to be able to process as many transactions as the merchants require on a daily basis over the contract term. These services are stand ready obligations, as the timing and quantity of transactions to be processed is not determinable. Under a stand-ready obligation, the performance obligation is defined by each time increment rather than by the underlying activities satisfied over time based on days elapsed. Because the service of standing ready is substantially the same each day and has the same pattern of transfer to the merchant, the Company has determined that the stand-ready performance obligation comprises a series of distinct days of service. The performance obligation to stand ready to provide continued access to transaction processing and settlement services is satisfied equally over time and therefore, the progress is measured on a time basis. Transaction based fee represents variable consideration for which the criteria for permitting allocation of the variable consideration to distinct days of service that forms part of the single performance obligation are met, namely:

- the terms of the variable payment relate specifically to its efforts to satisfy the distinct service on a particular day (i.e. it reflects the number of transactions processed on a particular day); and
- allocating the variable amount of consideration entirely to the distinct service on a particular day is consistent with the allocation objective when considering all of the performance obligations and payment terms in the contract.

Fees for transaction processing and settlement services is recognized each day based on the volume or transaction count at the time the merchants' transactions are processed.

The Company follows the requirements of Ind AS 115 Revenue from Contracts with Customers—Principal versus Agent Considerations, which states that the determination of whether a Company should recognize revenue based on the gross amount billed to a client or the net amount retained is a matter of judgment that depends on the facts and circumstances of the arrangement. The determination of gross versus net recognition of revenue requires judgment that depends on whether the Company controls the good or service before it is transferred to the merchant or whether the Company is acting as an agent of a third party. The assessment is performed separately for each performance obligation identified. Under the agreements, the Company incurs assessment fees and interconnect or network pass-through charges from the card issuers and card networks, related to the provision of payment authorization and settlement services.

Transaction processing and settlement fees are recognized net of assessment fees and card association fees (i.e. interconnect or interchange fees charged by intermediaries like Visa/Master card) paid to the acquiring banks / financial institutions and service fees paid to the technology service provider, since the Company is acting only as an agent in respect of these charges, due to the following reasons:

- (i) The Company does not have discretion in choosing the payment network and is unable to direct the activity of the merchant to another payment network;
- (ii) Payment network rates are pre-established by the card payment networks and card issuers and the Company does not have latitude in determining the assessment fees and card association fees;
- (iii) The Company is not primarily responsible for the authorization and settlement services performed by payment networks and card issuers but, only arrange for these services to the merchant.

Both the Company and the acquiring bank have primary obligation to provide their part of the services to merchant i.e. the Company is a principal for some specified services (i.e. provision of POS solutions) and agent for others (i.e. services provided by the acquiring banks).

Transaction processing and settlement fees are recognized net of assessment fees and card association fees paid to the acquiring banks / financial institutions and service fees paid to the technology service provider, however when the assessment fees and card association fees is higher than the transaction processing and settlement fees earned from the customer, the excess amount is classified as other expenses in standalone statement of profit and loss.

The Company also earn one-time POS installation and program integration fee for provision of installation service of POS solution to clients (refer below "Subscription based and other services").

(c) Buy Now Pay Later (BNPL) services

For transaction, processing and settlement services, wherein the merchant/issuer bank/brand partners run an equated monthly instalment (EMI) scheme for cardholder transactions, the Company has a performance obligation to provide its platform for running the scheme. In exchange, the Company charges a service fee per transaction in the EMI scheme, in addition to the transaction processing fee. Revenue from such services is recognized at a point in time, upon processing of EMI scheme on each eligible transaction and the amount is billed to merchant/issuer bank/brand partners.

(d) Cash back services

For transaction, processing and settlement services, wherein the merchant/issuer bank/brand partners run various cash back schemes for eligible cardholders, the Company has a performance obligation to provide its platform for running the schemes for the participating brands and issuer banks. In exchange, the Company charges a service fee per transaction in the said scheme, in addition to the transaction processing fee. Revenue from such services is recognized at a point in time, upon processing of each eligible transaction and the amount is billed to merchant/issuer bank/brand partners.

(e) Multiple Performance Obligations

Arrangements may contain multiple performance obligations, such as, transaction settlement services, hardware, software products, maintenance, and professional installation and training services. Revenues are allocated to each performance obligation based on the standalone selling price of each good or service.

Revenues from sales of combined hardware and software element are recognized when each performance obligation has been satisfied which has been determined to be upon the delivery of the product. Revenues derived from service fees are recognized at the time the services are performed and there are no further performance obligations. Professional services, including training, installation, and repair services are recognized as revenue as these services are performed.

(f) Subscription based and other services

The Company has contracts with customers to provide subscription-based services, in the form of one-time installation of hardware/software or both, one time solution implementation fee, one-time integration, setup and technology fee, infrastructure fee etc., either independently or bundled with transaction, processing and settlement services. These services are generally billed to the customers upfront. However, the underlying obligation to keep up and run the software and hardware or platform continues for the entire period of the contract with customer in case of subscription based services, and the pattern of benefits to the customer from such services rendered is generally even, throughout the period of contract. Revenue against such upfront subscription fee is recognized on a straight-line basis over a period of time (i.e. either the contractual term or estimated period of customer relationship, as the case may be).

(Amount in Indian Rupees (INR) lakhs, except per share data, unless otherwise stated)

Revenue from other services is recognized in accordance with the terms of the contract, including revenue from software licensing and maintenance. The Company's software licensing and maintenance services are considered distinct and are generally recognized at their standalone selling prices when the software code is delivered to the client and over the maintenance period respectively. The Company recognizes revenue from other services when the service is rendered.

(g) Digitization of fuel stations

The Company sells hardware and other peripherals as part of its contracts with customers in respect of digitization of fuel stations. The Company accounts for sale and installation of hardware as a single performance obligation and recognizes the revenue at its transaction price when the customer obtains control of the hardware/other peripherals and accepts the installation.

B. Issuing

The revenue under Issuing is derived from the following:

(a) Gift solutions

The Company provides gift cards and/or stored value card solutions to various retail and corporate customers.

Revenue from Gift card solutions is comprised of a) Processing services for Semi Closed Loop Programs (SCLP), Closed Loop Programs (CLP), other store value cards and b) Distribution revenue, with respect to various categories of gift cards i.e. Woohoo gift cards and other brand gift cards.

Processing services

Processing services revenue majorly comprise of fees for Gift card program management services offered on Software as a service i.e. "SaaS" solution to Merchants or brand vendors. The Company also earn one-time program initiation and implementation fee for integration and migration of data between Merchants or brand vendors' platform and the Company's platform (refer policy on "Subscription based services"). Contracts with merchants or brand vendors stipulate the types of processing services and articulate how fees will be accrued and calculated.

The Company's core performance obligations include (may be all or combination of any):

- Issue of co-brand cards, other brand cards, prepaid or postpaid cards redeemable on Merchants or brand vendor's website or application;
- Establish, maintain and administer the gift card program to facilitate issuance and redemption of gift cards issued;
- Provision of dedicated IT infrastructure and related annual maintenance

Processing fee is charged on the value of gift cards/vouchers activated or reloaded or redeemed (as per the arrangements with merchant or brand vendors) and billed to the merchants or brand vendors based on the monthly reports generated. These services are stand ready obligations, as the timing and volume of gift cards/ vouchers to be processed is not determinable. Because the service of standing ready is substantially the same each point in time the gift cards/ vouchers are activated or reloaded or redeemed and has the same pattern of transfer to the merchants or brand vendors, the Company has determined that its stand-ready performance obligation comprises a series of distinct services. The performance obligation to stand ready to provide continued access to gift card program is satisfied equally over time and therefore, the progress is measured on a time basis. Processing fee represents variable consideration for which the criteria for permitting allocation of the variable consideration to distinct days of service that forms part of the single performance obligation are met, namely:

- the terms of the variable payment relate specifically to its efforts to satisfy the distinct service on a particular day (i.e. it reflects the value of gift cards/ vouchers activated or reloaded or redeemed on a particular day); and
- allocating the variable amount of consideration entirely to the distinct service on a particular day is consistent with the allocation objective when considering all of the performance obligations and payment terms in the contract.

Processing fees are recognized at a point in time on each activation or reload or redemption of gift cards/ vouchers.

Distribution revenue

Distribution revenue majorly comprises margin/commission income from merchant or brand vendors for facilitating distribution of gift cards to retail or corporate customers net of margin/commission passed on to end customers which comprises pass-through cost. Contracts with merchants or brand vendors stipulate the type of distribution revenue and articulate how fees will be accrued and calculated.

Margin/commission income is charged on the value of gift cards/vouchers activated or reloaded or redeemed (as per the arrangements with merchant or brand vendors) and billed to the merchants or brand vendors based on the monthly reports generated. Margin/commission income are recognized at a point in time when such sale is made.

Distribution of other brand gift cards

For distribution of other brand gift cards through all the channels of the Company, as the Company is acting merely as an agent plus the obligation on Company being only to provide the gift cards to the customer, revenue is recognised at a point in time when such sale is made. For Company's Prepaid Payment Instruments (PPI) cards, revenue is recognized at a point in time upon activation/redemption as per the terms of agreement with co-branding partner.

The Company follows the requirements of Ind AS 115 Revenue from Contracts with Customers—Principal versus Agent Considerations, which states that the determination of whether a Company should recognize revenue based on the gross amount billed to a client or the net amount retained is a matter of judgment that depends on the facts and circumstances of the arrangement. The determination of gross versus net recognition of revenue requires judgment that depends on whether the Company controls the good or service before it is transferred to the merchant or whether the Company is acting as an agent of a third party. The assessment is performed separately for each performance obligation identified. Processing and distribution revenue arising from Semi Closed Loop Programs (SCLP), Open Loop Programs (OLP), Closed Loop Programs (CLP) and other brand gift cards are recognized net of discount passed on to end customers (either retail or corporate), since:

- the Company is only providing or granting or reselling the options to customers or end users (on behalf of Brand) to purchase additional goods or services from the brands by using the gift cards. Such sale of gift cards is in the nature of distribution of gift cards of another party (brands) to transfer goods or services to a customer by a third party;
- the Company does not control the gift cards and associated services before it is transferred to end customers.
- The Company is not responsible for honouring the promise to provide the specified good or service pertaining to the gift cards. The gift card issuer (i.e. merchant or brand vendor) is primary obligor for the redemption of gift cards;
- the Company does not carry any inventory risk / loss since these cards are issued on real time basis and the Company does not hold inventory at any time;
- the discretion of determining the discount to be allowed to end customer is either jointly controlled by the merchant or brand vendor and Company, or completely by the merchant or brand vendor.

For other brands cards wherein the Company maintains the inventory of the cards and has significant latitude over the pricing of the cards, the Company is acting as a principal, and revenue is recognized on a gross basis, for value of cards sold, at a point in time when such sale is made.

Woohoo gift cards:

In case of distribution of woohoo gift cards and certain card programs, the Company is entitled to incoming margin (i.e. discount received) at the time of redemption of gift cards as a percentage of the value of cards redeemed. In case of expiry of the gift cards, the Company is entitled to breakage revenue.

Network Cards :

In case of network cards, the Company incurs the cost in advance (in form of discount allowed to the user). The same is directly attributable to provision of such service and generation of underlying revenue from such programs. The Company recognises the upfront cost incurred as asset and accordingly recognises the same at the time of recognition of associated revenue or satisfaction of performance obligation (i.e. amortised in proportion of pattern of redemption of such cards).

Semi Closed Loop Programs (SCLP)

For all SCLP gift card programs, the Company's performance obligation being met only on redemption of the co-branded cards issued, revenue is recognised at the point in time when the gift cards are redeemed.

Closed Loop Programs (CLP)

For all CLP gift card programs, the Company's performance obligation is to provide technology throughout the life cycle of the gift cards. As the performance obligation is being met over the period revenue is recognised over the period of such contracts based on the agreed model of activation or redemption.

(b) Breakage revenue

As per Para B46 of Ind AS 115, If an entity expects to be entitled to a breakage amount in a contract liability, the entity shall recognise the expected breakage amount as revenue in proportion to the pattern of rights exercised by the customer. If an entity does not expect to be entitled to a breakage amount, the entity shall recognise the expected breakage amount as revenue when the likelihood of the customer exercising its remaining rights becomes remote.

In line with requirement of the standard as given above, the Company estimates the breakage it expects to be entitled to as the amount for which it is highly probable that a significant reversal will not occur in the future. The Company uses a portfolio of similar transactions as a source of data to estimate expected breakage for an individual contract if it has a sufficiently large number of similar transactions or other history. The estimated amount is recognised as revenue in proportion to the pattern of rights exercised by the user (proportional method). The assessment of estimated breakage is updated at each reporting period. Changes in estimated breakage is accounted for by adjusting the contract liability to reflect the remaining rights expected to be redeemed.

Accordingly, the Company recognises revenue only at the time of redemption of such cards.

(c) Variable consideration

If the consideration in a contract includes a variable amount, the Company estimates the amount of consideration to which it will be entitled in exchange for transferring the goods to the customer. The variable consideration is estimated at contract inception and constrained until it is highly probable that a significant revenue reversal in the amount of cumulative revenue recognized will not occur when the associated uncertainty with the variable consideration is subsequently resolved. Some gift card arrangements comprise the provision of payment of co-branding fee and efficiency payout to the merchants or brand vendor which give rise to variable consideration as explained below:

- Co-branding fee: The end user of co-branded cards and co-branding partner, both are customers for the Company. On sale of co-branded cards on the platform of co-branding partner, Company pays co-branding fee to the co-branding partner. It is construed as consideration payable to customer not in exchange for a distinct good or service. Such co-branding fee is considered as variable consideration and are included in determining the transaction price i.e. recognised as a reduction from the underlying revenue.

- In addition to above, the Company also makes certain other payments to co-branding partners, like program promotion support fees which are considered as consideration payable to customer. Since these give rise to variable consideration, these are included in determining the transaction price i.e. recognised as a reduction from the underlying revenue.

(d) Other revenueInterest on funds held for customers

The Company also earns revenue from interest earned on funds held for customers in case of SCLP gift card program for provision of distribution services. Interest is earned on these funds that are initially deposited into the Company's escrow accounts maintained separately from the Company's operating cash accounts until these balances are cleared and credited to the intended recipient i.e. end user or merchant. Interest income is recognized using the effective interest method.

Deferred revenue

The Company records deferred revenue when it receives services fees in advance of transferring control of promised goods or services to a customer. A significant portion of this balance relates to service contracts where the Company received services fees from customers for upfront subscription based and other services (as mentioned above) which do not transfer value to the customer but rather are used in fulfilling the related performance obligations that transfer over time.

The service fees received is deferred over the contract term or longer period if it provides the customer a material right. The deferred revenue is recognized when underlying performance obligations are delivered.

Contract balancesTrade receivables

A receivable represents the Company's right to an amount of consideration that is unconditional (i.e., only the passage of time is required before payment of the consideration is due). Refer to accounting policies of financial assets in section 2.2.B of Financial Instruments.

Contract liabilities

A contract liability is the obligation to transfer goods or services to a customer for which the Company has received consideration (or an amount of consideration is due) from the customer. If a customer pays consideration before the Company transfers goods or services to the customer, a contract liability is recognized when the payment is made, or the payment is due (whichever is earlier). Contract liabilities are recognized as revenue when the Company performs its obligations under the contract. Contract liability comprises "advance from customers and liability for unredeemed gift cards" and "Deferred revenue" in the standalone financial statements.

Contract assets

A contract asset is the right to consideration in exchange of goods or services transferred to the customer. If the Company performs its obligations by transferring goods or services to a customer before the customer pays consideration or before payment is due, a contract asset is recognized for the earned consideration excluding any amounts presented as a receivable.

K Recognition of interest income or expense

Interest income or expense is recognised using the effective interest method.

The 'effective interest rate' is the rate that exactly discounts estimated future cash payments or receipts through the expected life of the financial instrument to:

- the gross carrying amount of the financial asset; or
- the amortised cost of the financial liability.

In calculating interest income and expense, the effective interest rate is applied to the gross carrying amount of the asset (when the asset is not credit-impaired) or to the amortised cost of the liability. However, for financial assets that have become credit-impaired subsequent to initial recognition, interest income is calculated by applying the effective interest rate to the amortised cost of the financial asset. If the asset is no longer credit-impaired, then the calculation of interest income reverts to the gross basis.

L Income taxes

The income tax expense represents the sum of the current tax and deferred tax.

Current income tax

The primary tax jurisdiction of the Company is India. The tax currently payable is based on taxable profit for the year. Taxable profit differs from net profit as reported in profit or loss because it excludes items of income or expense that are taxable or deductible in other years and it further excludes items that are never taxable or deductible. The Company's liability for current tax is calculated using tax rates that have been enacted or substantively enacted by the end of the reporting period.

A provision is recognized for those matters for which the tax determination is uncertain, but it is considered probable that there will be a future outflow of funds to a tax authority. The provisions are measured at the best estimate of the amount expected to become payable. The assessment is based on the judgement of tax professionals within the Company supported by previous experience in respect of such activities and in certain cases based on specialist independent tax advice.

Deferred tax

Deferred tax is the tax expected to be payable or recoverable on differences between the carrying amounts of assets and liabilities in the financial statements and the corresponding tax bases used in the computation of taxable profit. Deferred tax liabilities are generally recognised for all taxable temporary differences and deferred tax assets are recognised to the extent that it is probable that taxable profits will be available against which deductible temporary differences can be utilised. Such assets and liabilities are not recognised if the temporary difference arises from the initial recognition (other than in a business combination) of other assets and liabilities in a transaction that affects neither the taxable profit nor the accounting profit.

Deferred tax assets are recognised for unused tax losses, unused tax credits and deductible temporary differences to the extent that it is probable that future taxable profits will be available against which they can be used. Future taxable profits are determined based on the reversal of relevant taxable temporary differences. If the amount of taxable temporary differences is insufficient to recognise a deferred tax asset in full, then future taxable profits, adjusted for reversals of existing temporary differences, are considered, based on the business plans for the Company. Deferred tax assets are reviewed at each reporting date and are reduced to the extent that it is no longer probable that the related tax benefit will be realised, such reductions are reversed when the probability of future taxable profits improves.

The carrying amount of deferred tax assets is reviewed at each reporting date and reduced to the extent that it is no longer probable that sufficient taxable profits will be available to allow all or part of the asset to be recovered.

Deferred tax is calculated at the tax rates that are expected to apply in the period when the liability is settled, or the asset is realised based on tax laws and rates that have been enacted or substantively enacted at the reporting date.

Deferred tax assets and liabilities are offset when there is a legally enforceable right to set off current tax assets against current tax liabilities and when they relate to income taxes levied by the same taxation authority and the Company intends to settle its current tax assets and liabilities on a net basis.

Current tax and deferred tax for the year

Current and deferred tax are recognised in profit or loss, except when they relate to items that are recognised in other comprehensive income or directly in equity, in which case, the current and deferred tax are also recognised in other comprehensive income or directly in equity respectively. Where current tax or deferred tax arises from the initial accounting for a business combination, the tax effect is included in the accounting for the business combination.

M Cash and cash equivalents

Cash and cash equivalents in the standalone balance sheet comprises cash at bank and on hand, deposits and other short-term highly liquid investments with an original maturity of three months or less that are readily convertible to a known amount of cash and are subject to an insignificant risk of change in value.

N Earnings per share

Basic earnings (loss) per share is computed using the weighted average number of equity shares outstanding during the period. Diluted earnings (loss) per share is computed using the weighted-average number of equity and dilutive equivalent shares outstanding during the period, except where the results would be anti-dilutive.

The number of equity shares and potentially dilutive equity shares are adjusted retrospectively for all periods presented for any splits and bonus shares issues including for changes effected prior to the approval of the financial statements by the Board of Directors.

O Borrowing costs

Borrowing costs consist of interest and other costs that an entity incurs in connection with the borrowing of funds. Borrowing cost also includes exchange differences to the extent regarded as an adjustment to the borrowing costs.

Borrowing costs directly attributable to the acquisition, construction or production of an asset that necessarily takes a substantial period of time to get ready for its intended use or sale are capitalised as part of the cost of the asset. Borrowing costs incurred for the period from commencement of activities relating to construction/ development of the qualifying asset up to the date of capitalisation of such asset are added to the cost of the asset. All other borrowing costs are expensed in the period in which they occur.

In case of a specific borrowing taken for the purpose of acquisition, construction or production of a qualifying asset, the borrowing costs capitalised shall be the actual borrowing costs incurred during the period less any interest income earned on temporary investment of specific borrowing pending expenditure on qualifying asset.

In case funds are borrowed generally and such funds are used for the purpose of acquisition, construction or production of a qualifying asset, the borrowing costs capitalised are calculated by applying the weighted average capitalisation rate on general borrowings outstanding during the period, to the expenditures incurred on the qualifying asset.

If any specific borrowing remains outstanding after the related asset is ready for its intended use, that borrowing is considered part of the funds that are borrowed generally for calculating the capitalisation rate.

P Current versus non-current classification

The Company presents assets and liabilities in the standalone balance sheet based on current/non-current classification. An asset is current when it is:

- Expected to be realized or intended to be sold or consumed in the normal operating cycle
- Held primarily for the purpose of trading
- Expected to be realized within twelve months after the reporting period or
- Cash or cash equivalent unless restricted from being exchanged or used to settle a liability for at least twelve months after the reporting period

All other assets are classified as non-current.

A liability is current when:

- It is expected to be settled in the normal operating cycle
- It is held primarily for the purpose of trading
- It is due to be settled within twelve months after the reporting period or
- There is no unconditional right to defer the settlement of the liability for at least twelve months after the reporting period

The Company classifies all other liabilities as non-current.

Deferred tax assets and liabilities are classified as non-current assets and liabilities.

The operating cycle is the time between the acquisition of assets for processing/servicing and their realisation in cash and cash equivalents. The Company has identified a period less than twelve months as its operating cycle.

Q Funds held for customers and customer fund deposits liability

Funds held for customers and the corresponding liability on customer fund deposits represent funds that are collected from customers for payments to their suppliers and funds that are collected on behalf of customers. Generally, these funds held for customers are initially deposited in separate bank accounts until remitted to the customers' suppliers or to the customers. The funds held for customers are restricted for the purpose of satisfying the customers' fund obligations and are not available for general business use by the Company.

R Share capital and share issuance expenses

Proceeds from issuance of equity shares are recognised as share capital in equity. Incremental costs directly attributable to the issuance of equity shares are deducted against share capital, if any.

S Government Grant

Government grants are recognised at their fair value when there is a reasonable assurance that the grant will be received and all attached conditions will be complied with. When the grant relates to an expense item, it is deferred and recognised as income in the Statement of profit and loss and other comprehensive income on a systematic basis over the periods necessary to match the related costs, which they are intended to compensate. When the grant relates to an asset or a non-monetary item, it is recognised as deferred income under liabilities and is recognised as income in the Standalone statement of profit and loss on a straight line basis over the expected useful life of the related asset or a non-monetary item.

T The Company has adopted applicable amendments effective from 1 April 2023 with respect to Ind AS 1-Presentation of Financial Statements, Ind AS 12-Income Taxes and Ind AS 8-Accounting Policies, Changes in Accounting Estimates and Errors. (ii) For all other financial instruments, the carrying amount is either the fair value, or approximates the fair value. Investment in equity instruments is valued using Net asset method. Net asset value is calculated as the book value of total assets after deduction of book value of total liabilities.

34 Financial risk management

The Company's activities expose it to a variety of financial risks: market risk (including currency risk and interest rate risk), credit risk and liquidity risk. The Company's senior management oversees the management of these risks. The senior professionals working to manage the financial risks and the appropriate financial risk governance framework for the Company are accountable to the Board. This process provides assurance to the Company's senior management that the Company's financial risk-taking activities are governed by appropriate policies and procedures and that financial risks are identified, measured and managed in accordance with the Company policies and risk objectives.

(A) Credit risk

Credit risk is the risk that a counter party will not meet its obligations under a financial instrument or customer contract, leading to a financial loss. The Company is exposed to credit risk from its operating activities (primarily trade receivables and contract assets) and from its financing activities, including deposits with banks, and financial institutions, and other financial assets. Management has a credit policy in place and the exposure to credit risk is monitored on an ongoing basis. Financial assets are written off when there are indicators that there is no reasonable expectation of recovery.

Trade receivables and contract assets

Trade receivables and contract assets are non interest bearing and are generally on 30 to 90 days credit term. The Company has no concentration of credit risk as the customer base is widely distributed both economically and geographically.

Credit risk has always been managed by the Company through credit approvals, establishing credit limits and continuously monitoring the creditworthiness of customers to which the Company grants credit terms in the normal course of business. In accordance with Ind AS 109, the group applies expected credit loss model (ECL) for measurement and recognition of impairment loss. The Company follows 'simplified approach' for recognition of impairment loss allowance on trade receivables and contract assets. The Company determines the expected credit losses on these items by using flow rate, estimates based on historical credit loss experience of past due status of the debtors, adjusted as appropriate to reflect current conditions and estimates of future economic conditions. Management also exercises judgment in specific cases and basis past experience makes additional impairment loss provisions. These include trade receivables associated with litigations, balances related to customer who have not transacted/ paid for more than a specific period and other reasons.

The carrying amounts of financial assets represent the maximum credit risk exposure. The Company does not hold collateral as security except in case of issuing business where the Company holds insurance cover for trade receivable basis internal assessment for specified customers.

The Company's credit risk exposure in relation to trade receivables and contract assets under Ind AS 109 as at 31 March 2024 and 31 March 2023 are set out as follows:

Other financial instruments and term deposits

Credit risk from balances with banks and financial institutions is managed by Company's treasury. Investments of surplus funds are made only with approved counterparties who meet the minimum threshold requirements under the counterparty risk assessment process. The Company monitors ratings, credit spreads and financial strength of its counter parties. Based on its on-going assessment of counterparty risk, the Company adjusts its exposure to various counterparties. Counterparty credit limits are set to minimise the concentration of risks.

Cash and cash equivalents, earmarked balances with banks and fixed deposits

The Company held cash and cash equivalents of INR 51,110 lakhs (31 March 2023: INR 39,055 lakhs), earmarked balances with banks of INR 423,490 lakhs (31 March 2023: INR 372,082 lakhs) and fixed deposits of INR 12,561 lakhs (31 March 2023: 31,290 lakhs) with banks which are considered to have low credit risk.

Security deposits

The Company monitors the credit rating of the counterparties on regular basis. These instruments carry very minimal credit risk based on the financial position of parties and Company's historical experience of dealing with the parties.

(B) Liquidity risk

Liquidity risk is the risk that the Company may not be able to meet its present and future cash and collateral obligations without incurring unacceptable losses. Ultimate responsibility for liquidity risk management rests with the board of directors, which has established an appropriate liquidity risk management framework for management of the Company's short, medium and long-term funding and liquidity management requirements. The Company manages liquidity risk by maintaining adequate reserves, banking facilities and reserve borrowing facilities, by continuously monitoring forecast and actual cash flows, and by matching the maturity profiles of financial assets and liabilities. The Company closely monitors its liquidity position and deploys a cash management system. It maintains adequate sources of financing including loans, debt, cash credit and overdraft facilities from banks. (C) Market risk

Market risk is the risk that the fair value or future cash flows of a financial instrument will fluctuate because of changes in market prices. Market prices comprise three types of risk: foreign currency rate risk, interest rate risk and other price risks, such as equity risk. Market risk is attributable to all market risk sensitive financial instruments including foreign currency receivables, payables, borrowings and investment in mutual funds. The Company has in place appropriate risk management policies to limit the impact of these risks on its financial performance.

The Company's activities expose it to a variety of financial risks, including the effects of changes in foreign currency exchange rates and interest rates. Currently, no interest rate swaps or forward contracts are taken to cover any foreign currency fluctuations and interest rate risk.

(i) Interest rate risk

Interest rate risk is the risk that the fair value or future cash flows of a financial instrument will fluctuate because of changes in market interest rates. The Company's exposure to the risk of changes in market interest rates relates primarily to the Company's debt interest obligations, except in case of borrowings from a financial institution. Further, the Company engages in financing activities at both fixed and market linked rates. Any changes in the market linked interest rates environment may impact future rates of market linked borrowing. The board continuously monitors the prevailing interest rates in the market.

Sensitivity

With all other variables held constant, the following table demonstrates the sensitivity to a reasonably possible change in interest rates on floating rate portion of borrowings (excluding cash credit facilities).

Particulars	Impact on loss (increase/(decrease))
	31 March 2024	31 March 2023
Interest rate (increase by 100 basis points)	233	138
Interest rate (decrease by 100 basis points)	(233)	(138)

The assumed movement in basis points for interest rate sensitivity analysis is based on the currently observable market environment, assuming other variables to be constant.

(ii) Foreign currency risk

Foreign currency risk is the risk that the fair value or future cash flows of a financial instrument will fluctuate because of changes in foreign currency exchange rates. Fluctuations in foreign currency exchange rates may have an impact on the standalone statements of profit and loss, the standalone statement of changes in equity, where any transaction references more than one currency or where assets/liabilities are denominated in a currency other than the functional currency of the Company.

The Company operates internationally and is exposed to foreign exchange risk arising from foreign currency transactions, primarily with respect to trade receivables and payables. The Company does not enter into derivative financial instruments (such as foreign currency forward contracts) for hedging of its foreign currency risk. The appropriateness of the risk policy is reviewed periodically with reference to the approved foreign currency risk management policy followed by the Company.

VI Principle actuarial assumptions

	As at 31 March 2024	As at 31 March 2023
(i) Discount rate (per annum)	7.05% to 7.20%	7.22% to 7.25%
(ii) Expected increase in salary costs (per annum)	5% until year 1 inclusive, then 8% until year 3 inclusive, then 9.50%	5% until year 1 inclusive, then 10% until year 3 inclusive, then 9.50%
(iii) Attrition rate	Age related & experience as given below:	Age related & experience as given below:
	Age (Years) Rates %	Age (Years) Rates %
	21-30 20 to 41	21-30 15 to 30
	31-40 20 to 41	31-40 15 to 30
	41-50 20 to 41	41-50 15 to 30
	51-58 20 to 41	51-58 15 to 30
(iv) Mortality rate ; Published rates under the Indian Assured Lives Mortality (2012-14) Ult table and IALM table
(v) Retirement age	58 years	58 years

Discount Rate
Increase by 0.5%	(64)	(66)
Decrease by 0.5%	51	69
Salary Increase
Increase by 0.5%	50	68
Decrease by 0.5%	(64)	(66)

The above sensitivity analysis are based on a change in an assumption while holding all other assumptions constant. In practice, this is unlikely to occur, and changes in some of the assumptions may be correlated. When calculating the sensitivity of the defined benefit obligation to significant actuarial assumptions the same method (present value of the defined benefit obligation calculated with the projected unit credit method at the end of the reporting period) has been applied as when calculating the defined benefit liability recognised in the standalone balance sheet.

VIII Risk exposure

Through its defined benefit plans, The Company is exposed to a number of risks, the most significant of which are detailed below:

Interest rate risk: The defined benefit obligation calculated uses a discount rate based on government bonds. If bond yields fall, the defined benefit obligation will tend to increase.

Salary inflation risk: Higher than expected increases in salary will increase the defined benefit obligation.

Demographic risk: This is the risk of variability of results due to unsystematic nature of decrements that include mortality, withdrawal, disability and retirement. The effect of these decrements on the defined benefit obligation is not straight forward and depends upon the combination of salary increase, discount rate and vesting criteria. It is important not to overstate withdrawals because in the financial analysis the retirement benefit of a short career employee typically costs less per year as compared to a long service employee.

IX Maturity profile of defined benefit obligation (Undiscounted)

Particulars	As at 31 March 2024	As at 31 March 2023
Within the next 12 months (next annual reporting period)	1,023	653
Between 1 and 6 years	2,417	2,105
Beyond 6 years	1,013	1,025
Total expected payments	4,453	3,783

X The average duration of the defined benefit plan obligation at the end of the reporting period is 2.58 to 4.68 years (31 March 2023: 3.56 to 5.86 years).

40 Contingent liabilities

	As at 31 March 2024	As at 31 March 2023
i) Bonus payable for the financial year 2014-15	5	5
ii) Employee provident fund liability including interest	34	34
iii) Indirect tax matters	4,811	4,287
iv) Legal compliance of labour laws and other civil matters	59	-

a) The nature of such litigations are as follows:

a(i) As per an additional requirement introduced under Payment of Bonus Act, 1965, from year 2016 onwards, the statutory bonus shall be included and paid as a part of the salary for all the eligible employees. Since it was not specifically called out if such requirement needs to be complied retrospectively, the excess amount of INR 5 lakhs relating to FY 2014-15 has been considered under contingent liabilities by the Company in consultation with their legal counsel.

a(ii) In February 2019, there was a judicial pronouncement in India with respect to defined contribution benefit payments interpreting certain statutory defined contribution obligations of employees and employers. It is not currently clear whether the interpretation set out in the pronouncement has retrospective application. If applied retrospectively, the interpretation would result in an increase in contributions payable by the Company for past periods for certain of its India-based employees. There are numerous interpretative challenges concerning the retrospective application of the judgment. Due to such challenges and a lack of interpretive guidance and based on legal advice the Company has obtained on the matter, it is currently impracticable to reliably estimate the timing and amount of any payments the Company may be required to make.

a(iii) In August 2018, one of the regulatory authorities in India, the Directorate General of Goods & Services Tax Intelligence ("Department"), issued a show cause notice ("Notice"), and subsequently passed an order dated December 30, 2021 confirming the demand alleging non-payment of service tax on various transactions over a period of five years between 2012 and 2017. The Company has filed an appeal in CESAT against the aforesaid order. On the basis of internal evaluation and in consultation with the legal counsel, the Company has considered an amount of INR 4,810 lakhs (31 March 2023: INR 4,287 lakhs) after considering net breakage retained by the Company excluding interest (including penalty) under contingent liabilities. The Company has deposited INR 103 lakhs (31 March 2023: INR 103 lakhs) (refer note 11) as payment under protest against aforesaid appeal filed.

b) In July 2019, a third party filed a lawsuit against Company, alleging infringement of a patent. The complaint, sought an injunction restraining the company from using, including dealing in any manner directly or indirectly, with any system / product / technology covered by such patent. The District Court limited its order in essence to not use the patent and has transferred the case to a higher court given the Company's claim of invalid patent. Subsequently in April, 2023, the High court has vacated the injunction restraining the company from using, including dealing with any system/product/technology covered by such patent. The Company has challenged and will defend the claims made against the Company.

The Company is of the view that the third party claim is untenable. Based on the Company's evaluation, the expected impact of pending legal proceedings and claims, should not have any material adverse effect on business operations, cash flows or standalone balance sheet.

c) The Company is involved in lawsuits and proceedings, which arise in the ordinary course of business. The ultimate liability is not currently determinable because of considerable uncertainties that exist / pending the resolution of proceedings. However, based on facts currently available, management believes that the disposition of matters that are pending or asserted will not have a material adverse impact on the standalone financial statements.

44 Impairment testing for cash generating units (CGU) containing goodwill

For the purpose of impairment testing, goodwill is allocated to a CGU representing the lowest level within the Company at which goodwill is monitored for internal management purposes and which is not higher than the Company's operating segment.

Issuing (refer note (i) below)	45,910	45,910
	45,910	45,910

Notes:

- (i) The acquisition of erstwhile Qwikilver Solutions Private Limited ("Qwikilver") in April 2019 resulted in the recognition of goodwill of INR 45,910 lakhs which was allocated to then identified CGU i.e. Qwikilver - prepaid cards business. As at 1 April 2020, the Company completed integration of the prepaid card business of Pine Labs Private Limited and erstwhile Qwikilver Solutions Private Limited, pursuant to the Company drawing significant synergies and benefits from the integrated businesses, thereby leading to a change in the composition of its CGUs. As a result of the integration, management monitors operations and makes decisions for the combined prepaid card business (i.e. Issuing).

In conjunction with the above business integration activities, during the year ended 31 March 2021, the Company reorganized its reporting structure as well to align with the newly integrated businesses. Thus, the goodwill which was initially (at the time of acquisition of erstwhile Qwikilver) allocated to Qwikilver - prepaid cards business CGU of INR 45,910 lakhs was re-allocated to the newly established CGU structure as on 1 April 2020 and was reassessed for impairment at the level of Issuing CGU.

- (ii) The recoverable amount of the CGUs is determined based on the value-in-use calculations which require use of assumptions. The calculations are performed using cash flow projections based on financial budgets approved by senior management covering a five-year period. Cash flows beyond the five year period are incorporated in perpetuity using the estimated growth rates stated below, during which the business is expected to continue generating cash. The terminal growth rate, revenue growth rate and EBITDA margins were determined based on management's estimates.
- (iii) Key assumptions used in estimation of value in use were as follows:
The key assumptions used in the calculation of value in use are as follows:

	As at 31 March 2024	As at 31 March 2023
Issuing business
Discount rate (pre-tax)*	18.05%	18.73%
Terminal growth rate	4.5%	4.5%
Revenue growth rate	27% - 34%	30% - 32%
EBITDA margin	24% - 36%	33% - 35%

*The discount rate is based on the Weighted Average Cost of Capital (WACC) of the Company and has been calculated taking in account long-term interest rate, equity risk premium, asset specific risk premium and industry beta. These estimates are likely to differ from future actual results of operations and cash flows.

(iv) Sensitivity Analysis

The Company has conducted an analysis of the sensitivity of the impairment test to changes in the key assumptions used to determine the recoverable amount for the CGUs to which goodwill is allocated. The management believes that any reasonably possible change in the key assumptions on which the recoverable amount of CGUs is based would not cause the aggregate carrying amount to exceed the aggregate recoverable amount of the CGUs.

- (v) Based on the above, no impairment was identified as of 31 March 2024 and 31 March 2023 as the recoverable value of the CGUs exceeded their respective carrying value.

In our opinion and to the best of our information and according to the explanations given to us, the aforesaid consolidated financial statements give the information required by the Companies Act, 2013 ("Act") in the manner so required and give a true and fair view in conformity with the accounting principles generally accepted in India, of the consolidated state of affairs of the Group as at 31 March 2024, of its consolidated loss and other comprehensive income, consolidated changes in equity and consolidated cash flows for the year then ended.

Basis for Opinion

We conducted our audit in accordance with the Standards on Auditing (SAs) specified under Section 143(10) of the Act. Our responsibilities under those SAs are further described in the Auditor's Responsibilities for the Audit of the Consolidated Financial Statements section of our report. We are independent of the Group in accordance with the ethical requirements that are relevant to our audit of the consolidated financial statements in terms of the Code of Ethics issued by the Institute of Chartered Accountants of India and the relevant provisions of the Act, and we have fulfilled our other ethical responsibilities in accordance with these requirements. We believe that the audit evidence we have obtained is sufficient and appropriate to provide a basis for our opinion on the consolidated financial statements.

Other Information

The Holding Company's Management and Board of Directors are responsible for the other information. The other information comprises the information included in the Holding Company's directors' report, but does not include the financial statements and auditor's report(s) thereon.

Our opinion on the consolidated financial statements does not cover the other information and we do not express any form of assurance conclusion thereon.

In connection with our audit of the consolidated financial statements, our responsibility is to read the other information and, in doing so, consider whether the other information is materially inconsistent with the consolidated financial statements or our knowledge obtained in the audit or otherwise appears to be materially misstated. If, based on the work we have performed, we conclude that there is a material misstatement of this other information, we are required to report that fact. We have nothing to report in this regard.

Independent Auditor's Report (Continued)Pine Labs Private Limited*Management's and Board of Directors' Responsibilities for the Consolidated Financial Statements

The Holding Company's Management and Board of Directors are responsible for the preparation and presentation of these consolidated financial statements in term of the requirements of the Act that give a true and fair view of the consolidated state of affairs, consolidated profit/ loss and other comprehensive income, consolidated statement of changes in equity and consolidated cash flows of the Group in accordance with the accounting principles generally accepted in India, including the Indian Accounting Standards (Ind AS) specified under Section 133 of the Act. The respective Management and Board of Directors of the companies included in the Group are responsible for maintenance of adequate accounting records in accordance with the provisions of the Act for safeguarding the assets of each company and for preventing and detecting frauds and other irregularities; the selection and application of appropriate accounting policies; making judgments and estimates that are reasonable and prudent; and the design, implementation and maintenance of adequate internal financial controls, that were operating effectively for ensuring the accuracy and completeness of the accounting records, relevant to the preparation and presentation of the consolidated financial statements that give a true and fair view and are free from material misstatement, whether due to fraud or error, which have been used for the purpose of preparation of the consolidated financial statements by the Management and Board of Directors of the Holding Company, as aforesaid.

In preparing the consolidated financial statements, the respective Management and Board of Directors of the companies included in the Group are responsible for assessing the ability of each company to continue as a going concern, disclosing, as applicable, matters related to going concern and using the going concern basis of accounting unless the respective Board of Directors either intends to liquidate the Company or to cease operations, or has no realistic alternative but to do so.

The respective Board of Directors of the companies included in the Group are responsible for overseeing the financial reporting process of each company.

Auditor's Responsibilities for the Audit of the Consolidated Financial Statements

Our objectives are to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the consolidated financial statements as a whole are free from material misstatement, whether due to fraud or error, and to issue an auditor's report that includes our opinion. Reasonable assurance is a high level of assurance, but is not a guarantee that an audit conducted in accordance with SAs will always detect a material misstatement when it exists. Misstatements can arise from fraud or error and are considered material if, individually or in the aggregate, they could reasonably be expected to influence the economic decisions of users taken on the basis of these consolidated financial statements.

As part of an audit in accordance with SAs, we exercise professional judgment and maintain professional skepticism throughout the audit. We also:

- Identify and assess the risks of material misstatement of the consolidated financial statements, whether due to fraud or error, design and perform audit procedures responsive to those risks, and obtain audit evidence that is sufficient and appropriate to provide a basis for our opinion. The risk of not detecting a material misstatement resulting from fraud is higher than for one resulting from error, as fraud may involve collusion, forgery, intentional omissions, misrepresentations, or the override of internal control.
- Obtain an understanding of internal control relevant to the audit in order to design audit procedures that are appropriate in the circumstances. Under Section 143(3)(i) of the Act, we are also responsible for expressing our opinion on whether the company has adequate internal financial controls with reference to financial statements in place and the operating effectiveness of such controls.
- Evaluate the appropriateness of accounting policies used and the reasonableness of accounting estimates and related disclosures made by the Management and Board of Directors.
- Conclude on the appropriateness of the Management and Board of Directors use of the going concern basis of accounting in preparation of consolidated financial statements and, based on the audit evidence obtained, whether a material uncertainty exists related to events or conditions that may cast significant doubt on the appropriateness of this assumption. If we conclude that a material uncertainty exists, we are required to draw attention in our auditor's report to the related disclosures in the consolidated financial statements or, if such disclosures are inadequate, to modify our opinion. Our conclusions are based on the audit evidence obtained up to the date of our auditor's report. However, future events or conditions may cause the Group to cease to continue as a going concern.

- Evaluate the overall presentation, structure and content of the consolidated financial statements, including the disclosures, and whether the consolidated financial statements represent the underlying transactions and events in a manner that achieves fair presentation.

We communicate with those charged with governance of the Holding Company and such other entities included in the consolidated financial statements of which we are the independent auditors regarding, among other matters, the planned scope and timing of the audit and significant audit findings, including any significant deficiencies in internal control that we identify during our audit.

We also provide those charged with governance with a statement that we have complied with relevant ethical requirements regarding independence, and to communicate with them all relationships and other matters that may reasonably be thought to bear on our independence, and where applicable, related safeguards.

Annexure B to the Independent Auditor's Report on the consolidated financial statements of Pine Labs Private Limited for the year ended 31 March 2024

Report on the internal financial controls with reference to the aforesaid consolidated financial statements under Clause (i) of Sub-section 3 of Section 143 of the Act

(Referred to in paragraph 2(A)(g) under 'Report on Other Legal and Regulatory Requirements' section of our report of even date)

Opinion

In conjunction with our audit of the consolidated financial statements of Pine Labs Private Limited (hereinafter referred to as "the Holding Company") as of and for the year ended 31 March 2024, we have audited the internal financial controls with reference to financial statements of the Holding Company, as of that date.

In our opinion, the Holding Company incorporated in India, has, in all material respects, adequate internal financial controls with reference to financial statements and such internal financial controls were operating effectively as at 31 March 2024, based on the internal financial controls with reference to financial statements criteria established by the Holding Company considering the essential components of such internal controls stated in the Guidance Note on Audit of Internal Financial Controls Over Financial Reporting issued by the Institute of Chartered Accountants of India (the "Guidance Note").

Management's and Board of Directors' Responsibilities for Internal Financial Controls

The Holding Company's Management and the Board of Directors are responsible for establishing and maintaining internal financial controls based on the internal financial controls with reference to financial statements criteria established by the Holding Company considering the essential components of internal control stated in the Guidance Note. These responsibilities include the design, implementation and maintenance of adequate internal financial controls that were operating effectively for ensuring the orderly and efficient conduct of its business, including adherence to the Holding Company policies, the safeguarding of its assets, the prevention and detection of frauds and errors, the accuracy and completeness of the accounting records, and the timely preparation of reliable financial information, as required under the Act.

Auditor's Responsibility

Our responsibility is to express an opinion on the internal financial controls with reference to financial statements based on our audit. We conducted our audit in accordance with the Guidance Note and the Standards on Auditing, prescribed under Section 143(10) of the Act, to the extent applicable to an audit of internal financial controls with reference to financial statements. Those Standards and the Guidance Note require that we comply with ethical requirements and plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether adequate internal financial controls with reference to financial statements were established and maintained and if such controls operated effectively in all material respects.

Our audit involves performing procedures to obtain audit evidence about the adequacy of the internal financial controls with reference to financial statements and their operating effectiveness. Our audit of internal financial controls with reference to financial statements included obtaining an understanding of internal financial controls with reference to financial statements, assessing the risk that a material weakness exists, and testing and evaluating the design and operating effectiveness of internal control based on the assessed risk. The procedures selected depend on the auditor's judgement, including the assessment of the risks of material misstatement of the consolidated financial statements, whether due to fraud or error.

We believe that the audit evidence we have obtained is sufficient and appropriate to provide a basis for our audit opinion on the internal financial controls with reference to financial statements.

B S R & Co. LLP

Annexure B to the Independent Auditor's Report on the consolidated financial statements of Pine Labs Private Limited for the year ended 31 March 2024

Meaning of Internal Financial Controls with Reference to Financial Statements

A company's internal financial controls with reference to financial statements is a process designed to provide reasonable assurance regarding the reliability of financial reporting and the preparation of financial statements for external purposes in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles. A company's internal financial controls with reference to financial statements include those policies and procedures that (1) pertain to the maintenance of records that, in reasonable detail, accurately and fairly reflect the transactions and dispositions of the assets of the company; (2) provide reasonable assurance that transactions are recorded as necessary to permit preparation of financial statements in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles, and that receipts and expenditures of the company are being made only in accordance with authorisations of management and directors of the company; and (3) provide reasonable assurance regarding prevention or timely detection of unauthorised acquisition, use, or disposition of the company's assets that could have a material effect on the financial statements.

Inherent Limitations of Internal Financial Controls with Reference to Financial Statements

Because of the inherent limitations of internal financial controls with reference to financial statements, including the possibility of collusion or improper management override of controls, material misstatements due to error or fraud may occur and not be detected. Also, projections of any evaluation of the internal financial controls with reference to financial statements to future periods are subject to the risk that the internal financial controls with reference to financial statements may become inadequate because of changes in conditions, or that the degree of compliance with the policies or procedures may deteriorate.

Pine Labs Private Limited

(Amount in Indian Rupees (INR) lakhs, except per share data, unless otherwise stated)

1. Reporting entity

Pine Labs Private Limited (the 'Group') is incorporated under the provisions of the Companies Act applicable in India on 18 May 1998. The registered office of the Group is located at Unit No 408, 4th Floor, Time Tower, MG Road, Gurugram-122002, Haryana.

These consolidated financial statements comprise the Company and its subsidiaries (collectively together referred to as "the Group"). The Group is primarily engaged in providing services related to transaction processing, payment solutions, gifting solutions and petroleum retail automation (including supply of materials) to its customers.

2.1 Basis of Preparationi Statement of compliance

These consolidated financial statements of the Group have been prepared in accordance with Indian Accounting Standards (Ind AS) as per the Companies (Indian Accounting Standards) Rules, 2015 notified under Section 133 of Companies Act, 2013, (the 'Act') and other relevant provisions of the Act.

These consolidated financial statements are authorised for issue by the Board of Directors of the Group at their meeting held on 30 June 2024.

Details of the Group's accounting policies are set out below.

ii Basis of measurement

The consolidated financial statements have been prepared on a historical cost basis, except for the following items:

- certain financial assets and liabilities measured at fair value where Ind AS requires a different accounting treatment (refer accounting policy regarding financial instruments).
- defined benefit asset/ (liability) measured at fair value of plan assets (if any) less the present value of defined benefit obligation.

iii Functional and presentation currency

The consolidated financial statements are presented in Indian Rupees (INR), which is also the Group's functional currency. All amounts have been rounded-off to the nearest lakhs, unless otherwise indicated.

iv Use of estimates and judgements

In preparing these consolidated financial statements, management has made judgements, estimates and assumptions that affect the application of accounting policies and the reported amounts of assets, liabilities, income and expenses. Actual results may differ from these estimates.

Estimates and underlying assumptions are reviewed on an ongoing basis. Revisions to accounting estimates are recognised prospectively.

Judgments

In the process of applying the accounting policies, management has made the following judgements, which have the most significant effect on the amounts recognised in the consolidated financial statements:

a) Revenue from contracts with customers

The determination of gross versus net recognition of revenue requires judgment that depends on whether the Group controls the good or service before it is transferred to the merchant or whether the Group is acting as an agent of a third party in accordance with Ind AS 115. The Group has generally concluded that it is the principal in its revenue arrangements, because it typically controls the services before transferring them to the client, except in case of revenue from aggregator services and distribution revenue from SCLP, CLP, Woohoo gift cards and other brand gift cards, and provision of payment solutions.

The Group applied judgements that significantly affect the determination of the amount and timing of revenue from contracts with customers, such as identifying performance obligations, wherein, the Group provides multiple services as part of the arrangement. The Group allocated the portion of the transaction price to services basis its relative consolidated prices.

Before including any amount of variable consideration in the transaction price, the Group considers whether the amount of variable consideration is constrained. The Group determined that the estimates of variable consideration are not constrained based on its historical experience, business forecast and the current economic conditions. In addition, the uncertainty on the variable consideration will be resolved within a short time frame.

b) Determining lease term

The Group determines the lease term as the non-cancellable term of the lease, together with any periods covered by an option to extend the lease if it is reasonably certain to be exercised, or any periods covered by an option to terminate the lease, if it is reasonably certain not to be exercised. The Group has some property lease arrangements with its vendors that include option to renew or terminate the contract by the Group by giving advance notice or either party option to terminate the contract by either party at any time by giving advance. The Group applied judgment in evaluating whether it is reasonably certain for the Group to renew or terminate the property lease contract before the lease term. It considered all the factors that create economic incentive for the Group to continue with lease or renew or terminate including alternatives available for the office lease, use of underlying property, location of the office, leasehold improvements made and accordingly determined lease term.

The lease term is reassessed if an option is actually exercised (or not exercised) or the Group becomes obliged to exercise (or not exercise) it. The assessment of reasonable certainty is only revised if a significant event or a significant change in circumstances occurs, which affects this assessment, and that is within the control of the lessee.

c) Determining sale and leaseback transactions

The Group applies the requirements for determining when a performance obligation is satisfied in Ind AS 115 to determine whether the transfer of an asset is accounted for as a sale of that asset. If control of an underlying asset passes to the buyer-lessor, the transaction is accounted for as a sale of the asset and a lease. If not, both the seller-lessee and the buyer-lessor account for the transaction as a financing transaction. Judgement is required to determine whether the transferred asset to buyer-lessor constitutes sale (i.e. transfer of control) or not. Management considers the nature and commercial substance of the arrangement, option to extend a lease for substantially all of the remaining economic life of the underlying asset or option to repurchase the asset after end of the lease term at nominal value, if any and other parameters of determining control in assessing the assessment.

d) Income taxes

The Group's current tax provision relates to management's assessment of the amount of tax payable on open tax positions where the liabilities remain to be agreed with the relevant Tax Authority. Uncertain tax items for which a provision is made, relate principally to the interpretation of tax legislation regarding arrangements entered into by the Group. Due to the uncertainty associated with such tax items, there is a possibility that, on conclusion of open tax matters at a future date, the final outcome may differ significantly.

Deferred tax assets are recognised for unused tax losses to the extent that it is probable that future taxable profit will be available against which the losses can be utilised. In assessing the probability, the Group considers whether the Group entity has sufficient taxable temporary differences relating to the same taxation authority and the same taxable entity, which will result in taxable amounts against which the unused tax losses can be utilised before they expire. Significant management judgement is required to determine the amount of deferred tax assets that can be recognised, based upon the likely timing and the level of future taxable profits together with future tax planning strategies.

e) Determination of Cash Generating Unit (CGU)

For the purpose of impairment testing, assets are grouped together into the smallest group of assets that generates cash inflows from continuing use that are largely independent of the cash inflows of other assets or CGUs. Judgement is involved in determining the CGU/grouping of CGUs for allocation of the goodwill and other assets.

Estimates and assumptions

The key assumptions concerning the future and other key sources of estimation uncertainty at the reporting date, that have a significant risk of causing a material adjustment to the carrying amounts of assets and liabilities within the next financial year, are described below. The Group based its assumptions and estimates on parameters available when the consolidated financial statements were prepared. Existing circumstances and assumptions about future developments, however, may change due to market changes or circumstances arising that are beyond the control of the Group. Such changes are reflected in the assumptions when they occur.

a) Recognition of revenue from Subscription based services

The recognition of revenue from Subscription based services included preparation of estimates to determine the average customer relationship period, with the objective to recognize revenue on a straight-line basis. The estimates are related to the average time that the merchant will process the transactions with the Group.

b) Estimating breakage revenue

The Group is entitled to breakage revenue majorly arising from unutilised amount of deal vouchers or prepaid cards upon expiry. The Group estimates such amounts using historical data and customer behaviour patterns. (Refer accounting policy regarding revenue from contracts with customers, for further details.)

c) Impairment of Goodwill

Goodwill has arisen on the acquisition of subsidiary (erstwhile known as Qwikilver Solutions Private Limited which merged with Pine India Private Limited in last year). Goodwill is tested for impairment on an annual basis on 31 March and whenever there is an indication that the recoverable amount of a cash generating unit (CGUs) is less than its carrying amount. For the impairment test, goodwill is allocated to the CGU or group of CGUs which benefit from the synergies of the acquisition and which represent the lowest level at which goodwill is monitored for internal management purposes. The recoverable amount of CGUs is determined based on higher of value-in-use and fair value less cost to sell. Key assumptions in the cash flow projections are prepared based on current economic conditions and comprises estimated perpetuity growth rates, weighted average cost of capital and average free cash flows to equity. Refer note 45 for further details.

d) Business combination

In accounting for business combinations, judgment is required in identifying whether an identifiable intangible asset is to be recorded separately from goodwill. Additionally, estimating the acquisition date fair value of the identifiable assets (including useful life estimates) and liabilities acquired, involves management judgment. These measurements are based on information available at the acquisition date and are based on expectations and assumptions that have been deemed reasonable by management. Changes in these judgments, estimates, and assumptions can materially affect the results of operations.

e) Loss allowance of trade receivables and contract assets

In calculating expected credit loss, the Group uses judgment in making these assumptions and selecting the inputs to expected credit loss calculation based on the Group's past history of collections, existing market conditions as well as forward looking estimates at the end of each reporting period. Management also exercises judgment in specific cases and basis past experience estimates additional impairment loss provisions. These include trade and other receivables associated with litigations, balances related to customer who have not transacted/paid for more than a specific period and other reasons. Refer note 34 for further details.

f) Useful life of property, plant and equipment

The Group depreciates property, plant and equipment on a straight-line basis over the estimated useful life of the assets. The charge in respect of periodic depreciation is derived based on an estimate of an asset's expected useful life and the expected residual value at the end of its life. The life is based on historical experience with similar assets as well as anticipation of future events, which may impact their life, such as changes in technology. The estimated useful life is reviewed atleast annually.

g) Useful life of intangibles

The Group amortizes intangible assets on a straight-line basis over estimated useful life of the assets. The useful life is estimated based on a number of factors including the effects of obsolescence, demand, competition and other economic factors such as the stability of the industry and known technological advances and the level of maintenance expenditures required to obtain the expected future cash flows from the assets. The estimated useful life is reviewed atleast annually.

h) Defined benefits plan and other long-term benefits

The obligations arising from defined benefit plan and other long-term benefits are determined on the basis of actuarial assumptions. Key actuarial assumptions include discount rate, trends in salary escalation, actuarial rates and life expectancy. The discount rate is determined by reference to market yields at the end of the reporting period on government bonds. The period to maturity of the underlying bonds correspond to the probable maturity of the employee benefit obligations. Due to complexities involved in the valuation and its long-term nature, employee benefit obligation is sensitive to changes in these assumptions. All assumptions are reviewed at each reporting period. Refer note 38 for further details.

i) Leases – Estimating the incremental borrowing rate

The Group cannot readily determine the interest rate implicit in the lease, therefore, it uses its incremental borrowing rate ("IBR") to measure lease liabilities. The IBR is the rate of interest that the Group would have to pay to borrow over a similar term, and with a similar security, the funds necessary to obtain an asset of a similar value to the right-of-use asset in a similar economic environment. The IBR therefore reflects what the Group 'would have to pay', which requires estimation when no observable rates are available or when they need to be adjusted to reflect the terms and conditions of the lease. The Group estimates the IBR using observable inputs (such as market interest rates) when available and is required to make certain entity-specific estimates.

(Amount in Indian Rupees (INR) lakhs, except per share data, unless otherwise stated)

j) Share-based payments

The employees of the Group are entitled to share options of the Parent Group. Estimating fair value for share-based payment transactions requires determination of the most appropriate valuation model, which depends on the terms and conditions of the grant. This estimate also requires determination of the most appropriate inputs to the valuation model including the expected life of the share options, volatility and dividend yield and making assumptions about them. For the measurement of the fair value of equity-settled with employees at the grant date and cash settled and at each reporting date until settlement, the Group uses a Black-Scholes model and Monte Carlo simulation model respectively. The assumptions and models used for estimating fair value for share-based payment transactions are disclosed in note 43.

k) Recognition and measurement of provisions and contingencies

The amount recognized as a provision is the best estimate of the consideration required to settle the present obligation at reporting date, taking into account the risks and uncertainties surrounding the obligation. The Group is involved in various legal matters, the outcome of which may not be favourable to the Group. Management in consultation with the legal, and other advisers assess the likelihood that a pending claim will succeed. The Group has recognised liabilities based on whether additional amounts will be payable and has included contingent liabilities where economic outflows are considered possible but not probable.

l) Government Grant

Government grants are recognised at their fair value when there is a reasonable assurance that the grant will be received and all attached conditions will be complied with. When the grant relates to an expense item, it is deferred and recognised as income in the consolidated statement of profit and loss on a systematic basis over the periods necessary to match the related costs, which they are intended to compensate. When the grant relates to an asset or a non-monetary item, it is recognised as deferred income under liabilities and is recognised as income in the consolidated statement of profit and loss on a straight line basis over the expected useful life of the related asset or a non-monetary item.

v) Measurement of fair values

Fair value is the price that would be received to sell an asset or paid to transfer a liability in an orderly transaction between market participants at the measurement date. The fair value measurement is based on the presumption that the transaction to sell the asset or transfer the liability takes place either:

- In the principal market for the asset or liability; or
- In the absence of a principal market, in the most advantageous market for the asset or liability.

The fair value of an asset or a liability is measured using the assumptions that market participants would use when pricing the asset or liability, assuming that market participants act in their economic best interest.

The Group uses valuation techniques that are appropriate in the circumstances and for which sufficient data are available to measure fair value, maximizing the use of relevant observable inputs and minimizing the use of unobservable inputs.

All assets and liabilities for which fair value is measured or disclosed in the consolidated financial statements are categorized within the fair value hierarchy, described as follows, based on the lowest level input that is significant to the fair value measurement as a whole:

The Group uses the following hierarchy to determine and disclose the fair value of financial instruments through the following measurement techniques:

- Level I - quoted prices in active markets for identical assets or liabilities;
- Level II - other techniques for which all inputs that have a significant effect on the recorded fair value are observable, either directly or indirectly; and
- Level III - techniques using inputs that have a significant effect on the recorded fair value that are not based on observable market data.

For assets and liabilities that are recognized in the consolidated financial statements at fair value on a recurring basis, the Group determines whether transfers have occurred between levels in the hierarchy by re-assessing categorization (based on the lowest level input that is significant to the fair value measurement as a whole) at the end of each reporting period.

2.2 Material accounting policies

The Group adopted Disclosure of Accounting Policies (Amendments to Ind AS 1) from April 1, 2023. Although the amendments did not result in any changes to the accounting policies themselves, they impacted the accounting policy information disclosed in financial statements.

The amendments require the disclosure of 'material', rather than 'significant', accounting policies. The amendments also provide guidance on the application of materiality to disclosure of accounting policies, assisting entities to provide useful, entity specific accounting policy information that users need to understand other information in the Financials Statements.

Management reviewed the accounting policies and made updates to the information disclosed in below material accounting policies in certain instances in line with the amendments.

A Subsidiaries and principles of consolidation

i) Basis of consolidation

The consolidated financial statements comprise the financial statements of the Group and entities controlled by the Group (its subsidiaries) as at the end of the reporting period. Control is achieved when the Group:

- Has power over the investee
- Is exposed, or has rights, to variable returns from its involvement with the investee; and
- Has the ability to use its power to affect its returns.

The Group reassesses whether or not it controls an investee if facts and circumstances indicate that there are changes to one or more of the three elements of control listed above.

When the Group has less than a majority of the voting rights of an investee, it considers that it has power over the investee when the voting rights are sufficient to give it the practical ability to direct the relevant activities of the investee unilaterally. The Group considers all relevant facts and circumstances in assessing whether or not the Group's voting rights in an investee are sufficient to give it power, including:

- the size of the Group's holding of voting rights relative to the size and dispersion of holdings of the other vote holders;
- potential voting rights held by the Group, other vote holders or other parties;
- rights arising from other contractual arrangements; and
- any additional facts and circumstances that indicate that the Group has, or does not have, the current ability to direct the relevant activities of the investee at the time that decisions need to be made, including voting patterns at previous shareholders' meetings

(Amount in Indian Rupees (INR) lakhs, except per share data, unless otherwise stated)

Consolidation of a subsidiaries begins when the Group obtains control over the subsidiaries and ceases when the Group loses control of the subsidiaries. Specifically, the results of a subsidiaries acquired or disposed of during the year are included in the consolidated statement of profit and loss from the date the Group gains control until the date when the Group ceases to control the subsidiaries.

The financial statements of the subsidiaries used in the preparation of the consolidated financial statements are prepared for the same reporting date as that of the Group. Consistent accounting policies are applied to like transactions and events in similar circumstances.

All intra-Group balances, income and expenses and unrealized gains and losses resulting from intra-Group transactions are eliminated in full on consolidation.

Changes in the Group's interests in subsidiaries that do not result in a loss of control are accounted for as equity transactions. The carrying amount of the Group's interests and the non-controlling interests are adjusted to reflect the changes in their relative interests in the subsidiaries. Any difference between the amount by which the non-controlling interests are adjusted and the fair value of the consideration paid or received is recognised directly in equity and attributed to the owners of the Group.

When the Group loses control of a subsidiaries, the gain or loss on disposal recognised in profit or loss is calculated as the difference between (i) the aggregate of the fair value of the consideration received and the fair value of any retained interest and (ii) the previous carrying amount of the assets (including goodwill), less liabilities of the subsidiaries and any non-controlling interests. All amounts previously recognised in other comprehensive income in relation to that subsidiaries are accounted for as if the Group had directly disposed of the related assets or liabilities of the subsidiaries (i.e. reclassified to profit or loss or transferred to another category of equity as required/permitted by applicable Ind AS). The fair value of any investment retained in the former subsidiaries at the date when control is lost is regarded as the fair value on initial recognition for subsequent accounting under Ind AS 109 when applicable, or the cost on initial recognition of an investment in an associate or a joint venture.

ii Business combinations and Goodwill

Acquisitions of businesses are accounted for using the acquisition method. The consideration transferred in a business combination is measured at fair value, which is calculated as the sum of the acquisition-date fair values of assets transferred to the Group, liabilities incurred by the Group to the former owners of the acquiree and the equity interest issued by the Group in exchange for control of the acquiree. Acquisition-related costs are recognised in the consolidated statement of profit and loss as incurred.

At the acquisition date, the identifiable assets acquired, and the liabilities assumed are recognised at their fair value at the acquisition date, except that:

- deferred tax assets or liabilities and assets or liabilities related to employee benefit arrangements are recognized and measured in accordance with Ind AS 12 and Ind AS 19 respectively;
- liabilities or equity instruments related to share-based payment arrangements of the acquiree or share-based payment arrangements of the Group entered into to replace share-based payment arrangements of the acquiree are measured in accordance with Ind AS 102 at the acquisition date.

Goodwill is measured as the excess of the sum of the consideration transferred, the amount of any non-controlling interests in the acquiree, and the fair value of the acquirer's previously held equity interest in the acquiree (if any) over the net of the acquisition-date amounts of the identifiable assets acquired and the liabilities assumed. If, after reassessment, the net of the acquisition-date amounts of the identifiable assets acquired and liabilities assumed exceeds the sum of the consideration transferred, the amount of any non-controlling interests in the acquiree and the fair value of the acquirer's previously held interest in the acquiree (if any), the excess is recognised immediately in profit or loss as a bargain purchase gain.

If the initial accounting for a business combination is incomplete by the end of the reporting period in which the combination occurs, the Group reports provisional amounts for the items for which the accounting is incomplete. Those provisional amounts are adjusted during the measurement period, or additional assets or liabilities are recognised, to reflect new information obtained about facts and circumstances that existed as of the acquisition date that, if known, would have affected the amounts recognised as of that date. Measurement period adjustments are adjustments that arise from additional information obtained during the 'measurement period' (which cannot exceed one year from the acquisition date) about facts and circumstances that existed at the acquisition date.

Business combinations arising from transfers of interests in entities that are under common control are accounted at carrying value. The difference between any consideration given and the aggregate carrying amounts of assets and liabilities of the acquired entity are recorded in shareholders' equity.

iii Leases acquired as a part of business combination

For leases identified in accordance with Ind AS 116, in which the acquiree is a lessee, the Group measures the lease liability at the present value of the remaining lease payments (as defined in accounting policy for lease), as if the acquired lease were a new lease at the acquisition date. The right-of-use asset is measured at the same amount as the lease liability, adjusted to reflect favorable or unfavorable terms of the lease when compared to market terms.

B Foreign currencyi. Foreign currency transactions

Transactions in foreign currencies are translated into functional currency of the Group at the exchange rates at the dates of the transactions or an average rate if the average rate approximates the actual rate at the date of the transaction.

Monetary assets and liabilities denominated in foreign currencies are translated into the functional currency at the exchange rate at the reporting date. Non-monetary assets and liabilities that are measured at fair value in a foreign currency are translated into the functional currency at the exchange rate when the fair value was determined. Non-monetary assets and liabilities that are measured based on historical cost in a foreign currency are translated at the exchange rate at the date of the transaction. Exchange differences are recognised profit or loss in the period in which they arise.

C Financial InstrumentsInitial recognition and measurement

Financial assets and financial liabilities are recognised in the Group's balance sheet when the Group becomes a party to the contractual provisions of the instrument. Financial assets and financial liabilities are initially measured at fair value, except for trade receivables that do not have a significant financing component which are measured at transaction price. Trade receivables that do not contain a significant financing component or for which the Group has applied the practical expedient are measured at the transaction price determined under Ind AS 115 – Revenue from Contracts with Customers. Transaction costs that are directly attributable to the acquisition or issue of financial assets and financial liabilities (other than financial assets and financial liabilities at fair value through profit and loss) are added to or deducted from the fair value of the financial assets or financial liabilities, as appropriate, on initial recognition. Transaction costs directly attributable to the acquisition of financial assets or financial liabilities at fair value through profit and loss are recognised immediately in profit or loss.

Financial assets

The classification of financial assets at initial recognition depends on the financial asset's contractual cash flow characteristics and the Group's business model for managing them. For a financial asset to be classified and measured at amortised cost or Fair value through other comprehensive income (FVOCI), it needs to give rise to cash flows that are solely payments of principal and interest ("SPPI") on the principal amount outstanding. This assessment is referred to as the SPPI test and is performed at an instrument level. Financial assets with cash flows that are not SPPI are classified and measured at Fair value through profit and loss (FVPL), irrespective of the business model.

The Group's business model for managing financial assets refers to how it manages its financial assets in order to generate cash flows. The business model determines whether cash flows will result from collecting contractual cash flows, selling the financial assets, or both. Financial assets classified and measured at amortised cost are held within a business model with the objective to hold financial assets in order to collect contractual cash flows while financial assets classified and measured at FVOCI are held within a business model with the objective of both, holding to collect contractual cash flows and selling.

Financial assets at FVPL include financial assets held for trading, financial assets designated upon initial recognition at FVPL, or financial assets mandatorily required to be measured at fair value. Financial assets are classified as held for trading if they are acquired for the purpose of selling or repurchasing in the near term. Notwithstanding the criteria for debt instruments to be classified at amortised cost or at FVOCI, as described above, debt instruments may be designated at FVPL on initial recognition if doing so eliminates, or significantly reduces, an accounting mismatch.

Subsequent measurement

All recognised financial assets are measured subsequently in their entirety at either amortised cost or fair value, depending on the classification of the financial assets.

a) Classification, recognition and measurement of financial assets

The Group classifies its financial assets in the following measurement categories:

- Financial assets at amortised cost (debt instruments);
- Financial assets at FVOCI with recycling of cumulative gains and losses (debt instruments);
- Financial assets at FVOCI with no recycling of cumulative gains and losses upon derecognition (equity instruments); or
- Fair value through profit or loss (FVPL).

Financial assets at amortised cost (debt instruments)

Financial assets at amortised cost are subsequently measured using the effective interest rate ("EIR") method and are subject to impairment. Gains and losses are recognized in profit or loss when the asset is derecognized, modified or impaired.

The Group's financial assets at amortised cost include trade receivables, contract assets, term deposits, security deposits, restricted cash and cash equivalents, interest accrued on deposits, receivable for cash back, loans to employees and other receivables.

The effective interest method is a method of calculating the amortised cost of a debt instrument and of allocating interest income over the relevant period.

Effective interest rate is the rate that exactly discounts estimated future cash receipts (including all fees and points paid or received that form an integral part of the effective interest rate, transaction costs and other premiums or discounts) excluding expected credit losses, through the expected life of the debt instrument, or, where appropriate, a shorter period, to the gross carrying amount of the debt instrument on initial recognition.

The amortised cost of a financial asset is the amount at which the financial asset is measured at initial recognition minus the principal repayments, plus the cumulative amortisation using the effective interest method of any difference between that initial amount and the maturity amount, adjusted for any loss allowance. The gross carrying amount of a financial asset is the amortised cost of a financial asset before adjusting for any loss allowance.

Interest income is recognised using the effective interest method for debt instruments measured subsequently at amortised cost. Interest income is calculated by applying the effective interest rate to the gross carrying amount of a financial asset.

Interest income is recognised in profit and loss and is included under the head "Other income".

Financial assets at FVOCI (debt instruments)

For debt instruments at FVOCI, interest income, foreign exchange revaluation and impairment losses or reversals are recognized in the consolidated statement of profit and loss similar to financial assets measured at amortised cost. The remaining fair value changes are recognized in OCI. Upon derecognition, the cumulative fair value change recognized in OCI is recycled to profit or loss.

Financial assets at FVOCI (equity instruments)

Upon initial recognition, the Group can elect to classify irrevocably its equity investments as equity instruments designated at FVOCI when they meet the definition of equity under Ind AS 32 – Financial Instruments: Presentation and are not held for trading. The classification is determined on an instrument-by-instrument basis.

Gains and losses on these financial assets are never recycled to profit or loss. Dividends are recognized as other income in the consolidated statement of profit and loss when the right of payment has been established, except when the Group benefits from such proceeds as a recovery of part of the cost of the financial asset, in which case, such gains are recorded in OCI. Equity instruments designated at FVOCI are not subject to impairment assessment.

Financial assets at FVPL

The Group's financial assets measured at FVPL include investment in mutual funds shown under the head "financial asset at fair value through profit and loss". Financial assets at fair value through profit or loss are carried in the consolidated balance sheet at fair value with net changes in fair value recognised in the consolidated statement of profit and loss in other income.

Derecognition

A financial asset (or, where applicable, a part of a financial asset or part of a group of similar financial assets) is primarily derecognized (i.e., removed from the Group's balance sheet) when:

- The contractual rights to receive cash flows from the asset have expired; or
- The Group has transferred its contractual rights to receive cash flows from the asset or has assumed a contractual obligation to pay the received cash flows in full without material delay to a third party under a 'pass-through' arrangement; and either
 - (a) the Group has transferred substantially all the risks and rewards of the asset, or
 - (b) the Group has neither transferred nor retained substantially all the risks and rewards of the asset but has transferred control of the asset.

When the Group has transferred its contractual rights to receive cash flows from an asset or has entered into a pass-through arrangement, it evaluates if, and to what extent, it has retained the risks and rewards of ownership. When it has neither transferred nor retained substantially all the risks and rewards of the asset, nor transferred control of the asset, the Group continues to recognize the transferred asset to the extent of its continuing involvement.

In that case, the Group also recognizes an associated liability. The transferred asset and the associated liability are measured on a basis that reflects the rights and obligations that the Group has retained.

b) Impairment of financial assets

The Group recognises a loss allowance for expected credit losses ('ECL') on trade receivables and contract assets. The amount of expected credit losses is updated at each reporting date to reflect changes in credit risk since initial recognition of the respective financial instrument.

For trade receivables and contract assets, the Group applies a simplified approach in calculating ECL, whereby a loss allowance is computed based on lifetime ECL at each reporting date. The Group has established a flow rate approach that is based on its historical credit loss experience, adjusted for forward-looking factors specific to the receivables and the economic environment.

Management also exercises judgment in specific cases and basis past experience makes additional impairment loss provisions. These include trade and other receivables associated with litigations, balances related to customer who have not transacted/ paid for more than a specific period and other reasons.

Measurement and recognition of expected credit losses

For financial assets, the expected credit loss is estimated as the difference between all contractual cash flows that are due to the Group in accordance with the contract and all the cash flows that the Group expects to receive, computed by using a loss rate.

The Group recognises an impairment gain or loss in consolidated statement of profit and loss for all financial instruments with a corresponding adjustment to their carrying amount through a loss allowance account.

c) Write off policy

The Group writes off a financial asset when there is information indicating that the receivables are in severe financial difficulty and there is no realistic prospect of recovery. Financial assets written off may still be subject to enforcement activities under the Group's recovery procedures, taking into account legal advice where appropriate. Any recoveries made are recognised in consolidated statement of profit and loss.

Financial liabilities and equitya) Classification as debt or equity

Debt and equity instruments are classified as either financial liabilities or as equity in accordance with the substance of the contractual arrangements and the definitions of a financial liability and an equity instrument.

Equity instruments

An equity instrument is any contract that evidences a residual interest in the assets of an entity after deducting all of its liabilities. Equity instruments issued by the Group are recognized at the proceeds received, net of direct issue costs.

Repurchase of the Group's own equity instruments is derecognized and deducted directly in equity. No gain or loss is recognized in profit or loss on the purchase, sale, issue or cancellation of the Group's own equity instruments.

Initial recognition and measurement

Financial liabilities are classified, at initial recognition, as financial liabilities at FVPL, amortised cost or as derivatives designated as hedging instruments in an effective hedge, as appropriate.

All financial liabilities are recognized initially at fair value and, in the case of amortised cost, net of directly attributable transaction costs.

The Group's financial liabilities include, trade and other liabilities, loans and financing including bank overdrafts, cash credit facilities from bank and financial institution.

Subsequent measurement

The measurement of financial liabilities depends on their classification, as described below:

Financial liabilities at FVPL

Financial liabilities at FVPL include financial liabilities held for trading and financial liabilities designated upon initial recognition as at FVPL.

Financial liabilities are classified as held for trading if they are incurred for the purpose of repurchasing in the near term.

Gains or losses on liabilities held for trading are recognized in the consolidated statement of profit and loss.

Financial liabilities designated upon initial recognition at FVPL are designated at the initial date of recognition, and only if the criteria in Ind AS 109 are satisfied. This category includes only derivative financial instruments.

(Amount in Indian Rupees (INR) lakhs, except per share data, unless otherwise stated)

Financial liabilities at amortised cost

After initial recognition, interest-bearing loans and borrowings are subsequently measured at amortised cost using the EIR method. Gains and losses are recognized in profit or loss when the liabilities are derecognized as well as through the EIR amortization process. This category is the most relevant to the Group.

Amortised cost is calculated by considering any discount or premium on acquisition and fees or costs that are an integral part of the EIR. The EIR amortization is included as finance costs in the consolidated statement of profit and loss.

Derecognition

The Group derecognises financial liabilities when, and only when, the Group's obligations are discharged, cancelled or have expired. The difference between the carrying amount of the financial liability derecognised and the consideration paid and payable is recognised in profit or loss.

Offsetting of financial instruments

Financial assets and financial liabilities are offset and the net amount is reported in the balance sheet if there is a currently enforceable legal right to offset the recognized amounts and there is an intention to settle on a net basis, to realize the assets and settle the liabilities simultaneously.

D Property, plant and equipment

All items of property, plant and equipment, are initially recorded at cost. Subsequent to recognition, property, plant and equipment are measured at cost less accumulated depreciation and accumulated impairment losses, if any. The cost includes directly attributable expenses incurred to bring the asset to the location and condition necessary for it to be capable of being operated in the manner intended by management and initial estimate of decommissioning, restoring and similar liabilities.

Subsequent costs related to an item of property, plant and equipment are recognized as a separate asset, as appropriate, only when it is probable that future economic benefits associated with the item will flow to the Group and the cost of the item can be measured reliably. The carrying amount of any component accounted for as a separate asset is derecognized when replaced. All other repairs and maintenance are recognized in the consolidated statement of profit and loss during the reporting period when they are incurred.

Depreciation methods, estimated useful life and residual value

Depreciation on property, plant and equipment is calculated on a straight line basis using the rates arrived at based on the useful life estimated by the management. The Group has used the following rates to provide depreciation on its property, plant and equipment:

Particulars	Useful life estimated by the management (in years)
Furniture and fixtures	5 to 10
Plant and machinery	1.5 to 5
Office equipment	2 to 5
Computers	3
Servers and networks	3 to 6
Vehicles	3

Leasehold improvements are depreciated over lower of lease term or 7 years.

Capital work-in-progress includes cost of property, plant and equipment under installation/under development as at the balance sheet date and are not depreciated as these assets are not yet available for use.

The useful life and depreciation method are reviewed at each financial year-end to ensure that the amount, method and period of depreciation are consistent with previous estimates and the expected pattern of consumption of the future economic benefits embodied in the items of property, plant and equipment. The effect of changes in estimates, if any, is taken on a prospective basis.

An item of property, plant and equipment is derecognised upon disposal or when no future economic benefits are expected to arise from the continued use of the asset. The gain or loss arising on the disposal or retirement of an asset is determined as the difference between the sales proceeds and the carrying amount of the asset and is recognised in the consolidated statement of profit and loss.

E Intangible assets

Intangible assets acquired separately are measured on initial recognition at cost. The cost of intangible assets acquired in a business combination is their fair value at the date of acquisition. Following initial recognition, intangible assets are carried at cost less any accumulated amortisation and accumulated impairment losses. Internally generated intangibles, excluding capitalised development costs, are not capitalised and the related expenditure is reflected in profit and loss in the period in which the expenditure is incurred.

Software and development cost

Certain direct development costs associated with internally developed software and software enhancements of the Group technology platform are capitalized. Capitalized costs, which occur post determination by management of technical feasibility, include external services and internal payroll costs. These costs are recorded as intangible assets when development is complete and the asset is ready for use, and are amortised on a straight-line basis, generally over a period of 3 to 5 years. Development activities involve a plan or design for the production of new or substantially improved products and processes. Development expenditure is capitalized only if development costs can be measured. Research and pre-feasibility development costs, as well as maintenance and training costs, are expensed as incurred. In certain circumstances, management may determine that previously developed software and its related expense no longer meets management's definition of feasible, which could then result in the impairment of such asset. Incidental operations are not necessary to bring an asset to the condition necessary for it to be capable of operating in the manner intended by management, the income and related expenses of incidental operations are recognized immediately in profit or loss, and included in their respective classifications of income and expense.

The useful life of intangible assets are assessed as either finite or indefinite.

An intangible asset is derecognised on disposal, or when no future economic benefits are expected from use or disposal. Gains or losses arising from derecognition of an intangible asset, measured as the difference between the net disposal proceeds and the carrying amount of the asset, are recognised in consolidated statement of profit and loss, when the asset is derecognized.

The estimated useful life and amortization method are reviewed at the end of each reporting period.

Amortization is recognized on a straight-line basis over their estimated useful life which are as follows:

Particulars	Useful life estimated by the management (in years)
Computer software	3
Customer relationship	5
Technology	3-5
Non compete	4.25

F Leases

The Group assesses whether a contract is or contains a lease, at inception of the contract. The Group recognizes a right-of-use asset and a corresponding lease liability with respect to all lease arrangements in which it is the lessee, except for short-term leases (defined as leases with a lease term of 12 months or less) and leases of low value assets (such as office equipment). For these leases, the Group recognizes the lease payments as an operating expense on a straight-line basis over the term of the lease unless another systematic basis is more representative of the time pattern in which economic benefits from the leased assets are consumed.

Lease liabilities

The lease liability is initially measured at the present value of the lease payments that are not paid at the commencement date, discounted by using the rate implicit in the lease. If this rate cannot be readily determined, the Group uses its incremental borrowing rate, being the rate that the individual lessee would have to pay to borrow the funds necessary to obtain an asset of similar value to the right-of-use asset in a similar economic environment with similar terms, security and conditions.

To determine the incremental borrowing rate, the Group, where possible, uses recent bank borrowings obtained by the individual lessees as a starting point, adjusted to reflect changes in financing conditions since the borrowing was received.

Lease payments included in the measurement of the lease liability comprise:

- Fixed lease payments (including in-substance fixed payments), less any lease incentives receivable;
- Variable lease payments that depend on an index or rate, initially measured using the index or rate at the commencement date;
- The amount expected to be payable by the lessee under residual value guarantees;
- The exercise price of purchase options, if the lessee is reasonably certain to exercise the options; and
- Payments of penalties for terminating the lease, if the lease term reflects the exercise of an option to terminate the lease.

The lease liability is presented as a separate line in the consolidated balance sheet.

The lease liability is subsequently measured by increasing the carrying amount to reflect interest on the lease liability (using the effective interest method) and by reducing the carrying amount to reflect the lease payments made.

Lease payments are allocated between principal and finance cost. The finance cost is charged to profit or loss over the lease period so as to produce a constant periodic rate of interest on the remaining balance of the liability for each period.

The Group remeasures the lease liability (and makes a corresponding adjustment to the related right-of-use asset) whenever:

- The lease term has changed or there is a significant event or change in circumstances resulting in a change in the assessment of exercise of a purchase option, in which case the lease liability is remeasured by discounting the revised lease payments using a revised discount rate.
- The lease payments change due to changes in an index or rate or a change in expected payment under a guaranteed residual value, in which case the lease liability is remeasured by discounting the revised lease payments using an unchanged discount rate (unless the lease payments change is due to a change in a floating interest rate, in which case a revised discount rate is used).
- A lease contract is modified and the lease modification is not accounted for as a separate lease, in which case the lease liability is remeasured based on the lease term of the modified lease by discounting the revised lease payments using a revised discount rate at the effective date of the modification.

Right-of-use assets comprise the initial measurement of the corresponding lease liability, lease payments made at or before the commencement date, less any lease incentives received and any initial direct costs. They are subsequently measured at cost less accumulated depreciation and impairment losses.

Whenever the Group incurs an obligation for costs to dismantle and remove a leased asset, restore the site on which it is located or restore the underlying asset to the condition required by the terms and conditions of the lease, a provision is recognised and measured under Ind AS 37. To the extent that the costs relate to a right-of-use asset, the costs are included in the related right-of-use asset, unless those costs are incurred to produce inventories.

Right-of-use assets are depreciated over the period of the lease term. If a lessor transfers ownership of the underlying asset or the cost of the right-of-use asset reflects that the Group expects to exercise a purchase option, the related right-of-use asset is depreciated over the useful life of the underlying asset.

The Group applies Ind AS 36 to determine whether a right-of-use asset is impaired and accounts for any identified impairment loss as described in the 'Impairment of non-financial assets' policy.

G Impairment of non-financial assetsGoodwill

Goodwill is not amortised but is reviewed for impairment at least annually. For the purpose of impairment testing, goodwill is allocated to each of the Group's cash-generating units (or group of cash-generating units) expected to benefit from the synergies of the combination.

The Group tests whether goodwill has suffered any impairment on an annual basis at March 31 and when circumstances indicate that the value may be impaired. If the recoverable amount of the cash-generating unit is less than the carrying amount of the unit, the impairment loss is allocated first to reduce the carrying amount of any goodwill allocated to the unit and then to the other assets of the unit pro-rata on the basis of the carrying amount of each asset in the unit. An impairment loss recognised for goodwill is not reversed in a subsequent period. Refer note 45 for a discussion of the model and key assumptions.

On disposal of a cash-generating unit, the attributable amount of goodwill is included in the determination of the profit or loss on disposal.

Intangible assets, property, plant and equipment and right-of-use assets

At each reporting date, the Group reviews the carrying amounts of its property, plant and equipment, intangible assets and right-of-use assets to determine whether there is any indication that those assets have suffered an impairment loss. If any such indication exists, the recoverable amount of the asset is estimated to determine the extent of the impairment loss (if any). Where the asset does not generate cash flows that are independent from other assets, the Group estimates the recoverable amount of the cash-generating unit to which the asset belongs. When a reasonable and consistent basis of allocation can be identified, corporate assets are also allocated to individual cash-generating units, or otherwise they are allocated to the smallest group of cash-generating units for which a reasonable and consistent allocation basis can be identified.

Recoverable amount is the higher of fair value less costs of disposal and value in use. In assessing value in use, the estimated future cash flows are discounted to their present value using a pre-tax discount rate that reflects current market assessments of the time value of money and the risks specific to the asset for which the estimates of future cash flows have not been adjusted.

Pine Labs Private Limited

(Amount in Indian Rupees (INR) lakhs, except per share data, unless otherwise stated)

If the recoverable amount of an asset (or cash-generating unit) is estimated to be less than its carrying amount, the carrying amount of the asset (or cash-generating unit) is reduced to its recoverable amount. An impairment loss is recognised immediately in profit or loss.

Where an impairment loss subsequently reverses, the carrying amount of the asset (or cash-generating unit) is increased to the revised estimate of its recoverable amount, but so that the increased carrying amount does not exceed the carrying amount that would have been determined had no impairment loss been recognised for the asset (or cash-generating unit) in prior years. A reversal of an impairment loss is recognised immediately in profit or loss to the extent that it eliminates the impairment loss which has been recognised for the asset in prior years.

H Inventories

Inventories are stated at the lower of cost and net realisable value. Costs comprise direct material, pre-purchased voucher cost, pre-purchased prepaid cards, direct labour cost and direct overheads incurred (as applicable), in bringing the inventories to their present location and condition. Inventory is valued on weighted average cost basis. Net realisable value is the estimated selling price in the ordinary course of business less estimated cost necessary to make the sale.

Where necessary, allowance is provided for damaged, obsolete and slow-moving items to adjust the carrying value of inventories to the lower of cost and net realisable value.

I Employee benefits

Employee benefits include provident fund, employee state insurance scheme, gratuity, compensated absences and other incentives to employees.

a. Post-employment and termination benefit costs

Payments to defined contribution retirement benefit plans, such as provident fund, employee state insurance scheme and pension schemes, are recognised as an expense when employees have rendered service entitling them to the contributions.

For defined benefit retirement benefit plans such as gratuity and other post-employment defined benefit retirement plans, the cost of providing benefits is determined using the Projected Unit Credit Method, with actuarial valuations being carried out at the end of each annual reporting period. Remeasurements comprising actuarial gains and losses are recognised immediately in the balance sheet with a charge or credit to other comprehensive income in the period in which they occur. Remeasurements recognised in other comprehensive income are not reclassified. Past service cost is recognised in profit and loss when the plan amendment or curtailment occurs. Gains or losses on settlement of a defined benefit plan are recognised when the settlement occurs. Net interest is calculated by applying a discount rate to the net defined benefit liability or asset. Defined benefit costs are split into three categories:

- service costs, which includes current service cost, past service cost and gains and losses on curtailments and settlements
- interest expense or income; and
- remeasurements.

The Group recognises service costs within consolidated statement of profit and loss as Gratuity and other defined benefit plans expenses under employee benefits expense.

Net interest expense or income is recognised within employee benefits expense.

b. Short term and other long-term employee benefits

A liability is recognised for benefits accruing to employees in respect of salaries, annual leave and sick leave, performance incentives etc. in the period the related service is rendered at the undiscounted amount of the benefits expected to be paid in exchange for that service.

Liabilities recognised in respect of short-term employee benefits are measured at the undiscounted amount of the benefits expected to be paid in exchange for the related service.

Accumulated leave, which is expected to be utilized within the next twelve months, is treated as short-term employee benefit.

The Group treats accumulated leave and long-term service award expected to be carried forward beyond twelve months, as long-term employee benefit for measurement purposes. Such long-term compensated absences and long-term service award are provided for based on the actuarial valuation using the projected unit credit method at the year-end. Actuarial gain/loss are immediately taken to the consolidated statement of profit and loss and are not deferred.

c. Share-based payments

The employees of the Group have been granted stock options by Pine Labs Limited, the Parent Company.

The Group recognizes and measures compensation expense for all share-based awards based on the grant date fair value as per Ind AS 102, share based payments. For option awards, grant date fair value is determined under the option-pricing model (Black-Scholes-Method). The Group recognizes compensation expense for share based awards net of estimated forfeitures. Share-based compensation recognized in the consolidated Statement of Profit and Loss is based on options ultimately expected to vest. As a result, the expense has been reduced for estimated forfeitures. Forfeitures are estimated at the time of grant and revised, if necessary, in subsequent periods if actual forfeitures differ from those estimates. The cost is recognised, together with a corresponding increase in liability towards payable to Parent Group, over the period in which the performance and/or service conditions are fulfilled in employee share option expense under employee compensation. The movement in cumulative expense recognised as at the beginning and end of that period is recognised in employee share option expense under employee compensation in the consolidated statement of profit and loss.

J Provisions and contingent liabilities

Provisions are recognised when the Group has a present obligation (legal or constructive) as a result of a past event, it is probable that an outflow of resources embodying economic benefits will be required to settle the obligation and the amount of the obligation can be estimated reliably.

The amount recognised as a provision is the best estimate of the consideration required to settle the present obligation at the reporting date, taking into account the risks and uncertainties surrounding the obligation.

Provisions are reviewed at the end of each reporting period and adjusted to reflect the current best estimate. If it is no longer probable that an outflow of economic resources will be required to settle the obligation, the provision is reversed.

Where the Group expects some or all of a provision to be reimbursed, the reimbursement is recognised as a separate asset but only when the reimbursement is virtually certain. The expense relating to any provision is presented in the consolidated statement of profit and loss net of any reimbursement.

(Amount in Indian Rupees (INR) lakhs, except per share data, unless otherwise stated)

Contingent liability

A contingent liability is:

a) a possible obligation that arises from past events and whose existence will be confirmed only by the occurrence or non-occurrence of one or more uncertain future events not wholly within the control of the Group; or

b) a present obligation that arises from past events but is not recognised because:

(i) It is not probable that an outflow of resources embodying economic benefits will be required to settle the obligation; or

(ii) The amount of the obligation cannot be measured with sufficient reliability.

The Group does not recognise a contingent liability but discloses its existence in the consolidated financial statements.

K Revenue from contract with customer

The Group derives revenue primarily from the following major sources:

A. Digital payments

B. Issuing

Revenue from contracts with customers is recognized when control of the goods or services is transferred to the customer at an amount that reflects the consideration to which the Group expects to be entitled in exchange for those goods or services.

For the purpose of revenue recognition, the Group determines whether revenue should be recognized on a gross or net basis, which depends on which party controls the good or service before it is transferred to the customer, and whether the Group is acting as a principal or an agent to the transaction. The assessment is performed separately for each performance obligation identified.

No significant element of financing is deemed present as the sales are made with credit terms consistent with market practice.

A. Digital payments

The revenue under Digital payments is derived from following:

(a) Merchant Services

Transaction and processing services revenue is comprised of: 1) fees calculated based on percentage of the monetary value of transaction processed; 2) fees calculated based on number of transactions processed; 3) fixed monthly amounts; 4) combinations thereof that are associated with transaction and processing services. The Group typically contracts with financial institutions, merchants, or affiliates of those parties. Contracts stipulate the types of processing services and articulate how fees will be incurred and calculated.

The Group's core performance obligations are to stand ready to provide continuous access to electronic payment and transaction processing services in order to be able to process as many transactions as clients require on a daily basis over the contract term and the consideration received is contingent upon the clients' use (i.e., number of payment transactions processed, number of cards on file, etc.); as such, the total transaction price is variable. These services are stand ready obligations, as the timing and quantity of transactions to be processed is not determinable. Under a stand-ready obligation, the performance obligation is defined by each time increment rather than by the underlying activities satisfied over time based on days elapsed. Because the service of standing ready is substantially the same each day and has the same pattern of transfer to the client, the Group has determined that its stand-ready performance obligation comprises a series of distinct days of service. The performance obligation to stand ready to provide continued access to transaction and processing services is satisfied equally over time and therefore, the progress is measured on a time basis. Transaction based fee represents variable consideration for which the criteria for permitting allocation of the variable consideration to distinct days of service that forms part of the single performance obligation are met, namely:

- the terms of the variable payment relate specifically to its efforts to satisfy the distinct service on a particular day (i.e. it reflects the number of transactions processed on a particular day); and
- allocating the variable amount of consideration entirely to the distinct service on a particular day is consistent with the allocation objective when considering all of the performance obligations and payment terms in the contract.

Fees for transaction and processing services are recognized each day based on the volume or transaction count at the time the merchants' transactions are processed. In case of fixed monthly amounts, revenue is recognised as and when it is accrued based on the contractual rates agreed with customers.

(b) Aggregator services

The Group offers merchant aggregator services to various merchants by way of facilitating the processing and settlement of transactions between the merchants and the acquirer banks, regardless of which issuing bank and card network to which the transaction relates. Revenue comprises settlement fees paid by merchants, usually as a percentage of the transaction value. The Group frequently enters into agreements with merchants under which the merchant engages the Group to provide both payment authorization services and transaction settlement services for all of the cardholder transactions of the merchant, regardless of which issuing bank and card network to which the transaction relates. The Group's core performance obligations are to stand ready to provide continuous access to the payment authorization services and transaction processing and settlement services in order to be able to process as many transactions as the merchants require on a daily basis over the contract term. These services are stand ready obligations, as the timing and quantity of transactions to be processed is not determinable. Under a stand-ready obligation, the performance obligation is defined by each time increment rather than by the underlying activities satisfied over time based on days elapsed. Because the service of standing ready is substantially the same each day and has the same pattern of transfer to the merchant, the Group has determined that the stand-ready performance obligation comprises a series of distinct days of service. The performance obligation to stand ready to provide continued access to transaction processing and settlement services is satisfied equally over time and therefore, the progress is measured on a time basis. Transaction based fee represents variable consideration for which the criteria for permitting allocation of the variable consideration to distinct days of service that forms part of the single performance obligation are met, namely:

- the terms of the variable payment relate specifically to its efforts to satisfy the distinct service on a particular day (i.e. it reflects the number of transactions processed on a particular day); and
- allocating the variable amount of consideration entirely to the distinct service on a particular day is consistent with the allocation objective when considering all of the performance obligations and payment terms in the contract.

Fees for transaction processing and settlement services is recognized each day based on the volume or transaction count at the time the merchants' transactions are processed.

(Amount in Indian Rupees (INR) lakhs, except per share data, unless otherwise stated)

The Group follows the requirements of Ind AS 115 Revenue from Contracts with Customers—Principal versus Agent Considerations, which states that the determination of whether a Group should recognize revenue based on the gross amount billed to a client or the net amount retained is a matter of judgment that depends on the facts and circumstances of the arrangement. The determination of gross versus net recognition of revenue requires judgment that depends on whether the Group controls the good or service before it is transferred to the merchant or whether the Group is acting as an agent of a third party. The assessment is performed separately for each performance obligation identified. Under the agreements, the Group incurs assessment fees and interconnect or network pass-through charges from the card issuers and card networks, related to the provision of payment authorization and settlement services.

Transaction processing and settlement fees are recognized net of assessment fees and card association fees (i.e. interconnect or interchange fees charged by intermediaries like Visa/Master card) paid to the acquiring banks / financial institutions, since the Group is acting only as an agent in respect of these charges, due to the following reasons:

- (i) The Group does not have discretion in choosing the payment network and is unable to direct the activity of the merchant to another payment network;
- (ii) Payment network rates are pre-established by the card payment networks and card issuers and the Group does not have latitude in determining the assessment fees and card association fees;
- (iii) The Group is not primarily responsible for the authorization and settlement services performed by payment networks and card issuers but, only arrange for these services to the merchant.

Both the Group and the acquiring bank have primary obligation to provide their part of the services to merchant i.e. the Group is a principal for some specified services (i.e. provision of POS solutions) and agent for others (i.e. services provided by the acquiring banks).

Transaction processing and settlement fees are recognized net of assessment fees and card association fees paid to the acquiring banks / financial institutions, however when the assessment fees and card association fees is higher than the transaction processing and settlement fees earned from the customer, the excess amount is classified as other expenses in consolidated statement of profit and loss.

The Group also earn one-time POS installation and program integration fee for provision of installation service of POS solution to clients (refer below "Subscription based and other services").

(c) Buy Now Pay Later (BNPL) services

For transaction, processing and settlement services, wherein the merchant/issuer bank/brand partners run an equated monthly installment (EMI) scheme for cardholder transactions, the Group has a performance obligation to provide its platform for running the scheme. In exchange, the Group charges a service fee per transaction in the EMI scheme, in addition to the transaction processing fee. Revenue from such services is recognized at a point in time, upon processing of EMI scheme on each eligible transaction and the amount is billed to merchant/issuer bank/brand partners.

(d) Cash back services

For transaction, processing and settlement services, wherein the merchant/issuer bank/brand partners run various cash back schemes for eligible cardholders, the Group has a performance obligation to provide its platform for running the schemes for the participating brands and issuer banks. In exchange, the Group charges a service fee per transaction in the said scheme, in addition to the transaction processing fee. Revenue from such services is recognized at a point in time, upon processing of each eligible transaction and the amount is billed to merchant/issuer bank/brand partners.

(e) Multiple Performance Obligations

Arrangements may contain multiple performance obligations, such as, transaction settlement services, hardware, software products, maintenance, and professional installation and training services. Revenues are allocated to each performance obligation based on the consolidated selling price of each good or service.

Revenues from sales of combined hardware and software element are recognized when each performance obligation has been satisfied which has been determined to be upon the delivery of the product. Revenues derived from service fees are recognized at the time the services are performed and there are no further performance obligations. Professional services, including training, installation, and repair services are recognized as revenue as these services are performed.

(f) Subscription based and other services

The Group has contracts with customers to provide subscription-based services, in the form of one-time installation of hardware/software or both, one time solution implementation fee, one-time integration, setup and technology fee, infrastructure fee etc., either independently or bundled with transaction, processing and settlement services. These services are generally billed to the customers upfront. However, the underlying obligation to keep up and run the software and hardware or platform continues for the entire period of the contract with customer in case of subscription based services, and the pattern of benefits to the customer from such services rendered is generally even, throughout the period of contract. Revenue against such upfront subscription fee is recognized on a straight-line basis over a period of time (i.e. either the contractual term or estimated period of customer relationship, as the case may be).

Revenue from other services is recognized in accordance with the terms of the contract, including revenue from software licensing and maintenance. The Group's software licensing and maintenance services are considered distinct and are generally recognized at their consolidated selling prices when the software code is delivered to the client and over the maintenance period respectively. The Group recognizes revenue from other services when the service is rendered.

(g) Digitization of fuel stations

The Group sells hardware and other peripherals as part of its contracts with customers in respect of digitization of fuel stations. The Group accounts for sale and installation of hardware as a single performance obligation and recognizes the revenue at its transaction price when the customer obtains control of the hardware/other peripherals and accepts the installation.

B. Issuing

The revenue under issuing is derived from the following:

(a) Gift solutions

The Group provides gift cards and/or stored value card solutions to various retail and corporate customers.

Revenue from Gift card solutions is comprised of a) Processing services for Semi Closed Loop Programs (SCLP), Closed Loop Programs (CLP), other stored value cards and b) Distribution revenue, with respect to various categories of gift cards i.e. Woohoo gift cards and other brand gift cards.

Processing services

Processing services revenue majorly comprise of fees for Gift card program management services offered on Software as a service i.e. "SaaS" solution to Merchants or brand vendors. The Group also earn one-time program initiation and implementation fee for integration and migration of data between Merchants or brand vendors' platform and the Group's platform (refer policy on "Subscription based services"). Contracts with merchants or brand vendors stipulate the types of processing services and articulate how fees will be accrued and calculated.

(Amount in Indian Rupees (INR) lakhs, except per share data, unless otherwise stated)

The Group's core performance obligations include (may be all or combination of any):

- Issue of co-brand cards, other brand cards, prepaid or postpaid cards redeemable on Merchants or brand vendor's website or application;
- Establish, maintain and administer the gift card program to facilitate issuance and redemption of gift cards issued;
- Provision of dedicated IT infrastructure and related annual maintenance

Processing fee is charged on the value of gift cards/vouchers activated or reloaded or redeemed (as per the arrangements with merchant or brand vendors) and billed to the merchants or brand vendors based on the monthly reports generated. These services are stand ready obligations, as the timing and volume of gift cards/ vouchers to be processed is not determinable. Because the service of standing ready is substantially the same each point in time the gift cards/ vouchers are activated or reloaded or redeemed and has the same pattern of transfer to the merchants or brand vendors, the Group has determined that its stand-ready performance obligation comprises a series of distinct services. The performance obligation to stand ready to provide continued access to gift card program is satisfied equally over time and therefore, the progress is measured on a time basis. Processing fee represents variable consideration for which the criteria for permitting allocation of the variable consideration to distinct days of service that forms part of the single performance obligation are met, namely:

- the terms of the variable payment relate specifically to its efforts to satisfy the distinct service on a particular day (i.e. it reflects the value of gift cards/ vouchers activated or reloaded or redeemed on a particular day); and
- allocating the variable amount of consideration entirely to the distinct service on a particular day is consistent with the allocation objective when considering all of the performance obligations and payment terms in the contract.

Processing fees are recognized at a point in time on each activation or reload or redemption of gift cards/ vouchers.

Distribution revenue

Distribution revenue majorly comprises margin/commission income from merchant or brand vendors for facilitating distribution of gift cards to retail or corporate customers net of margin/commission passed on to end customers which comprises pass-through cost. Contracts with merchants or brand vendors stipulate the type of distribution revenue and articulate how fees will be accrued and calculated.

Margin/commission income is charged on the value of gift cards/vouchers activated or reloaded or redeemed (as per the arrangements with merchant or brand vendors) and billed to the merchants or brand vendors based on the monthly reports generated. Margin/commission income are recognized at a point in time when such sale is made.

Distribution of other brand gift cards

For distribution of other brand gift cards through all the channels of the Group, as the Group is acting merely as an agent plus the obligation on Group being only to provide the gift cards to the customer, revenue is recognised at a point in time when such sale is made. For Group's Prepaid Payment Instruments (PPI) cards, revenue is recognized at a point in time upon activation/redemption as per the terms of agreement with co-branding partner.

The Group follows the requirements of Ind AS 115 Revenue from Contracts with Customers—Principal versus Agent Considerations, which states that the determination of whether a Group should recognize revenue based on the gross amount billed to a client or the net amount retained is a matter of judgment that depends on the facts and circumstances of the arrangement. The determination of gross versus net recognition of revenue requires judgment that depends on whether the Group controls the good or service before it is transferred to the merchant or whether the Group is acting as an agent of a third party. The assessment is performed separately for each performance obligation identified. Processing and distribution revenue arising from Semi Closed Loop Programs (SCLP), Open Loop Programs (OLP), Closed Loop Programs (CLP) and other brand gift cards are recognized net of discount passed on to end customers (either retail or corporate), since:

- the Group is only providing or granting or reselling the options to customers or end users (on behalf of Brand) to purchase additional goods or services from the brands by using the gift cards. Such sale of gift cards is in the nature of distribution of gift cards of another party (brands) to transfer goods or services to a customer by a third party;
- the Group does not control the gift cards and associated services before it is transferred to end customers.
- The Group is not responsible for honoring the promise to provide the specified good or service pertaining to the gift cards. The gift card issuer (i.e. merchant or brand vendor) is primary obligor for the redemption of gift cards;
- the Group does not carry any inventory risk / loss since these cards are issued on real time basis and the Group does not hold inventory at any time;
- the discretion of determining the discount to be allowed to end customer is either jointly controlled by the merchant or brand vendor and Group, or completely by the merchant or brand vendor.

For other brands cards wherein the Group maintains the inventory of the cards and has significant latitude over the pricing of the cards, the Group is acting as a principal, and revenue is recognized on a gross basis, for value of cards sold, at a point in time when such sale is made.

Wooahoo gift cards:

In case of distribution of wooahoo gift cards and certain card programs, the Group is entitled to incoming margin (i.e. discount received) at the time of redemption of gift cards as a percentage of the value of cards redeemed. In case of expiry of the gift cards, the Group is entitled to breakage revenue.

Network Cards :

In case of network cards, the Group incurs the cost in advance (in form of discount allowed to the user). The same is directly attributable to provision of such service and generation of underlying revenue from such programs. The Group recognises the upfront cost incurred as asset and accordingly recognises the same at the time of recognition of associated revenue or satisfaction of performance obligation (i.e. amortised in proportion of pattern of redemption of such cards).

Semi Closed Loop Programs (SCLP)

For all SCLP gift card programs, the Group's performance obligation being met only on redemption of the co-branded cards issued, revenue is recognised at the point in time when the gift cards are redeemed.

Closed Loop Programs (CLP)

For all CLP gift card programs, the Group's performance obligation is to provide technology throughout the life cycle of the gift cards. As the performance obligation is being met over the period revenue is recognised over the period of such contracts based on the agreed model of activation or redemption.

(b) Breakage revenue

As per Para B46 of Ind AS 115, If an entity expects to be entitled to a breakage amount in a contract liability, the entity shall recognise the expected breakage amount as revenue in proportion to the pattern of rights exercised by the customer. If an entity does not expect to be entitled to a breakage amount, the entity shall recognise the expected breakage amount as revenue when the likelihood of the customer exercising its remaining rights becomes remote.

In line with requirement of the standard as given above, the Group estimates the breakage it expects to be entitled to as the amount for which it is highly probable that a significant reversal will not occur in the future. The Group uses a portfolio of similar transactions as a source of data to estimate expected breakage for an individual contract if it has a sufficiently large number of similar transactions or other history. The estimated amount is recognised as revenue in proportion to the pattern of rights exercised by the user (proportional method). The assessment of estimated breakage is updated at each reporting period. Changes in estimated breakage is accounted for by adjusting the contract liability to reflect the remaining rights expected to be redeemed.

Accordingly, the Group recognises revenue only at the time of redemption of such cards.

Pine Labs Private Limited

Notes to the consolidated financial statements for the year ended 31 March 2024

(Amount in Indian Rupees (INR) lakhs, except per share data, unless otherwise stated)

(c) Variable consideration

If the consideration in a contract includes a variable amount, the Group estimates the amount of consideration to which it will be entitled in exchange for transferring the goods to the customer. The variable consideration is estimated at contract inception and constrained until it is highly probable that a significant revenue reversal in the amount of cumulative revenue recognized will not occur when the associated uncertainty with the variable consideration is subsequently resolved. Some gift card arrangements comprise the provision of payment of co-branding fee and efficiency payout to the merchants or brand vendor which give rise to variable consideration as explained below:

- Co-branding fee: The end user of co-branded cards and co-branding partner, both are customers for the Group. On sale of co-branded cards on the platform of co-branding partner, Group pays co-branding fee to the co-branding partner. It is construed as consideration payable to customer not in exchange for a distinct good or service. Such co-branding fee is considered as variable consideration and are included in determining the transaction price i.e. recognised as a reduction from the underlying revenue.

- In addition to above, the Group also makes certain other payments to co-branding partners, like program promotion support fees which are considered as consideration payable to customer. Since these give rise to variable consideration, these are included in determining the transaction price i.e. recognised as a reduction from the underlying revenue.

(d) Other revenue

Interest on funds held for customers

The Group also earns revenue from interest earned on funds held for customers in case of SCLP gift card program for provision of distribution services. Interest is earned on these funds that are initially deposited into the Group's escrow accounts maintained separately from the Group's operating cash accounts until these balances are cleared and credited to the intended recipient i.e. end user or merchant. Interest income is recognized using the effective interest method.

Deferred revenue

The Group records deferred revenue when it receives services fees in advance of transferring control of promised goods or services to a customer. A significant portion of this balance relates to service contracts where the Group received services fees from customers for upfront subscription based and other services (as mentioned above) which do not transfer value to the customer but rather are used in fulfilling the related performance obligations that transfer over time.

The service fees received is deferred over the contract term or longer period if it provides the customer a material right. The deferred revenue is recognized when underlying performance obligations are delivered.

Contract balances

Trade receivables

A receivable represents the Group's right to an amount of consideration that is unconditional (i.e., only the passage of time is required before payment of the consideration is due). Refer to accounting policies of financial assets in section 2.2.C of Financial instruments.

Contract liabilities

A contract liability is the obligation to transfer goods or services to a customer for which the Group has received consideration (or an amount of consideration is due) from the customer. If a customer pays consideration before the Group transfers goods or services to the customer, a contract liability is recognized when the payment is made, or the payment is due (whichever is earlier). Contract liabilities are recognized as revenue when the Group performs its obligations under the contract. Contract liability comprises "advance from customers and liability for unredeemed gift cards" and "Deferred revenue" in the standalone financial statements.

Contract assets

A contract asset is the right to consideration in exchange of goods or services transferred to the customer. If the Group performs its obligations by transferring goods or services to a customer before the customer pays consideration or before payment is due, a contract asset is recognized for the earned consideration excluding any amounts presented as a receivable.

L Recognition of interest income or expense

Interest income or expense is recognised using the effective interest method.

The 'effective interest rate' is the rate that exactly discounts estimated future cash payments or receipts through the expected life of the financial instrument to:

- the gross carrying amount of the financial asset; or
- the amortised cost of the financial liability.

In calculating interest income and expense, the effective interest rate is applied to the gross carrying amount of the asset (when the asset is not credit-impaired) or to the amortised cost of the liability. However, for financial assets that have become credit-impaired subsequent to initial recognition, interest income is calculated by applying the effective interest rate to the amortised cost of the financial asset. If the asset is no longer credit-impaired, then the calculation of interest income reverts to the gross basis.

M Income taxes

The income tax expense represents the sum of the current tax and deferred tax.

Current income tax

The primary tax jurisdiction of the Group is India. The tax currently payable is based on taxable profit for the year. Taxable profit differs from net profit as reported in profit or loss because it excludes items of income or expense that are taxable or deductible in other years and it further excludes items that are never taxable or deductible. The Group's liability for current tax is calculated using tax rates that have been enacted or substantively enacted by the end of the reporting period.

A provision is recognized for those matters for which the tax determination is uncertain, but it is considered probable that there will be a future outflow of funds to a tax authority. The provisions are measured at the best estimate of the amount expected to become payable. The assessment is based on the judgement of tax professionals within the Group supported by previous experience in respect of such activities and in certain cases based on specialist independent tax advice.

Deferred tax

Deferred tax is the tax expected to be payable or recoverable on differences between the carrying amounts of assets and liabilities in the financial statements and the corresponding tax bases used in the computation of taxable profit. Deferred tax liabilities are generally recognised for all taxable temporary differences and deferred tax assets are recognised to the extent that it is probable that taxable profits will be available against which deductible temporary differences can be utilised. Such assets and liabilities are not recognised if the temporary difference arises from the initial recognition (other than in a business combination) of other assets and liabilities in a transaction that affects neither the taxable profit nor the accounting profit.

(Amount in Indian Rupees (INR) lakhs, except per share data, unless otherwise stated)

Deferred tax assets are recognised for unused tax losses, unused tax credits and deductible temporary differences to the extent that it is probable that future taxable profits will be available against which they can be used. Future taxable profits are determined based on the reversal of relevant taxable temporary differences. If the amount of taxable temporary differences is insufficient to recognise a deferred tax asset in full, then future taxable profits, adjusted for reversals of existing temporary differences, are considered, based on the business plans for the Group. Deferred tax assets are reviewed at each reporting date and are reduced to the extent that it is no longer probable that the related tax benefit will be realised; such reductions are reversed when the probability of future taxable profits improves.

The carrying amount of deferred tax assets is reviewed at each reporting date and reduced to the extent that it is no longer probable that sufficient taxable profits will be available to allow all or part of the asset to be recovered.

Deferred tax is calculated at the tax rates that are expected to apply in the period when the liability is settled, or the asset is realised based on tax laws and rates that have been enacted or substantively enacted at the reporting date.

Deferred tax assets and liabilities are offset when there is a legally enforceable right to set off current tax assets against current tax liabilities and when they relate to income taxes levied by the same taxation authority and the Group intends to settle its current tax assets and liabilities on a net basis.

Current tax and deferred tax for the year

Current and deferred tax are recognised in profit or loss, except when they relate to items that are recognised in other comprehensive income or directly in equity, in which case, the current and deferred tax are also recognised in other comprehensive income or directly in equity respectively. Where current tax or deferred tax arises from the initial accounting for a business combination, the tax effect is included in the accounting for the business combination.

N Operating segments

Operating segments are reported in a manner consistent with the internal reporting provided to the chief operating decision maker. The Group has identified Digital payments and Issuing as its primary segments.

Under Digital payments segment, the Group provides technology platforms (under the brand name of "Pine labs") that are made available to merchants to enable acceptance of instore or online digital payments. These technology platforms and infrastructure allow merchants to accept debit cards, credit cards, prepaid instruments wallets, QR codes, Unified Payment Interface (UPI), loyalty points, pay later, etc. to enable purchases made by consumers. The merchants on Pine labs platforms span across sectors and cities primarily in India. The Group monetizes the platform by charging subscription-based or transaction-based fees from merchants, acquiring and issuing banks and consumer brand partners. In addition the Group also generates revenue from other sources, including digitization of fuel stations, integration fees, merchant lending, sales of paper rolls, loyalty and analytics services and fees from other partnerships.

Under Issuing segment, the Group primarily provides a technology platform as gift card solutions to issue, process and distribute prepaid cards. The platform is used by retail merchants as a payment mechanism for goods and services sold. For issuing and processing solutions, the Group monetizes by charging a variable fee from merchants who are utilizing the technology platform. In the case of distribution, revenue is earned based on the margin that Group retains by distributing the prepaid cards.

In reviewing the operational performance of the Group and allocating resources, the chief operating decision maker of the Group ("CODM"), i.e. the board of directors reviews the financial performance and forecasts, performance of key product lines, new product buildout/performance review, and other reviews such as employee performance, functional reviews and ad-hoc-reviews. The Group's operating segments, as described above, are strategic business units that offer different products and services. For each of the operating segments, the CODM reviews performance based on segment's revenue and adjusted gross profit. The financial review does not include breakups or details of assets and liabilities of these operating segments.

O Cash and cash equivalents

Cash and cash equivalents in the consolidated balance sheet comprises cash at bank and on hand, deposits and other short-term highly liquid investments with an original maturity of three months or less that are readily convertible to a known amount of cash and are subject to an insignificant risk of change in value.

P Earnings per share

Basic earnings (loss) per share is computed using the weighted average number of equity shares outstanding during the period. Diluted earnings (loss) per share is computed using the weighted-average number of equity and dilutive equivalent shares outstanding during the period, except where the results would be anti-dilutive.

The number of equity shares and potentially dilutive equity shares are adjusted retrospectively for all periods presented for any splits and bonus shares issues including for changes effected prior to the approval of the financial statements by the Board of Directors.

Q Borrowing costs

Borrowing costs consist of interest and other costs that an entity incurs in connection with the borrowing of funds. Borrowing cost also includes exchange differences to the extent regarded as an adjustment to the borrowing costs.

Borrowing costs directly attributable to the acquisition, construction or production of an asset that necessarily takes a substantial period of time to get ready for its intended use or sale are capitalised as part of the cost of the asset. Borrowing costs incurred for the period from commencement of activities relating to construction/ development of the qualifying asset upto the date of capitalisation of such asset are added to the cost of the asset. All other borrowing costs are expensed in the period in which they occur.

In case of a specific borrowing taken for the purpose of acquisition, construction or production of a qualifying asset, the borrowing costs capitalised shall be the actual borrowing costs incurred during the period less any interest income earned on temporary investment of specific borrowing pending expenditure on qualifying asset.

In case funds are borrowed generally and such funds are used for the purpose of acquisition, construction or production of a qualifying asset, the borrowing costs capitalised are calculated by applying the weighted average capitalisation rate on general borrowings outstanding during the period, to the expenditures incurred on the qualifying asset.

If any specific borrowing remains outstanding after the related asset is ready for its intended use, that borrowing is considered part of the funds that are borrowed generally for calculating the capitalisation rate.

R Current versus non-current classification

The Group presents assets and liabilities in the consolidated balance sheet based on current/non-current classification. An asset is current when it is:

- Expected to be realized or intended to be sold or consumed in the normal operating cycle
- Held primarily for the purpose of trading
- Expected to be realized within twelve months after the reporting period or
- Cash or cash equivalent unless restricted from being exchanged or used to settle a liability for at least twelve months after the reporting period

All other assets are classified as non-current.

(Amount in Indian Rupees (INR) lakhs, except per share data, unless otherwise stated)

A liability is current when:

- It is expected to be settled in the normal operating cycle
- It is held primarily for the purpose of trading
- It is due to be settled within twelve months after the reporting period or
- There is no unconditional right to defer the settlement of the liability for at least twelve months after the reporting period

The Group classifies all other liabilities as non-current.

Deferred tax assets and liabilities are classified as non-current assets and liabilities.

The operating cycle is the time between the acquisition of assets for processing/servicing and their realisation in cash and cash equivalents. The Group has identified a period less than twelve months as its operating cycle.

S Funds held for customers and customer fund deposits liability

Funds held for customers and the corresponding liability on customer fund deposits represent funds that are collected from customers for payments to their suppliers and funds that are collected on behalf of customers. Generally, these funds held for customers are initially deposited in separate bank accounts until remitted to the customers' suppliers or to the customers. The funds held for customers are restricted for the purpose of satisfying the customers' fund obligations and are not available for general business use by the Group.

T Share capital and share issuance expenses

Proceeds from issuance of equity shares are recognised as share capital in equity. Incremental costs directly attributable to the issuance of equity shares are deducted against share capital, if any.

U Government Grant

Government grants are recognised at their fair value when there is a reasonable assurance that the grant will be received and all attached conditions will be complied with. When the grant relates to an expense item, it is deferred and recognised as income in the Statement of profit and loss and other comprehensive income on a systematic basis over the periods necessary to match the related costs, which they are intended to compensate. When the grant relates to an asset or a non-monetary item, it is recognised as deferred income under liabilities and is recognised as income in the consolidated statement of profit and loss on a straight line basis over the expected useful life of the related asset or a non-monetary item.

V The Group has adopted applicable amendments effective from 1 April 2023 with respect to Ind AS 1-Presentation of Financial Statements, Ind AS 12-Income Taxes and Ind AS 8-Accounting Policies, Changes in Accounting Estimates and Errors. The Group has evaluated that there is no significant impact of such applicable amendments on the consolidated financial statements year ended 31 March 2024.

W Recent pronouncements

Ministry of Corporate Affairs ("MCA") notifies new standards or amendments to the existing standards under Companies (Indian Accounting Standards) Rules as issued from time to time. For the period commencing 1 April 2024, MCA has not notified any new standards or amendments to the existing standards applicable to the Group.

Pine Labs Private Limited

(Amount in Indian Rupees (INR) lakhs, except per share data, unless otherwise stated)

For all the borrowings stated above, the fair values are not materially different from their carrying amounts, since the interest payable on most of the borrowings is linked to current market rates or the borrowings are of a short-term nature. Information about the Group's exposure to interest rate and liquidity risks is included in note 34.

(i) Term loans from bank

Term loans are repayable in 45 to 64 monthly instalments (March 31, 2023 : 40 to 64) with the interest rate ranging between 8.60% to 9.64% (March 31, 2023 : 8.36% to 9.27%). These term loans are going to mature in financial year 2025 to 2028 (March 31, 2023 : 2024 to 2027). The loans are secured against exclusive charge on property, plant and equipment acquired / created out of these term loans and proportionate term deposits at agreed percentage of sanctioned and outstanding term loan amounts of the Group. (refer note 46).

(ii) Cash Credit and overdraft*

Cash Credits/ Bank Overdrafts are repayable on demand. All borrowings, except two bank overdraft facilities, are linked to respective bank MCLR/RBI repo rate of interest, including agreed spreads over and above such rates. The interest rates on the aforesaid two overdraft facilities are linked to interest rate of the contracted term deposits, including agreed spread over and above such rates, on which lien has been marked in favour of the related banks. Such Borrowings are secured by:

(a) Term deposits (amounts to the extent specified in sanctioned agreements), inventories, trade and other receivables and receivables from cashback schemes (exclusive/pari passu of the participating banks) and other current assets of the Group which have availed these limits (refer note 46). These charge are restricted to the outstanding balances of borrowings including interest and applicable charges if any.

(b) 100% cash margin in form of term deposits lien marked in favour of the related bank for overdraft facilities.

(iii) Loans from a financial institution

The Group has entered into various arrangements for sale and lease back of certain property, plant and equipment with a financial institution (other than bank). Under the arrangements, the related assets have been sold to the financial institution at the carrying value in the books of the Group. Further, the related assets have been leased back to the Group at a monthly lease payment for a tenor ranging from 36 months to 48 months. Since, the sale of such assets do not meet the criterion of sale under Ind AS-115, the assets have not been derecognized in accordance with guidance under Ind AS-116. The amounts received by the Group have been, consequently, presented as loans from financial institution. The interest rates on these arrangements are fixed ranging from 9.25% p.a. to 11.08% p.a.

(i) Cash and cash equivalents, restricted cash and cash equivalents, interest accrued on fixed deposits, trade and other receivables, receivables for cashback schemes, loan to employees, other receivables, trade and other payables and other financial liabilities approximate to their fair value largely due to the short-term nature of these instruments.

(ii) For all other financial instruments, the carrying amount is either the fair value, or approximates the fair value. Investment in equity instruments is valued using Net asset method. Net asset value is calculated as the book value of total assets after deduction of book value of total liabilities.

(iii) There have been no transfers between level I, level II and level III fair value measurements.

34 Financial risk management

The Group's activities expose it to a variety of financial risks: market risk (including currency risk and interest rate risk), credit risk and liquidity risk. The Group's senior management oversees the management of these risks. The senior professionals working to manage the financial risks and the appropriate financial risk governance framework for the Group are accountable to the Board. This process provides assurance to the Group's senior management that the Group's financial risk-taking activities are governed by appropriate policies and procedures and that financial risks are identified, measured and managed in accordance with the Group policies and risk objectives.

(A) Credit risk

Credit risk is the risk that a counter party will not meet its obligations under a financial instrument or customer contract, leading to a financial loss. The Group is exposed to credit risk from its operating activities (primarily trade receivables and contract assets) and from its financing activities, including deposits with banks, and financial institutions, and other financial assets. Management has a credit policy in place and the exposure to credit risk is monitored on an ongoing basis. Financial assets are written off when there are indicators that there is no reasonable expectation of recovery.

Trade receivables and contract assets

Trade receivables and contract assets are non interest bearing and are generally on 30 to 90 days credit term. The Group has no concentration of credit risk as the customer base is widely distributed both economically and geographically.

Credit risk has always been managed by the Group through credit approvals, establishing credit limits and continuously monitoring the creditworthiness of customers to which the Group grants credit terms in the normal course of business. In accordance with Ind AS 109, the group applies expected credit loss model (ECL) for measurement and recognition of impairment loss. The Group follows 'simplified approach' for recognition of impairment loss allowance on trade receivables and contract assets. The Group determines the expected credit losses on these items by using flow rate, estimates based on historical credit loss experience of past due status of the debtors, adjusted as appropriate to reflect current conditions and estimates of future economic conditions. Management also exercises judgment in specific cases and basis past experience makes additional impairment loss provisions. These include trade receivables associated with litigations, balances related to customer who have not transacted/ paid for more than a specific period and other reasons.

The carrying amounts of financial assets represent the maximum credit risk exposure. The Group does not hold collateral as security except in case of issuing business where the Group holds insurance cover for trade receivable basis internal assessment for specified customers.

The Group's credit risk exposure in relation to trade receivables and contract assets under Ind AS 109 as at 31 March 2024 and 31 March 2023 are set out as follows:

Other financial instruments and term deposits

Credit risk from balances with banks and financial institutions is managed by Group's treasury. Investments of surplus funds are made only with approved counterparties who meet the minimum threshold requirements under the counterparty risk assessment process. The Group monitors ratings, credit spreads and financial strength of its counter parties. Based on its on-going assessment of counterparty risk, the Group adjusts its exposure to various counterparties. Counterparty credit limits are set to minimise the concentration of risks.

Cash and cash equivalents, earmarked balances with banks and fixed deposits.

Security deposits

The Group monitors the credit rating of the counterparties on regular basis. These instruments carry very minimal credit risk based on the financial position of parties and Company's historical experience of dealing with the parties.

(B) Liquidity risk

Liquidity risk is the risk that the Group may not be able to meet its present and future cash and collateral obligations without incurring unacceptable losses. Ultimate responsibility for liquidity risk management rests with the board of directors, which has established an appropriate liquidity risk management framework for management of the Group's short, medium and long-term funding and liquidity management requirements. The Group manages liquidity risk by maintaining adequate reserves, banking facilities and reserve borrowing facilities, by continuously monitoring forecast and actual cash flows, and by matching the maturity profiles of financial assets and liabilities. The Group closely monitors its liquidity position and employs a cash management system. It maintains adequate sources of financing including loans, debt, cash credit and overdraft facilities from banks. The balance sheet date, among other bank balance, the Group held deposits with original maturity of more than three months but less than twelve months of INR 9,222 lakhs as at 31 March 2024 (31 March 2023: INR 30,606 lakhs) that are expected to readily generate cash inflows for managing liquidity risk.

(i) Maturities of financial liabilities

The table below provides details regarding the contractual maturities of significant financial liabilities:

Secured cash credit facility:
-amount used	27,056	4,775
-amount unused	33,594	36,425

(C) Market risk

Market risk is the risk that the fair value or future cash flows of a financial instrument will fluctuate because of changes in market prices. Market prices comprise three types of risk: foreign currency rate risk, interest rate risk and other price risks, such as equity risk. Market risk is attributable to all market risk sensitive financial instruments including foreign currency receivables, payables, borrowings and investment in mutual funds. The Group has in place appropriate risk management policies to limit the impact of these risks on its financial performance.

The Group's activities expose it to a variety of financial risks, including the effects of changes in foreign currency exchange rates and interest rates. Currently, no interest rate swaps or forward contracts are taken to cover any foreign currency fluctuations and interest rate risk.

(i) Interest rate risk

Interest rate risk is the risk that the fair value or future cash flows of a financial instrument will fluctuate because of changes in market interest rates. The Group's exposure to the risk of changes in market interest rates relates primarily to the Group's debt interest obligations, except in case of borrowings from a financial institution. Further, the Group engages in financing activities at both fixed and market linked rates. Any changes in the market linked interest rates environment may impact future rates of market linked borrowing. The board continuously monitors the prevailing interest rates in the market.

Sensitivity

With all other variables held constant, the following table demonstrates the sensitivity to a reasonably possible change in interest rates on floating rate portion of borrowings (excluding cash credit facilities):

Particulars	Impact on loss (increase/(decrease))
	31 March 2024	31 March 2023
Interest rate (increase by 100 basis points)	233	138
Interest rate (decrease by 100 basis points)	(233)	(138)

The assumed movement in basis points for interest rate sensitivity analysis is based on the currently observable market environment, assuming other variables to be constant.

(ii) Foreign currency risk

Foreign currency risk is the risk that the fair value or future cash flows of a financial instrument will fluctuate because of changes in foreign currency exchange rates. Fluctuations in foreign currency exchange rates may have an impact on the consolidated statements of profit and loss, the consolidated statement of changes in equity, where any transaction references more than one currency or where assets/liabilities are denominated in a currency other than the functional currency of the Group.

The Group operates internationally and is exposed to foreign exchange risk arising from foreign currency transactions, primarily with respect to trade receivables and payables. The Group does not enter into derivative financial instruments (such as foreign currency forward contracts) for hedging of its foreign currency risk. The appropriateness of the risk policy is reviewed periodically with reference to the approved foreign currency risk management policy followed by the Group.

Sensitivity

The Group is mainly exposed to the fluctuations in USD

The following table details the Group's sensitivity to a 5% increase and decrease in currency units against USD. 5% is the rate used in order to determine the sensitivity analysis, considering the past trends and represents management's assessment of the reasonably possible change in foreign exchange rates. The sensitivity analysis includes outstanding foreign currency denominated monetary items and adjusts their translation at the year-end for a 5% change in foreign currency rates.

A positive number below indicates an increase in profit and other reserves where INR strengthens 5% against USD. For a 5% weakening of INR against USD, there would be a comparable impact on the profit and other reserves, and the balances below would be negative

Particulars	Impact on loss ((increase)/decrease)
	31 March 2024	31 March 2023

VI Principle actuarial assumptions

	As at 31 March 2024	As at 31 March 2023
(i) Discount rate (per annum)	7.05% to 7.20%	7.22% to 7.25%
(ii) Expected increase in salary costs (per annum)	5% until year 1 inclusive, then 8% until year 3 inclusive, then 9.50%	5% until year 1 inclusive, then 10% until year 3 inclusive, then 9.50%
(iii) Attrition rate	Age related & experience as given below:
	Age (Years)	Rates %	Age (Years)	Rates %
	21-30	20 to 41	21-30	15 to 30
	31-40	20 to 41	31-40	15 to 30
	41-50	20 to 41	41-50	15 to 30
	51-58	20 to 41	51-58	15 to 30
(iv) Mortality rate ; Published rates under the Indian Assured Lives Mortality (2012-14) Ult table and IALM table
(v) Retirement age	58 years		58 years

VII Quantitative sensitivity analysis for significant assumptions is as below:

Discount Rate
Increase by 0.5%	(64)	(66)
Decrease by 0.5%	51	69
Salary Increase
Increase by 0.5%	50	68
Decrease by 0.5%	(64)	(66)

The above sensitivity analysis are based on a change in an assumption while holding all other assumptions constant. In practice, this is unlikely to occur, and changes in some of the assumptions may be correlated. When calculating the sensitivity of the defined benefit obligation to significant actuarial assumptions the same method (present value of the defined benefit obligation calculated with the projected unit credit method at the end of the reporting period) has been applied as when calculating the defined benefit liability recognised in the consolidated balance sheet.

VIII Risk exposure

Through its defined benefit plans, The Group is exposed to a number of risks, the most significant of which are detailed below:

Interest rate risk: The defined benefit obligation calculated uses a discount rate based on government bonds. If bond yields fall, the defined benefit obligation will tend to increase.

Salary inflation risk: Higher than expected increases in salary will increase the defined benefit obligation.

Demographic risk : This is the risk of variability of results due to unsystematic nature of decrements that include mortality, withdrawal, disability and retirement. The effect of these decrements on the defined benefit obligation is not straight forward and depends upon the combination of salary increase, discount rate and vesting criteria. It is important not to overstate withdrawals because in the financial analysis the retirement benefit of a short career employee typically costs less per year as compared to a long service employee.

IX Maturity profile of defined benefit obligation (Undiscounted)

Particulars	As at 31 March 2024	As at 31 March 2023
Within the next 12 months (next annual reporting period)	1,023	653
Between 1 and 6 years	2,417	2,105
Beyond 6 years	1,013	1,025
Total expected payments	4,453	3,783

X The average duration of the defined benefit plan obligation at the end of the reporting period is 2.58 to 4.68 years (31 March 2023: 3.56 to 5.86 years).

40 Contingent liabilities

	As at 31 March 2024	As at 31 March 2023
i) Bonus payable for the financial year 2014-15	5	5
ii) Employee provident fund liability including interest	34	34
iii) Indirect tax matters	4,811	4,287
iv) Legal compliance of labour laws and other civil matters	59	-

a) The nature of such litigations are as follows:

a(i) As per an additional requirement introduced under Payment of Bonus Act, 1965, from year 2016 onwards, the statutory bonus shall be included and paid as a part of the salary for all the eligible employees. Since it was not specifically called out if such requirement needs to be complied retrospectively, the excess amount of INR 5 lakhs relating to FY 2014-15 has been considered under contingent liabilities by the Group in consultation with their legal counsel.

a(ii) In February 2019, there was a judicial pronouncement in India with respect to defined contribution benefit payments interpreting certain statutory defined contribution obligations of employees and employers. It is not currently clear whether the interpretation set out in the pronouncement has retrospective application. If applied retrospectively, the interpretation would result in an increase in contributions payable by the Group for past periods for certain of its India-based employees. There are numerous interpretative challenges concerning the retrospective application of the judgment. Due to such challenges and a lack of interpretive guidance and based on legal advice the Group has obtained on the matter, it is currently impracticable to reliably estimate the timing and amount of any payments the Group may be required to make.

a(iii) In August 2018, one of the regulatory authorities in India, the Directorate General of Goods & Services Tax Intelligence ("Department"), issued a show cause notice ("Notice"), and subsequently passed an order dated December 30, 2021 confirming the demand alleging non-payment of service tax on various transactions over a period of five years between 2012 and 2017. The Group has filed an appeal in CESAT against the abovesaid order. On the basis of internal evaluation and in consultation with the legal counsel, the Group has considered an amount of INR 4,810 lakhs (31 March 2023: INR 4,287 lakhs) after considering net breakage retained by the Group excluding interest (including penalty) under contingent liabilities. The Group has deposited INR 103 lakhs (31 March 2023: INR 103 lakhs) (refer note 11) as payment under protest against aforesaid appeal filed.

b) In July 2019, a third party filed a lawsuit against Group, alleging infringement of a patent. The complaint, sought an injunction restraining the Group from using, including dealing in any manner directly or indirectly, with any system / product / technology covered by such patent. The District Court limited its order in essence to not use the patent and has transferred the case to a higher court given the Group's claim of invalid patent. Subsequently in April, 2023, the High court has vacated the injunction restraining the Group from using, including dealing with any system/product/technology covered by such patent. The Group has challenged and will defend the claims made against the Group.

The Group is of the view that the third party claim is untenable. Based on the Group's evaluation, the expected impact of pending legal proceedings and claims, should not have any material adverse effect on business operations, cash flows or consolidated balance sheet.

c) The Group is involved in lawsuits and proceedings, which arise in the ordinary course of business. The ultimate liability is not currently determinable because of considerable uncertainties that exist / pending the resolution of proceedings. However, based on facts currently available, management believes that the disposition of matters that are pending or asserted will not have a material adverse impact on the consolidated financial statements.

44 Operating segments

In reviewing the operational performance of the Group and allocating resources, the chief operating decision maker of the Group ("CODM") i.e. the Board of Directors reviews the financial performance and forecasts, performance of key product lines, new product buildout/performance reviews, and other reviews such as employee performance, functional reviews and ad-hoc-reviews. The Group's operating segments, as described below, are strategic business units that offer different products and services. For each of the operating segments, the CODM reviews performance based on Revenue and Gross Profit. The financial review does not include breakups or details of assets and liabilities of these operating segments. The Group's reportable segments under Ind AS 108, as reflected in internal management reports, are therefore as follows:

Segment A - Digital payments

Segment B - Issuing

Digital payments:

Under Digital payments segment, the Group provides technology platforms (under the brand name of "Pinelabs") that are made available to merchants to enable acceptance of instore or online digital payments. These technology platforms and infrastructure allow merchants to accept debit cards, credit cards, prepaid instruments wallets, QR codes, Unified Payment Interface (UPI), loyalty points, pay later, etc. to enable purchases made by consumers. The merchants on Pinelabs platforms span across sectors and cities primarily in India. The Group monetizes the platform by charging subscription-based or transaction-based fees from merchants, acquiring and issuing banks and consumer brand partners. In addition the Group also generates revenue from other sources, including digitization of fuel stations, integration fees, merchant lending, sales of paper rolls, loyalty and analytics services and fees from other partnerships.

Issuing:

Under Issuing segment, the Group primarily provides a technology platform to issue, process and distribute prepaid cards. For issuing and processing solutions, the Group monetizes primarily by charging a processing fee from merchants who are utilizing the technology platform and in the case of distribution, revenue is earned based on the commission earned that the Group retains by distributing prepaid cards. Additionally, the Group earns interest income on amounts loaded on the prepaid cards that are deposited in a bank escrow account and that have not yet been utilized, breakage income which is the unutilized amount remaining after expiry as per applicable regulatory guidelines; and program initiation and integration fee of merchant's platform with the Group's technology platform.

45 Impairment testing for cash generating units (CGU) containing goodwill

For the purpose of impairment testing, goodwill is allocated to a CGU representing the lowest level within the Group at which goodwill is monitored for internal management purposes and which is not higher than the Group's operating segment.

	As at 31 March 2024	As at 31 March 2023
Issuing (refer note (i) below)	45,910	45,910

Notes:

- (i) The acquisition of erstwhile Qwikilver Solutions Private Limited ("Qwikilver") in April 2019 resulted in the recognition of goodwill of INR 45,910 lakhs which was allocated to then identified CGU i.e. Qwikilver - prepaid cards business. As at 1 April 2020, the Group completed integration of the prepaid card business of Pine Labs Private Limited and erstwhile Qwikilver Solutions Private Limited, pursuant to the Group drawing significant synergies and benefits from the integrated businesses, thereby leading to a change in the composition of its CGUs. As a result of the integration, management monitors operations and makes decisions for the combined prepaid card business (i.e. Issuing).

In conjunction with the above business integration activities, during the year ended 31 March 2021, the Group reorganized its reporting structure as well to align with the newly integrated businesses. Thus, the goodwill which was initially (at the time of acquisition of erstwhile Qwikilver) allocated to Qwikilver - prepaid cards business CGU of INR 45,910 lakhs was re-allocated to the newly established CGU structure as on 1 April 2020 and was reassessed for impairment at the level of Issuing CGU.

- (ii) The recoverable amount of the CGUs is determined based on the value-in-use calculations which require use of assumptions. The calculations are performed using cash flow projections based on financial budgets approved by senior management covering a five-year period. Cash flows beyond the five year period are incorporated in perpetuity using the estimated growth rates stated below, during which the business is expected to continue generating cash. The terminal growth rate, revenue growth rate and EBITDA margins were determined based on management's estimates.

- (iii) Key assumptions used in estimation of value in use were as follows:

The key assumptions used in the calculation of value in use are as follows:

	As at 31 March 2024	As at 31 March 2023
Issuing business
Discount rate (pre-tax)*	18.05%	18.73%
Terminal growth rate	4.5%	4.5%
Revenue growth rate	27% - 34%	30% - 32%
EBITDA margin	24% - 36%	33% - 35%

*The discount rate is based on the Weighted Average Cost of Capital (WACC) of the Group and has been calculated taking in account long-term interest rate, equity risk premium, asset specific risk premium and industry beta. These estimates are likely to differ from future actual results of operations and cash flows.

- (iv) Sensitivity Analysis

The Group has conducted an analysis of the sensitivity of the impairment test to changes in the key assumptions used to determine the recoverable amount for the CGUs to which goodwill is allocated. The management believes that any reasonably possible change in the key assumptions on which the recoverable amount of CGUs is based would not cause the aggregate carrying amount to exceed the aggregate recoverable amount of the CGUs.

- (v) Based on the above, no impairment was identified as of 31 March 2024 and 31 March 2023 as the recoverable value of the CGUs exceeded their respective carrying value.

INDEPENDENT AUDITORS' REPORT TO THE MEMBERS OF PINE LABS LIMITED

(Incorporated in the Republic of Singapore)

Responsibilities of Management and Directors for the Financial Statements

Management is responsible for the preparation of financial statements that give a true and fair view in accordance with the provisions of the Act and FRSS, and for devising and maintaining a system of internal accounting controls sufficient to provide a reasonable assurance that assets are safeguarded against loss from unauthorised use or disposition; and transactions are properly authorised and that they are recorded as necessary to permit the preparation of true and fair financial statements and to maintain accountability of assets.

In preparing the financial statements, management is responsible for assessing the Group's ability to continue as a going concern, disclosing, as applicable, matters related to going concern and using the going concern basis of accounting unless management either intends to liquidate the Group or to cease operations, or has no realistic alternative but to do so.

The directors' responsibilities include overseeing the Group's financial reporting process.

Auditor's Responsibilities for the Audit of the Financial Statements

Our objectives are to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statements as a whole are free from material misstatement, whether due to fraud or error, and to issue an auditor's report that includes our opinion. Reasonable assurance is a high level of assurance, but is not a guarantee that an audit conducted in accordance with SSAs will always detect a material misstatement when it exists. Misstatements can arise from fraud or error and are considered material if, individually or in the aggregate, they could reasonably be expected to influence the economic decisions of users taken on the basis of these financial statements.

As part of an audit in accordance with SSAs, we exercise professional judgement and maintain professional scepticism throughout the audit. We also:

- Identify and assess the risks of material misstatement of the financial statements, whether due to fraud or error, design and perform audit procedures responsive to those risks, and obtain audit evidence that is sufficient and appropriate to provide a basis for our opinion. The risk of not detecting a material misstatement resulting from fraud is higher than for one resulting from error, as fraud may involve collusion, forgery, intentional omissions, misrepresentations, or the override of internal control.
- Obtain an understanding of internal control relevant to the audit in order to design audit procedures that are appropriate in the circumstances, but not for the purpose of expressing an opinion on the effectiveness of the Group's internal control.
- Evaluate the appropriateness of accounting policies used and the reasonableness of accounting estimates and related disclosures made by management.

INDEPENDENT AUDITORS' REPORT TO THE MEMBERS OF PINE LABS LIMITED

(Incorporated in the Republic of Singapore)

- Conclude on the appropriateness of management's use of the going concern basis of accounting and, based on the audit evidence obtained, whether a material uncertainty exists related to events or conditions that may cast significant doubt on the Group's ability to continue as a going concern. If we conclude that a material uncertainty exists, we are required to draw attention in our auditor's report to the related disclosures in the financial statements or, if such disclosures are inadequate, to modify our opinion. Our conclusions are based on the audit evidence obtained up to the date of our auditor's report. However, future events or conditions may cause the Group to cease to continue as a going concern.
- Evaluate the overall presentation, structure and content of the financial statements, including the disclosures, and whether the financial statements represent the underlying transactions and events in a manner that achieves fair presentation.
- Obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence regarding the financial information of the entities or business activities within the Group to express an opinion on the consolidated financial statements. We are responsible for the direction, supervision and performance of the group audit. We remain solely responsible for our audit opinion.

We communicate with the directors regarding, among other matters, the planned scope and timing of the audit and significant audit findings, including any significant deficiencies in internal control that we identify during our audit.

Report on Other Legal and Regulatory Requirements

In our opinion, the accounting and other records required by the Act to be kept by the Company and by those subsidiary corporations incorporated in Singapore of which we are the auditors have been properly kept in accordance with the provisions of the Act.

(Incorporated in the Republic of Singapore)

These notes form an integral part of and should be read in conjunction with the accompanying financial statements.

1. Reporting Entity

Pine Labs Limited (the Company) is a public limited liability company domiciled and incorporated in Singapore on July 15, 2013. The registered office and principal place of business of the Company is located at 38 Beach Road, #29-11 South Beach Tower, Singapore 189767.

The Company and its subsidiaries (collectively, the Group) are principally engaged in providing services related to transaction processing, payment solutions, gifting solutions, petroleum retail automation (including supply of materials) and selling of POS (Digital checkout points) devices and providing services with respect to sale of such devices to its customers.

2. Summary of Significant Accounting Policies

2.1 Statement of compliance and basis of preparation

Statement of compliance

The financial statements have been prepared in accordance with Singapore Financial Reporting Standards (FRS). The Group has consistently applied the accounting policies to all periods presented in these financial statements, except as mentioned otherwise.

The financial statements were authorised for issue by the Board of Directors on [date].

Basis of preparation

The financial statements correspond to the classification provisions contained in FRS 1 Presentation of Financial Statements. For clarity, various items are aggregated in the consolidated statement of profit and loss and other comprehensive income, the consolidated statement of financial position and the statement of financial position of the Company. These items are disaggregated separately in the notes to the financial statements, where applicable.

The financial statements have been prepared on the on the historical cost and on an accrual basis except for the following material items:

- certain financial assets and liabilities measured at fair value where FRS requires a different accounting treatment (refer accounting policy regarding financial instruments),
- defined benefit asset/ (liability) measured at fair value of plan assets (if any) less the present value of defined benefit obligation.

Historical cost is generally based on the fair value of the consideration given in exchange for goods and services.

Fair value is the price that would be received to sell an asset or paid to transfer a liability in an orderly transaction between market participants at the measurement date, regardless of whether that price is directly observable or estimated using another valuation technique. In estimating the fair value of an asset or a liability, the Group takes into account the characteristics of the asset or liability if market participants would take those characteristics into account when pricing the asset or liability at the measurement date. Fair value for measurement and/or disclosure purposes in these financial statements is determined on such basis, except for share-based payment transactions that are within the scope of FRS 102, leasing transactions that are within the scope of FRS 116, and measurements that have some similarities to fair value but are not fair value, such as net realisable value in FRS 2 or value in use in FRS 36.

PINE LABS LIMITED AND ITS SUBSIDIARIES

(Incorporated in the Republic of Singapore)

2. Summary of Significant Accounting Policies (continued)

2.2 Going concern

The directors have, at the time of approving the financial statements, a reasonable expectation that the Group has adequate resources to continue in operational existence for the foreseeable future. Thus, they continue to adopt the going concern basis of accounting in preparing the financial statements.

2.3 Subsidiaries and principles of consolidation

(a) Basis of consolidation

The consolidated financial statements comprise the financial statements of the Company and entities controlled by the Company (its subsidiaries) as at the end of the reporting period. Control is achieved when the Company:

- Has power over the investee
- Is exposed, or has rights, to variable returns from its involvement with the investee; and
- Has the ability to use its power to affect its returns.

The Company reassesses whether or not it controls an investee if facts and circumstances indicate that there are changes to one or more of the three elements of control listed above.

When the Company has less than a majority of the voting rights of an investee, it considers that it has power over the investee when the voting rights are sufficient to give it the practical ability to direct the relevant activities of the investee unilaterally. The Company considers all relevant facts and circumstances in assessing whether or not the Company's voting rights in an investee are sufficient to give it power, including:

- the size of the Company's holding of voting rights relative to the size and dispersion of holdings of the other vote holders;
- potential voting rights held by the Company, other vote holders or other parties;
- rights arising from other contractual arrangements; and
- any additional facts and circumstances that indicate that the Company has, or does not have, the current ability to direct the relevant activities at the time that decisions need to be made, including voting patterns at previous shareholders' meetings.

Consolidation of a subsidiary begins when the Company obtains control over the subsidiary and ceases when the Company loses control of the subsidiary. Specifically, the results of a subsidiary acquired or disposed of during the year are included in the consolidated statement of profit or loss from the date the Company gains control until the date when the Company ceases to control the subsidiary.

Non-controlling interests in subsidiaries are identified separately from the Group's equity therein. Those interests of non-controlling shareholders that are present ownership interests entitling their holders to a proportionate share of net assets upon liquidation may initially be measured at fair value or at the non-controlling interests' proportionate share of the fair value of the acquiree's identifiable net assets. The choice of measurement is made on an acquisition-by-acquisition basis. Other non-controlling interests are initially measured at fair value. Subsequent to acquisition, the carrying amount of non-controlling interests is the amount of those interests at initial recognition plus the non-controlling interests' share of subsequent changes in equity.

Profit or loss and each component of other comprehensive income are attributed to the owners of the Company and to the non-controlling interests. Total comprehensive income of the subsidiaries is attributed to the owners of the Company and to the non-controlling interests even if this results in the non-controlling interests having a deficit balance.

The financial statements of the subsidiaries used in the preparation of the consolidated financial statements are prepared for the same reporting date as that of the Company. Consistent accounting policies are applied to like transactions and events in similar circumstances.

All intra-group balances, income and expenses and unrealised gains and losses resulting from intra-group transactions are eliminated in full on consolidation.

Changes in the Group's interests in subsidiaries that do not result in a loss of control are accounted for as equity transactions. The carrying amount of the Group's interests and the non-controlling interests are adjusted to reflect the changes in their relative interests in the subsidiaries. Any difference between the amount by which the non-controlling interests are adjusted and the fair value of the consideration paid or received is recognised directly in equity and attributed to the owners of the Company.

When the Group loses control of a subsidiary, the gain or loss on disposal recognised in profit or loss is calculated as the difference between (i) the aggregate of the fair value of the consideration received and the fair value of any retained interest and (ii) the previous carrying amount of the assets (including goodwill), less liabilities of the subsidiary and any non-controlling interests. All amounts previously recognised in other comprehensive income in relation to that subsidiary are accounted for as if the Group had directly disposed of the related assets or liabilities of the subsidiary (i.e. reclassified to profit or loss or transferred to another category of equity as required/permitted by applicable FRS Standards). The fair value of any investment retained in the former subsidiary at the date when control is lost is regarded as the fair value on initial recognition for subsequent accounting under FRS 109 when applicable, or the cost on initial recognition of an investment in an associate or a joint venture.

(b) Business combinations and Goodwill

Acquisitions of businesses are accounted for using the acquisition method. The consideration transferred in a business combination is measured at fair value, which is calculated as the sum of the acquisition-date fair values of assets transferred by the Group, liabilities incurred by the Group to the former owners of the acquiree and the equity interest issued by the Group in exchange for control of the acquiree. Acquisition-related costs are recognised in the consolidated statement of profit or loss as incurred.

At the acquisition date, the identifiable assets acquired, and the liabilities assumed are recognised at their fair value at the acquisition date, except that:

- deferred tax assets or liabilities and assets or liabilities related to employee benefit arrangements are recognised and measured in accordance with FRS 12 and FRS 19 respectively;
- liabilities or equity instruments related to share-based payment arrangements of the acquiree or share-based payment arrangements of the Group entered into to replace share-based payment arrangements of the acquiree are measured in accordance with FRS 102 at the acquisition date (see below in Note 2.16).

Goodwill is measured as the excess of the sum of the consideration transferred, the amount of any non-controlling interests in the acquiree, and the fair value of the acquirer's previously held equity interest in the acquiree (if any) over the net of the acquisition-date amounts of the identifiable assets acquired and the liabilities assumed. If, after reassessment, the net of the acquisition-date amounts of the identifiable assets acquired and liabilities assumed exceeds the sum of the consideration transferred, the amount of any non-controlling interests in the acquiree and the fair value of the acquirer's previously held interest in the acquiree (if any), the excess is recognised immediately in profit or loss as a bargain purchase gain.

If share-based payment awards (replacement awards) are required to be exchanged for awards held by the acquiree's employees (acquiree's awards), then all or a portion of the amount of the acquirer's replacement awards is included in measuring the consideration transferred in the business combination. This determination is based on the market-based measure of the acquiree's awards and the extent to which the replacement awards relate to precombination services (refer accounting policy regarding share-based payments).

If the initial accounting for a business combination is incomplete by the end of the reporting period in which the combination occurs, the Group reports provisional amounts for the items for which the accounting is incomplete. Those provisional amounts are adjusted during the measurement period, or additional assets or liabilities are recognised, to reflect new information obtained about facts and circumstances that existed as of the acquisition date that, if known, would have affected the amounts recognised as of that date. Measurement period adjustments are adjustments that arise from additional information obtained during the 'measurement period' (which cannot exceed one year from the acquisition date) about facts and circumstances that existed at the acquisition date.

(c) Leases acquired as a part of business combination

For leases identified in accordance with FRS 116, in which the acquiree is a lessee, the Group measures the lease liability at the present value of the remaining lease payments (as defined in accounting policy for leases), as if the acquired lease were a new lease at the acquisition date. The right-of-use asset is measured at the same amount as the lease liability, adjusted to reflect favorable or unfavorable terms of the lease when compared to market terms.

2.4 Current versus non-current classification

The Group presents assets and liabilities in the statement of financial position based on current/non-current classification. An asset is current when it is:

- Expected to be realised or intended to be sold or consumed in the normal operating cycle
- Held primarily for the purpose of trading
- Expected to be realised within twelve months after the reporting period or
- Cash or cash equivalent unless restricted from being exchanged or used to settle a liability for at least twelve months after the reporting period

All other assets are classified as non-current.

2.4 Current versus non-current classification (continued)

A liability is current when:

- It is expected to be settled in the normal operating cycle
- It is held primarily for the purpose of trading
- It is due to be settled within twelve months after the reporting period or
- There is no unconditional right to defer the settlement of the liability for at least twelve months after the reporting period

The Group classifies all other liabilities as non-current.

Deferred tax assets and liabilities are classified as non-current assets and liabilities.

The operating cycle is the time between the acquisition of assets for processing/servicing and their realisation in cash and cash equivalents. The Group has identified a period less than twelve months as its operating cycle.

2.5 Foreign currencies

Functional currency and presentation currency

All amounts included in the consolidated financial statements are reported in Indian Rupee (INR) million except share and per share data, unless otherwise stated. Due to rounding off, the numbers presented throughout the document may not add up precisely to the totals and percentages may not precisely reflect the absolute figures. The functional currency of the Company and its Indian subsidiaries is the Indian Rupee. The functional currency for other subsidiaries has been determined based on the primary economic environment in which each of the subsidiary operates and is normally the currency in which each subsidiary primarily generates and expends cash. These financial statements are presented in Indian Rupees.

In preparing the financial statements of the Group entities, transactions in currencies other than the entity's functional currency (foreign currencies) are recognised at the rates of exchange prevailing on the dates of the transactions, or an average rate that approximates the actual rate. At each reporting date, monetary assets and liabilities that are denominated in foreign currencies are retranslated at the rates prevailing at that date. Non-monetary items carried at fair value that are denominated in foreign currencies are translated at the rates prevailing at the date when the fair value was determined. Non-monetary items that are measured in terms of historical cost in a foreign currency are not retranslated.

Exchange differences are recognised in profit or loss in the period in which they arise.

For the purpose of presenting consolidated financial statements, the assets and liabilities of the Group's foreign operations are translated at exchange rates prevailing on the reporting date. Income and expense items are translated at the average exchange rates for the period, unless exchange rates fluctuate significantly during that period, in which case the exchange rates at the date of transactions are used. Exchange differences arising, if any, are recognised in other comprehensive income and accumulated in a foreign exchange translation reserve.

On the disposal of a foreign operation (i.e. a disposal of the Group's entire interest in a foreign operation, or a disposal involving loss of control over a subsidiary that includes a foreign operation of which the retained interest becomes a financial asset), all of the exchange differences accumulated in a foreign exchange translation reserve in respect of that operation attributable to the owners of the Company are reclassified to profit or loss.

In addition, in relation to a partial disposal of a subsidiary that includes a foreign operation that does not result in the Group losing control over the subsidiary, the proportionate share of accumulated exchange differences is re-attributed to non-controlling interests and are not recognised in profit or loss.

Goodwill and fair value adjustments arising on the acquisition of a foreign entity are treated as assets and liabilities of the foreign entity and translated at the closing rate. Exchange differences arising are recognised in other comprehensive income.

2.6 Property, plant and equipment

All items of property, plant and equipment, are initially recorded at cost. Subsequent to recognition, property, plant and equipment are measured at cost less accumulated depreciation and accumulated impairment losses, if any. The cost includes directly attributable expenses incurred to bring the asset to the location and condition necessary for it to be capable of being operated in the manner intended by management and initial estimate of decommissioning, restoring and similar liabilities.

Subsequent costs related to an item of property, plant and equipment are recognised as a separate asset, as appropriate, only when it is probable that future economic benefits associated with the item will flow to the Group and the cost of the item can be measured reliably. The carrying amount of any component accounted for as a separate asset is derecognised when replaced. All other repairs and maintenance are recognised in the consolidated statement of profit or loss during the reporting period when they are incurred.

Depreciation is computed on a straight-line basis over the estimated useful lives of the asset as follows:

Leasehold improvements	Lower of lease term or 7 years
Computers	3 to 5 years
Office equipment	3 to 5 years
Furniture and fixtures	3 to 10 years
Vehicles	3 years
Plant and machinery (including point of sale machines)	1.5 to 5 years
Servers and networks	3 to 6 years

Capital work-in-progress includes cost of property, plant and equipment under installation/under development as at the balance sheet date and are not depreciated as these assets are not yet available for use.

The useful life and depreciation method are reviewed at each financial year-end to ensure that the amount, method and period of depreciation are consistent with previous estimates and the expected pattern of consumption of the future economic benefits embodied in the items of property, plant and equipment. The effect of changes in estimates, if any, is taken on a prospective basis.

An item of property, plant and equipment is derecognised upon disposal or when no future economic benefits are expected to arise from the continued use of the asset. The gain or loss arising on the disposal or retirement of an asset is determined as the difference between the sales proceeds and the carrying amount of the asset and is recognised in the consolidated statement of profit or loss within "Other income, net".

2.7 Intangible assets

Intangible assets acquired separately are measured on initial recognition at cost. The cost of intangible assets acquired in a business combination is their fair value at the date of acquisition. Following initial recognition, intangible assets are carried at cost less any accumulated amortisation and accumulated impairment losses. Internally generated intangibles, excluding capitalised development costs, are not capitalised and the related expenditure is reflected in profit or loss in the period in which the expenditure is incurred.

Software and development cost

Certain direct development costs associated with internally developed software and software enhancements of the Group's technology platform are capitalised. Capitalised costs, which occur post determination by management of technical feasibility, include external services and internal payroll costs. These costs are recorded as intangible assets when development is complete and the asset is ready for use, and are amortised on a straight-line basis, generally over a period of 3 to 5 years. Development activities involve a plan or design for the production of new or substantially improved products and processes. Development expenditure is capitalised only if development costs can be measured. Research and pre-feasibility development costs, as well as maintenance and training costs, are expensed as incurred. In certain circumstances, management may determine that previously developed software and its related expense no longer meets management's definition of feasible, which could then result in the impairment of such asset. Incidental operations are not necessary to bring an asset to the condition necessary for it to be capable of operating in the manner intended by management, the income and related expenses of incidental operations are recognised immediately in profit or loss, and included in their respective classifications of income and expense.

The useful lives of intangible assets are assessed as either finite or indefinite.

Amortisation is recognised on a straight-line basis over their estimated useful lives which are as follows:

Computer software	3 to 4 years
Customer relationship	3 to 7 years
Technology	3 to 5 years
Non-compete agreements	1 to 4.56 years
Trademarks	3 to 5.5 years

The estimated useful life and amortisation method are reviewed at the end of each reporting period.

An intangible asset is derecognised on disposal, or when no future economic benefits are expected from use or disposal. Gains or losses arising from derecognition of an intangible asset, measured as the difference between the net disposal proceeds and the carrying amount of the asset, are recognised in consolidated statement of profit or loss under the head "Other income, net" when the asset is derecognised.

2.8 Leases

The Group assesses whether a contract is or contains a lease, at inception of the contract. The Group recognises a right-of-use asset and a corresponding lease liability with respect to all lease arrangements in which it is the lessee, except for short-term leases (defined as leases with a lease term of 12 months or less) and leases of low value assets (such as office equipment). For these leases, the Group recognises the lease payments as an operating expense on a straight-line basis over the term of the lease unless another systematic basis is more representative of the time pattern in which economic benefits from the leased assets are consumed.

Lease liabilities

The lease liability is initially measured at the present value of the lease payments that are not paid at the commencement date, discounted by using the rate implicit in the lease. If this rate cannot be readily determined, the Group uses its incremental borrowing rate, being the rate that the individual lessee would have to pay to borrow the funds necessary to obtain an asset of similar value to the right-of-use asset in a similar economic environment with similar terms, security and conditions.

To determine the incremental borrowing rate, the Group, where possible, uses recent bank borrowings obtained by the individual lessees as a starting point, adjusted to reflect changes in financing conditions since the borrowing was received.

Lease payments included in the measurement of the lease liability comprise:

- Fixed lease payments (including in-substance fixed payments), less any lease incentives receivable;
- Variable lease payments that depend on an index or rate, initially measured using the index or rate at the commencement date;
- The amount expected to be payable by the lessee under residual value guarantees;
- The exercise price of purchase options, if the lessee is reasonably certain to exercise the options; and
- Payments of penalties for terminating the lease, if the lease term reflects the exercise of an option to terminate the lease.

The lease liability is presented as a separate line in the consolidated statement of financial position.

The lease liability is subsequently measured by increasing the carrying amount to reflect interest on the lease liability (using the effective interest method) and by reducing the carrying amount to reflect the lease payments made.

Lease payments are allocated between principal and finance cost. The finance cost is charged to profit or loss over the lease period so as to produce a constant periodic rate of interest on the remaining balance of the liability for each period.

The Group remeasures the lease liability (and makes a corresponding adjustment to the related right-of-use asset) whenever:

- The lease term has changed or there is a significant event or change in circumstances resulting in a change in the assessment of exercise of a purchase option, in which case the lease liability is remeasured by discounting the revised lease payments using a revised discount rate.
- The lease payments change due to changes in an index or rate or a change in expected payment under a guaranteed residual value, in which case the lease liability is remeasured by discounting the revised lease payments using an unchanged discount rate (unless the lease payments change is due to a change in a floating interest rate, in which case a revised discount rate is used).

- A lease contract is modified and the lease modification is not accounted for as a separate lease, in which case the lease liability is remeasured based on the lease term of the modified lease by discounting the revised lease payments using a revised discount rate at the effective date of the modification.

Right-of-use assets

Right-of-use assets comprise the initial measurement of the corresponding lease liability, lease payments made at or before the commencement date, less any lease incentives received and any initial direct costs. They are subsequently measured at cost less accumulated depreciation and impairment losses.

Whenever the Group incurs an obligation for costs to dismantle and remove a leased asset, restore the site on which it is located or restore the underlying asset to the condition required by the terms and conditions of the lease, a provision is recognised and measured under FRS 37. To the extent that the costs relate to a right-of-use asset, the costs are included in the related right-of-use asset, unless those costs are incurred to produce inventories.

Right-of-use assets are depreciated over the period of the lease term. If a lessor transfers ownership of the underlying asset or the cost of the right-of-use asset reflects that the Group expects to exercise a purchase option, the related right-of-use asset is depreciated over the useful life of the underlying asset.

The right-of-use assets are presented as a separate line in the consolidated statement of financial position.

The Group applies FRS 36 to determine whether a right-of-use asset is impaired and accounts for any identified impairment loss as described in the 'Impairment of non-financial assets' policy.

2.9 Impairment of non-financial assets

(a) Goodwill

Goodwill is initially measured as set out in para 2.3(b) above.

Goodwill is not amortised but is reviewed for impairment at least annually. For the purpose of impairment testing, goodwill is allocated to each of the Group's cash-generating units (or groups of cash-generating units) expected to benefit from the synergies of the combination.

The Group tests whether goodwill has suffered any impairment on an annual basis at 31 March and when circumstances indicate that the value may be impaired. If the recoverable amount of the cash-generating unit is less than the carrying amount of the unit, the impairment loss is allocated first to reduce the carrying amount of any goodwill allocated to the unit and then to the other assets of the unit pro-rata on the basis of the carrying amount of each asset in the unit. An impairment loss recognised for goodwill is not reversed in a subsequent period. See Note 40 for a discussion of the model and key assumptions.

On disposal of a cash-generating unit, the attributable amount of goodwill is included in the determination of the profit or loss on disposal.

2.9 Impairment of non-financial assets (continued)

At each reporting date, the Group reviews the carrying amounts of its property, plant and equipment, intangible assets and right-of-use assets to determine whether there is any indication that those assets have suffered an impairment loss. If any such indication exists, the recoverable amount of the asset is estimated to determine the extent of the impairment loss (if any). Where the asset does not generate cash flows that are independent from other assets, the Group estimates the recoverable amount of the cash-generating unit to which the asset belongs. When a reasonable and consistent basis of allocation can be identified, corporate assets are also allocated to individual cash-generating units, or otherwise they are allocated to the smallest group of cash-generating units for which a reasonable and consistent allocation basis can be identified.

Recoverable amount is the higher of fair value less costs of disposal and value in use. In assessing value in use, the estimated future cash flows are discounted to their present value using a pre-tax discount rate that reflects current market assessments of the time value of money and the risks specific to the asset for which the estimates of future cash flows have not been adjusted.

If the recoverable amount of an asset (or cash-generating unit) is estimated to be less than its carrying amount, the carrying amount of the asset (or cash-generating unit) is reduced to its recoverable amount. An impairment loss is recognised immediately in profit or loss.

Where an impairment loss subsequently reverses, the carrying amount of the asset (or cash-generating unit) is increased to the revised estimate of its recoverable amount, but so that the increased carrying amount does not exceed the carrying amount that would have been determined had no impairment loss been recognised for the asset (or cash-generating unit) in prior years. A reversal of an impairment loss is recognised immediately in profit or loss to the extent that it eliminates the impairment loss which has been recognised for the asset in prior years.

2.10 Financial instruments

Initial recognition and measurement

Financial assets and financial liabilities are recognised in the Group's statement of financial position when the Group becomes a party to the contractual provisions of the instrument.

Financial assets and financial liabilities are initially measured at fair value, except for trade receivables that do not have a significant financing component which are measured at transaction price. Trade receivables that do not contain a significant financing component or for which the Group has applied the practical expedient are measured at the transaction price determined in accordance with FRS 115. Transaction costs that are directly attributable to the acquisition or issue of financial assets and financial liabilities (other than financial assets and financial liabilities at fair value through profit or loss) are added to or deducted from the fair value of the financial assets or financial liabilities, as appropriate, on initial recognition. Transaction costs directly attributable to the acquisition of financial assets or financial liabilities at fair value through profit or loss are recognised immediately in profit or loss.

2.10.1 Financial Assets

The classification of financial assets at initial recognition depends on the financial asset's contractual cash flow characteristics and the Group's business model for managing them.

For a financial asset to be classified and measured at amortised cost or fair value through other comprehensive income (FVOCI), it needs to give rise to cash flows that are solely payments of principal and interest ("SPPI") on the principal amount outstanding. This assessment is referred to as the SPPI test and is performed at an instrument level. Financial assets with cash flows that are not SPPI are classified and measured at fair value through profit and loss (FVPL), irrespective of the business model.

The Group's business model for managing financial assets refers to how it manages its financial assets in order to generate cash flows. The business model determines whether cash flows will result from collecting contractual cash flows, selling the financial assets, or both. Financial assets classified and measured at amortised cost are held within a business model with the objective to hold financial assets in order to collect contractual cash flows while financial assets classified and measured at FVOCI are held within a business model with the objective of both, holding to collect contractual cash flows and selling.

Financial assets at FVPL include financial assets held for trading, financial assets designated upon initial recognition at FVPL, or financial assets mandatorily required to be measured at fair value. Financial assets are classified as held for trading if they are acquired for the purpose of selling or repurchasing in the near term. Notwithstanding the criteria for debt instruments to be classified at amortised cost or at FVOCI, as described above, debt instruments may be designated at FVPL on initial recognition if doing so eliminates, or significantly reduces, an accounting mismatch.

Subsequent measurement

All recognised financial assets are measured subsequently in their entirety at either amortised cost or fair value, depending on the classification of the financial assets.

(a) Classification, recognition and measurement of financial assets

The Group classifies its financial assets in the following measurement categories:

- Financial assets at amortised cost (debt instruments);
- Financial assets at FVOCI with recycling of cumulative gains and losses (debt instruments);
- Financial assets at FVOCI with no recycling of cumulative gains and losses upon derecognition (equity instruments); or
- Fair value through profit or loss (FVPL).

Financial assets at amortised cost are subsequently measured using the effective interest rate (“EIR”) method and are subject to impairment. Gains and losses are recognised in profit or loss when the asset is derecognised, modified or impaired.

The Group’s financial assets at amortised cost include trade receivables, contract assets, term deposits, security deposits, restricted cash and cash equivalents, interest accrued on deposits, receivable for cash back, loans to employees and other receivables shown under the head “Financial assets measured at amortised cost”, except trade receivables and contract assets which are shown separately.

The effective interest method is a method of calculating the amortised cost of a debt instrument and of allocating interest income over the relevant period.

Effective interest rate is the rate that exactly discounts estimated future cash receipts (including all fees and points paid or received that form an integral part of the effective interest rate, transaction costs and other premiums or discounts) excluding expected credit losses, through the expected life of the debt instrument, or, where appropriate, a shorter period, to the gross carrying amount of the debt instrument on initial recognition.

The amortised cost of a financial asset is the amount at which the financial asset is measured at initial recognition minus the principal repayments, plus the cumulative amortisation using the effective interest method of any difference between that initial amount and the maturity amount, adjusted for any loss allowance. The gross carrying amount of a financial asset is the amortised cost of a financial asset before adjusting for any loss allowance.

Interest income is recognised using the effective interest method for debt instruments measured subsequently at amortised cost. Interest income is calculated by applying the effective interest rate to the gross carrying amount of a financial asset.

Interest income is recognised in profit or loss and is included under the head “Finance income”.

Financial assets at FVOCI (debt instruments)

For debt instruments at FVOCI, interest income, foreign exchange revaluation and impairment losses or reversals are recognised in the statement of profit or loss similar to financial assets measured at amortised cost. The remaining fair value changes are recognised in OCI. Upon derecognition, the cumulative fair value change recognised in OCI is recycled to profit or loss.

PINE LABS LIMITED AND ITS SUBSIDIARIES

(Incorporated in the Republic of Singapore)

Upon initial recognition, the Group can elect to classify irrevocably its equity investments as equity instruments designated at FVOCI when they meet the definition of equity under FRS 32 - Financial Instruments: Presentation and are not held for trading. The classification is determined on an instrument-by-instrument basis.

Gains and losses on these financial assets are never recycled to profit or loss. Dividends are recognised as other income in the statement of profit or loss when the right of payment has been established, except when the Group benefits from such proceeds as a recovery of part of the cost of the financial asset, in which case, such gains are recorded in OCI. Equity instruments designated at FVOCI are not subject to impairment assessment.

Financial assets at FVPL

The Group's financial assets measured at FVPL include investment in mutual funds shown under the head "financial asset at fair value through profit or loss". Financial assets at fair value through profit or loss are carried in the consolidated statement of financial position at fair value with net changes in fair value recognised in the consolidated statement of profit or loss in finance income.

Derecognition

A financial asset (or, where applicable, a part of a financial asset or part of a group of similar financial assets) is primarily derecognised (i.e., removed from the Group's consolidated statement of financial position) when:

- The contractual rights to receive cash flows from the asset have expired; or
- The Group has transferred its contractual rights to receive cash flows from the asset or has assumed a contractual obligation to pay the received cash flows in full without material delay to a third party under a 'pass-through' arrangement; and either
 - (a) the Group has transferred substantially all the risks and rewards of the asset, or
 - (b) the Group has neither transferred nor retained substantially all the risks and rewards of the asset but has transferred control of the asset.

When the Group has transferred its contractual rights to receive cash flows from an asset or has entered into a pass-through arrangement, it evaluates if, and to what extent, it has retained the risks and rewards of ownership. When it has neither transferred nor retained substantially all the risks and rewards of the asset, nor transferred control of the asset, the Group continues to recognise the transferred asset to the extent of its continuing involvement.

In that case, the Group also recognises an associated liability. The transferred asset and the associated liability are measured on a basis that reflects the rights and obligations that the Group has retained.

(b) Impairment of financial assets

The Group recognises a loss allowance for expected credit losses ('ECL') on trade receivables and contract assets. The amount of expected credit losses is updated at each reporting date to reflect changes in credit risk since initial recognition of the respective financial instrument.

For trade receivables and contract assets, the Group applies a simplified approach in calculating ECL, whereby a loss allowance is computed based on lifetime ECL at each reporting date. The Group has established a flow rate approach that is based on its historical credit loss experience, adjusted for forward-looking factors specific to the receivables and the economic environment.

Management also exercises judgment in specific cases and basis past experience makes additional impairment loss provisions. These include trade receivables associated with litigations, balances for which customers have not transacted/paid for more than a specific period and other reasons.

Measurement and recognition of expected credit losses

For financial assets, the expected credit loss is estimated as the difference between all contractual cash flows that are due to the Group in accordance with the contract and all the cash flows that the Group expects to receive, computed by using a loss rate.

The Group recognises an impairment gain or loss in consolidated statement of profit or loss for all financial instruments with a corresponding adjustment to their carrying amount through a loss allowance account.

(c) Write off policy

The Group writes off a financial asset when there is information indicating that the receivables are in severe financial difficulty and there is no realistic prospect of recovery. Financial assets written off may still be subject to enforcement activities under the Group's recovery procedures, taking into account legal advice where appropriate. Any recoveries made are recognised in consolidated statement of profit or loss.

2.10.2 Financial liabilities and equity

(a) Classification as debt or equity

Debt and equity instruments are classified as either financial liabilities or as equity in accordance with the substance of the contractual arrangements and the definitions of a financial liability and an equity instrument.

Equity instruments

An equity instrument is any contract that evidences a residual interest in the assets of an entity after deducting all of its liabilities. Equity instruments issued by the Group are recognised at the proceeds received, net of incremental costs directly attributable to the issuance of equity instruments, if any.

Repurchase of the Company's own equity instruments is derecognised and deducted directly in equity. No gain or loss is recognised in profit or loss on the purchase, sale, issue or cancellation of the Company's own equity instruments.

Compound instruments

The component parts of convertible instruments issued by the Group are classified separately as financial liabilities and equity in accordance with the substance of the contractual arrangements and the definitions of a financial liability and an equity instrument. A conversion option that will be settled by the exchange of a fixed amount of cash or another financial asset for a fixed number of the Company's own equity instruments is an equity instrument.

At the date of issue, the fair value of the liability component is estimated using the prevailing market interest rate for a similar non-convertible instrument. This amount is recorded as a liability on an amortised cost basis using the effective interest method until extinguished upon conversion or at the instrument's maturity date.

The conversion option classified as equity is determined by deducting the amount of the liability component from the fair value of the compound instrument as a whole. This is recognised and included in equity, net of income tax effects, and is not subsequently remeasured. In addition, the conversion option classified as equity will remain in equity until the conversion option is exercised, in which case, the balance recognised in equity will be transferred to retained earnings (accumulated losses). Where the conversion option remains unexercised at the maturity date of the convertible loan note, the balance recognised in equity will be transferred to retained earnings. No gain or loss is recognised in profit or loss upon conversion or expiration of the conversion option.

The Group has issued Redeemable Convertible Cumulative Preference Shares, which are convertible into fixed number of ordinary shares and do not contain any obligation to make fixed payments or issue variable number of ordinary shares. These convertible preference shares are redeemable at the sole option of the Company and do not contain any underlying redemption obligation towards the holders of preference shares. Accordingly, the Group has classified the said convertible preference shares as equity instruments.

2. Significant Accounting Policies (continued)2.10 Financial instruments (continued)2.10.2 Financial liabilities and equity(a) Classification as debt or equity (continued)Initial recognition and measurement*

Financial liabilities are classified, at initial recognition, as financial liabilities at FVPL, amortised cost or as derivatives designated as hedging instruments in an effective hedge, as appropriate.

All financial liabilities are recognised initially at fair value and, in the case of amortised cost, net of directly attributable transaction costs.

The Group's financial liabilities include, trade and other liabilities, loans and financing including bank overdrafts, cash credit facilities and loans.

Subsequent measurement

The measurement of financial liabilities depends on their classification, as described below:

Financial liabilities at FVPL

Financial liabilities at FVPL include financial liabilities held for trading and financial liabilities designated upon initial recognition as at FVPL.

Financial liabilities are classified as held for trading if they are incurred for the purpose of repurchasing in the near term.

Gains or losses on liabilities held for trading are recognised in the consolidated statement of profit or loss

Financial liabilities designated upon initial recognition at FVPL are designated at the initial date of recognition, and only if the criteria in FRS 109 are satisfied. This category includes only derivative financial instruments.

Financial liabilities at amortised cost

After initial recognition, interest-bearing loans and borrowings are subsequently measured at amortised cost using the EIR method. Gains and losses are recognised in profit or loss when the liabilities are derecognised as well as through the EIR amortisation process. This category is the most relevant to the Group.

Amortised cost is calculated by considering any discount or premium on acquisition and fees or costs that are an integral part of the EIR. The EIR amortisation is included as finance costs in the statement of profit or loss.

(b) Derecognition

The Group derecognises financial liabilities when, and only when, the Group's obligations are discharged, cancelled or have expired. The difference between the carrying amount of the financial liability derecognised and the consideration paid and payable is recognised in profit or loss.

2.10.3 Fair value of financial instruments

The Group measures financial instruments such as derivatives, at fair value at each balance sheet date.

Fair value is the price that would be received to sell an asset or paid to transfer a liability in an orderly transaction between market participants at the measurement date. The fair value measurement is based on the presumption that the transaction to sell the asset or transfer the liability takes place either:

- In the principal market for the asset or liability; or
- In the absence of a principal market, in the most advantageous market for the asset or liability.

The principal or the most advantageous market must be accessible by the Group.

The fair value of an asset or a liability is measured using the assumptions that market participants would use when pricing the asset or liability, assuming that market participants act in their economic best interest.

The Group uses valuation techniques that are appropriate in the circumstances and for which sufficient data are available to measure fair value, maximising the use of relevant observable inputs and minimising the use of unobservable inputs.

All assets and liabilities for which fair value is measured or disclosed in the financial statements are categorised within the fair value hierarchy, described as follows, based on the lowest level input that is significant to the fair value measurement as a whole:

The Group uses the following hierarchy to determine and disclose the fair value of financial instruments through the following measurement techniques:

- Level I - quoted prices in active markets for identical assets or liabilities;
- Level II - other techniques for which all inputs that have a significant effect on the recorded fair value are observable, either directly or indirectly; and
- Level III - techniques using inputs that have a significant effect on the recorded fair value that are not based on observable market data.

For assets and liabilities that are recognised in the financial statements at fair value on a recurring basis, the Group determines whether transfers have occurred between levels in the hierarchy by re-assessing categorisation (based on the lowest level input that is significant to the fair value measurement as a whole) at the end of each reporting period.

2.10.4 Offsetting of financial instruments

Financial assets and financial liabilities are offset and the net amount is reported in the statement of financial position if there is a currently enforceable legal right to offset the recognised amounts and there is an intention to settle on a net basis, to realise the assets and settle the liabilities simultaneously.

2.11 Cash and cash equivalents

Cash and cash equivalents in the consolidated statement of financial position comprises cash at bank, on hand and in transit, deposits and other short-term highly liquid investments with an original maturity of three months or less that are readily convertible to a known amount of cash and are subject to an insignificant risk of change in value.

For the purpose of the consolidated statement of cash flows, cash and cash equivalents are considered net of outstanding bank overdrafts and cash credit facilities.

2.12 Funds held for customers and customer fund deposits liability

Funds held for customers and the corresponding liability on customer fund deposits represent funds that are collected from customers for payments to their suppliers and funds that are collected on behalf of customers. Generally, these funds held for customers are initially deposited in separate bank accounts until remitted to the customers' suppliers or to the customers. The funds held for customers are restricted for the purpose of satisfying the customers' fund obligations.

2.13 Inventories

Inventories are stated at the lower of cost and net realisable value. Costs comprise direct material, pre-purchased voucher cost, pre-purchased prepaid cards, direct labour cost and direct overheads incurred (as applicable), in bringing the inventories to their present location and condition. Inventory is valued on weighted average cost basis. Net realisable value is the estimated selling price in the ordinary course of business less estimated cost necessary to make the sale.

Where necessary, allowance is provided for damaged, obsolete and slow-moving items to adjust the carrying value of inventories to the lower of cost and net realisable value.

2.14 Provisions and contingent liabilities

Provisions are recognised when the Group has a present obligation (legal or constructive) as a result of a past event, it is probable that an outflow of resources embodying economic benefits will be required to settle the obligation and the amount of the obligation can be estimated reliably.

The amount recognised as a provision is the best estimate of the consideration required to settle the present obligation at the reporting date, taking into account the risks and uncertainties surrounding the obligation.

Provisions are reviewed at the end of each reporting period and adjusted to reflect the current best estimate. If it is no longer probable that an outflow of economic resources will be required to settle the obligation, the provision is reversed.

Where the Group expects some or all of a provision to be reimbursed, the reimbursement is recognised as a separate asset but only when the reimbursement is virtually certain. The expense relating to any provision is presented in the statement of profit and loss net of any reimbursement.

2. Significant Accounting Policies (continued)2.14 Provisions and contingent liabilities (continued)Contingencies*

A contingent liability is:

- (a) a possible obligation that arises from past events and whose existence will be confirmed only by the occurrence or non-occurrence of one or more uncertain future events not wholly within the control of the Group; or
- (b) a present obligation that arises from past events but is not recognised because:
 - (i) It is not probable that an outflow of resources embodying economic benefits will be required to settle the obligation; or
 - (ii) The amount of the obligation cannot be measured with sufficient reliability.

The Group does not recognise a contingent liability but discloses its existence in the financial statements.

2.15 Employee benefits

Employee benefits include provident fund, employee state insurance scheme, gratuity, compensated absences and other incentives to employees.

(a) Post-employment and termination benefit costs

Payments to defined contribution retirement benefit plans, such as provident fund, employee state insurance scheme and pension schemes, are recognised as an expense when employees have rendered service entitling them to the contributions.

For defined benefit retirement benefit plans such as gratuity and other post-employment defined benefit retirement plans, the cost of providing benefits is determined using the Projected Unit Credit Method, with actuarial valuations being carried out at the end of each annual reporting period. Remeasurements comprising actuarial gains and losses are recognised immediately in the statement of financial position with a charge or credit to other comprehensive income in the period in which they occur. Remeasurements recognised in other comprehensive income are not reclassified. Past service cost is recognised in profit or loss when the plan amendment or curtailment occurs. Gains or losses on settlement of a defined benefit plan are recognised when the settlement occurs. Net interest is calculated by applying a discount rate to the net defined benefit liability or asset. Defined benefit costs are split into three categories:

- service costs, which includes current service cost, past service cost and gains and losses on curtailments and settlements
- interest expense or income; and
- remeasurements.

The Group recognises service costs within consolidated statement of profit or loss as gratuity and other defined benefit plans expenses under employee compensation.

Net interest expense or income is recognised within employee compensation.

(b) Short term and other long-term employee benefits

A liability is recognised for benefits accruing to employees in respect of salaries, annual leave and sick leave, performance incentives etc. in the period the related service is rendered at the undiscounted amount of the benefits expected to be paid in exchange for that service.

Liabilities recognised in respect of short-term employee benefits are measured at the undiscounted amount of the benefits expected to be paid in exchange for the related service.

Accumulated leave, which is expected to be utilised within the next twelve months, is treated as short-term employee benefit.

The Group treats accumulated leave and long-term service award expected to be carried forward beyond twelve months, as long-term employee benefit for measurement purposes. Such long-term compensated absences and long-term service award are provided for based on the actuarial valuation using the projected unit credit method at the year-end. Actuarial gain/loss are immediately taken to the consolidated statement of profit and loss and are not deferred.

2.16 Share-based payments

Employees of the Group also receive remuneration in the form of share-based payment transactions under Group's Employee stock option plan.

Equity-settled transactions

The cost of equity-settled transactions is determined by the fair value at the date when grant is made using an appropriate valuation model.

The cost is recognised, together with a corresponding increase in employee share options (ESOP) reserve account in equity, over the period in which the performance and/or service conditions are fulfilled in employee share option expense under employee compensation. The cumulative expense recognised for equity-settled transactions at each reporting date until the vesting date reflects the extent to which the vesting period has expired and the Group's best estimate of the number of equity instruments that will ultimately vest. The movement in cumulative expense recognised as at the beginning and end of that period is recognised in employee share option expense under employee compensation in the consolidated statement of profit and loss.

Service and non-market performance conditions are not taken into account when determining the grant date fair value of awards, but the likelihood of the conditions being met is assessed as part of the Group's best estimate of the number of equity instruments that will ultimately vest. Market performance conditions are reflected within the grant date fair value. Any other conditions attached to an award, but without an associated service requirement, are considered to be non-vesting conditions. Non-vesting conditions are reflected in the fair value of an award and lead to an immediate expensing of an award unless there are also service and/or performance conditions.

No expense is recognised for awards that do not ultimately vest because non-market performance and/or service conditions have not been met. Where awards include a market or non-vesting condition, the transactions are treated as vested irrespective of whether the market or non-vesting condition is satisfied, provided that all other performance and/or service conditions are satisfied.

When the terms of an equity-settled award are modified, the minimum expense recognised is the expense had the terms not been modified, if the original terms of the award are met. An additional expense is recognised for any modification that increases the total fair value of the share-based payment transaction or is otherwise beneficial to the employee as measured at the date of modification. The incremental fair value granted is the difference between the fair value of the modified equity instrument and that of the original equity instrument, both estimated as at the date of the modification.

If the modification occurs during the vesting period, the incremental fair value granted is included in the remeasurement of the amount recognised for services received over the period from the modification date until the date when the modified equity instruments vest.

If the modification occurs after the vesting date, the incremental fair value granted is recognised immediately. If the employee is required to complete an additional period of service before becoming unconditionally entitled to the modified equity instruments, the incremental fair value granted will be recognised over the vesting period.

Where an award is cancelled by the entity or by the counterparty, any remaining element of the fair value of the award is expensed immediately through profit or loss. Any payment made to the employee on cancellation or settlement is accounted for as a repurchase of an equity interest (i.e. as a deduction from equity) except to the extent that the payment exceeds the fair value of the equity instrument granted, measured at the repurchase date. Any such excess is recognised as an expense.

If new equity instruments are granted and they are identified, on the date when they are granted, as replacement equity instruments for the cancelled equity instruments, this is accounted for as a modification of the original equity instruments. The incremental fair value granted is the difference between the fair value of the replacement equity instruments and the net fair value of the cancelled equity instruments at the date the replacement equity instruments are granted.

The dilutive effect of outstanding options is reflected as additional share dilution in the computation of diluted earnings per share.

Cash-settled transactions

A liability is recognised for the fair value of cash-settled transactions. The fair value is measured initially and at each reporting date up to and including the settlement date, with changes in fair value recognised in employee share option expense. The fair value is expensed over the period until the vesting date under employee share option expense under employee compensation, with recognition of a corresponding liability. The fair value is determined using a Monte Carlo simulation model, further details of which are given in Note 28. The approach used to account for vesting conditions when measuring equity-settled transactions also applies to cash-settled transactions.

2. Significant Accounting Policies (continued)2.16 Share-based payments (continued)Share-based payment transactions of the acquiree in a business combination*

When the share-based payment awards held by the employees of an acquiree (acquiree awards) are replaced by the Group's share-based payment awards (replacement awards), both the acquiree awards and the replacement awards are measured in accordance with FRS 102 ("market-based measure") at the acquisition date. The portion of the replacement awards that is included in measuring the consideration transferred in a business combination equals the market-based measure of the acquiree awards multiplied by the ratio of the portion of the vesting period completed to the greater of the total vesting period or the original vesting period of the acquiree award.

The excess of the market-based measure of the replacement awards over the market-based measure of the acquiree awards included in measuring the consideration transferred is recognised as remuneration cost for post-combination service.

Cash settlement for acquiree awards

If there is a pre-existing change-in-control provision under which the acquirer must issue replacement awards and the acquirer decides to cash settle the acquiree's original awards (either full or in part), the cash settlement is treated in the same manner as if the acquirer was required to replace the awards with share-based payment awards of the acquirer.

If awards are fully vested as of the date of the acquisition, the entire fair-value-based measure of the acquiree's replaced award is attributable to pre-combination vesting and therefore included in consideration transferred. If the cash paid to settle fully vested awards exceeds the fair-value-based measure of those awards, the excess over the fair-value-based measure would be immediately recognised as remuneration cost for post combination service.

If awards are partially vested as of the date of acquisition, the acquirer has effectively accelerated the vesting of the unvested portion of the award and settled the entire award. The amount of the fair-value-based measure of the acquiree's replaced award attributable to pre-combination vesting and therefore included in consideration transferred is based on the ratio of precombination vesting to the original vesting period of the acquiree's replaced award. The amount recognised as remuneration cost for post combination service represents (1) any excess of the cash settlement over the fair-value-based measure of the vested replaced awards plus (2) the portion of the fair-value-based measure attributable to the post-combination period.

2.17 Revenue from contracts with customers

The Group derives revenue primarily from the following major sources:

- A. Digital Payments
- B. Issuing
- C. Consumer App

Revenue from contracts with customers is recognised when control of the goods or services is transferred to the customer at an amount that reflects the consideration to which the Group expects to be entitled in exchange for those goods or services.

For the purpose of revenue recognition, the Group determines whether revenue should be recognised on a gross or net basis, which depends on which party controls the good or service before it is transferred to the customer, and whether the Group is acting as a principal or an agent to the transaction. The assessment is performed separately for each performance obligation identified.

No significant element of financing is deemed present as the sales are made with credit terms consistent with market practice.

A. Digital Payments

The revenue under Digital Payments is derived from following:

(a) Merchant services

Transaction and processing services revenue is comprised of: (1) fees calculated based on percentage of the monetary value of transaction processed; (2) fees calculated based on number of transactions processed; (3) fixed monthly amounts; (4) combinations thereof that are associated with transaction and processing services. The Group typically contracts with financial institutions, merchants, or affiliates of those parties. Contracts stipulate the types of processing services and articulate how fees will be incurred and calculated.

The Group's core performance obligations are to stand ready to provide continuous access to electronic payment and transaction processing services in order to be able to process as many transactions as clients require on a daily basis over the contract term and the consideration received is contingent upon the clients' use (i.e., number of payment transactions processed, number of cards on file, etc.); as such, the total transaction price is variable. These services are stand ready obligations, as the timing and quantity of transactions to be processed is not determinable. Under a stand-ready obligation, the performance obligation is defined by each time increment rather than by the underlying activities satisfied over time based on days elapsed. Because the service of standing ready is substantially the same each day and has the same pattern of transfer to the client, the Group has determined that its stand-ready performance obligation comprises a series of distinct days of service. The performance obligation to stand ready to provide continued access to transaction and processing services is satisfied equally over time and therefore, the progress is measured on a time basis. Transaction based fee represents variable consideration for which the criteria for permitting allocation of the variable consideration to distinct days of service that forms part of the single performance obligation are met, namely:

- the terms of the variable payment relate specifically to its efforts to satisfy the distinct service on a particular day (i.e. it reflects the number of transactions processed on a particular day); and
- allocating the variable amount of consideration entirely to the distinct service on a particular day is consistent with the allocation objective when considering all of the performance obligations and payment terms in the contract.

Fees for transaction and processing services are recognised each day based on the volume or transaction count at the time the merchants' transactions are processed. In case of fixed monthly amounts, revenue is recognised as and when it is accrued based on the contractual rates agreed with customers.

(b) Aggregator services

The Group offers merchant aggregator services to various merchants by way of facilitating the processing and settlement of transactions between the merchants and the acquirer banks, regardless of which issuing bank and card network to which the transaction relates. Revenue comprises settlement fees paid by merchants, usually as a percentage of the transaction value. The Group frequently enters into agreements with merchants under which the merchant engages the Group to provide both payment authorisation services and transaction settlement services for all of the cardholder transactions of the merchant, regardless of which issuing bank and card network to which the transaction relates. The Group's core performance obligations are to stand ready to provide continuous access to the payment authorisation services and transaction processing and settlement services in order to be able to process as many transactions as the merchants require on a daily basis over the contract term. These services are stand ready obligations, as the timing and quantity of transactions to be processed is not determinable. Under a stand-ready obligation, the performance obligation is defined by each time increment rather than by the underlying activities satisfied over time based on days elapsed. Fees for transaction processing and settlement services is recognised each day based on the volume or transaction count at the time the merchants' transactions are processed.

The Group follows the requirements of FRS 115 Revenue from Contracts with Customers - Principal versus Agent Considerations, which states that the determination of whether a Group should recognise revenue based on the gross amount billed to a client or the net amount retained is a matter of judgment that depends on the facts and circumstances of the arrangement. The determination of gross versus net recognition of revenue requires judgment that depends on whether the Group controls the good or service before it is transferred to the merchant or whether the Group is acting as an agent of a third party. The assessment is performed separately for each performance obligation identified. Under the agreements, the Group incurs assessment fees and interconnect or network pass-through charges from the card issuers and card networks, related to the provision of payment authorisation and settlement services.

Transaction processing and settlement fees are recognised net of assessment fees and card association fees (i.e. interconnect or interchange fees charged by intermediaries like Visa/Master card) paid to the acquiring banks/financial institutions, since the Group is acting only as an agent in respect of these charges, due to the following reasons:

- (i) The Group does not have discretion in choosing the payment network and is unable to direct the activity of the merchant to another payment network;
- (ii) Payment network rates are pre-established by the card payment networks and card issuers and the Group does not have latitude in determining the assessment fees and card association fees; and
- (iii) The Group is not primarily responsible for the authorisation and settlement services performed by payment networks and card issuers but only arrange for these services to the merchant.

Both the Group and the acquiring bank have primary obligation to provide their part of the services to merchant i.e. the Group is a principal for some specified services (i.e. provision of POS solutions) and agent for others (i.e. services provided by the acquiring banks).

Transaction processing and settlement fees are recognised net of assessment fees and card association fees paid to the acquiring banks/financial institutions, however when the assessment fees and card association fees is higher than the transaction processing and settlement fees earned from the customer, the excess amount is classified as transaction cost under cost of sales.

The Group also earn one-time POS installation and program integration fee for provision of installation service of POS solution to clients (see "Subscription based services" below).

(c) Buy Now Pay Later (BNPL) services

For transaction, processing and settlement services, wherein the merchant/issuer bank/brand partners run an equated monthly installment (EMI) scheme for cardholder transactions, the Group has a performance obligation to provide its platform for running the scheme. In exchange, the group charges a service fee per transaction in the EMI scheme, in addition to the transaction processing fee. Revenue from such services is recognised at a point in time, upon processing of EMI scheme on each eligible transaction and the amount is billed to merchant/issuer bank/brand partners.

(d) Cash back services

For transaction, processing and settlement services, wherein the merchant/issuer bank/brand partners run various cash back schemes for eligible cardholders, the Group has a performance obligation to provide its platform for running the schemes for the participating brands and issuer banks. In exchange, the Group charges a service fee per transaction in the said scheme, in addition to the transaction processing fee. Revenue from such services is recognised at a point in time, upon processing of each eligible transaction and the amount is billed to merchant/issuer bank/brand partners.

2. Significant Accounting Policies (continued)2.17 Revenue from contracts with customers (continued)A. Digital Payments (continued)(e) Multiple performance obligations

Arrangements may contain multiple performance obligations, such as, transaction settlement services, hardware, software products, maintenance, and professional installation and training services. Revenues are allocated to each performance obligation based on the standalone selling price of each good or service.

Revenues from sales of our combined hardware and software element are recognised when each performance obligation has been satisfied which has been determined to be upon the delivery of the product. Revenues derived from service fees are recognised at the time the services are performed and there are no further performance obligations. Professional services, including training, installation, and repair services are recognised as revenue as these services are performed.

(f) Subscription based and other services

The Group has contracts with customers to provide subscription-based services, in the form of one-time installation of hardware/software or both, one time solution implementation fee, one-time integration, setup and technology fee, infrastructure fee etc., either independently or bundled with transaction, processing and settlement services. These services are generally billed to the customers upfront. However, the underlying obligation to keep up and run the software and hardware or platform continues for the entire period of the contract with customer in case of subscription-based services, and the pattern of benefits to the customer from such services rendered is generally even, throughout the period of contract. Revenue against such upfront subscription fee is recognised on a straight-line basis over a period of time (i.e. either the contractual term or estimated period of customer relationship, as the case may be).

Revenue from other services is recognised in accordance with the terms of the contract, including revenue from software licensing and maintenance. The Group's software licensing and maintenance services are considered distinct and are generally recognised at their standalone selling prices when the software code is delivered to the client and over the maintenance period respectively. The Group recognises revenue from other services when the service is rendered.

(g) Revenue from sale of POS (Digital checkout points) devices

The Group also generates revenue from selling of POS devices and recognises the revenue at its transaction price when the customer obtains control of the POS devices.

(h) Other Revenue

The Group sells hardware and other peripherals as part of its contracts with customers in respect of digitalisation of fuel stations. The Group accounts for sale and installation of hardware as a single performance obligation and recognises the revenue at its transaction price when the customer obtains control of the hardware/other peripherals and accepts the installation.

The revenue under Issuing is derived from the following:

(a) Gift solutions

The Group provides gift cards and/or stored value card solutions to various retail and corporate customers.

Revenue from Gift card solutions is comprised of (a) Processing services for Semi Closed Loop Programs (SCLP), Closed Loop Programs (CLP), other store value cards and (b) Distribution revenue, with respect to various categories of gift cards i.e. Woohoo gift cards and other brand gift cards.

Processing services

Processing services revenue majorly comprise of fees for Gift card program management services offered on Software as a Service i.e. “SaaS” solution to Merchants or brand vendors. The Group also earns one-time program initiation and implementation fee for integration and migration of data between Merchants or brand vendors’ platform and the Group’s platform (refer policy on “Subscription based services”). Contracts with merchants or brand vendors stipulate the types of processing services and articulate how fees will be accrued and calculated.

The Group’s core performance obligations include (may be all or combination of any):

- Issue of co-brand cards (SCLP), other brand cards (CLP), prepaid or postpaid cards redeemable on merchants or brand vendor’s website or application;
- Establish, maintain and administer the gift card program to facilitate issuance and redemption of gift cards issued;
- Provision of dedicated IT infrastructure and related annual maintenance.

Processing fee is charged on the value of gift cards/vouchers activated or reloaded or redeemed (as per the arrangements with merchant or brand vendors) and billed to the merchants or brand vendors based on the monthly reports generated. These services are stand ready obligations, as the timing and volume of gift cards/vouchers to be processed is not determinable. Because the service of standing ready is substantially the same each point in time the gift cards/ vouchers are activated or reloaded or redeemed and has the same pattern of transfer to the merchants or brand vendors, the Group has determined that its stand-ready performance obligation comprises a series of distinct services. Processing fees are recognised at a point in time on each activation or reload or redemption of gift cards/vouchers depending upon the nature of agreements.

Distribution revenue

Distribution revenue majorly comprises margin/commission income from merchant or brand vendors for facilitating distribution of gift cards to retail or corporate customers net of margin/commission passed on to end customers which comprises pass-through cost. Contracts with merchants or brand vendors stipulate the type of distribution revenue and articulate how fees will be accrued and calculated.

Margin/commission income is charged on the value of gift cards/vouchers activated or reloaded or redeemed (as per the arrangements with merchant or brand vendors) and billed to the merchants or brand vendors based on the monthly reports generated. Margin/commission income are recognised at a point in time when such sale is made.

For distribution of other brand gift cards through all the channels of the Group, as the Group is acting merely as an agent plus the obligation on Group being only to provide the gift cards to the customer, revenue is recognised at a point in time when such sale is made. For group's Prepaid Payment Instruments (PPI) cards, revenue is recognized when the customer has fully exercised its right to future goods and services. This is usually when the PPI card has been redeemed with another entity.

The Group follows the requirements of FRS 115 Revenue from Contracts with Customers-Principal versus Agent Considerations, which states that the determination of whether a Group should recognise revenue based on the gross amount billed to a client or the net amount retained is a matter of judgment that depends on the facts and circumstances of the arrangement. The determination of gross versus net recognition of revenue requires judgment that depends on whether the Group controls the good or service before it is transferred to the merchant or whether the Group is acting as an agent of a third party. The assessment is performed separately for each performance obligation identified. Processing and distribution revenue arising from Semi Closed Loop Programs (SCLP), Closed Loop Programs (CLP), Woohoo gift cards and other brand gift cards are recognized net of discount passed on to end customers (either retail or corporate), since:

- the Group is only providing or granting or reselling the options to customers or end users (on behalf of Brand) to purchase additional goods or services from the brands by using the gift cards. Such sale of gift cards is in the nature of distribution of the gift cards of another party (brands) to transfer goods or services to a customer by a third party;
- the Group does not control the gift cards and associated services before it is transferred to end customers;
- The Group is not responsible for honoring the promise to provide the specified good or service pertaining to the gift cards. The gift card issuer (i.e. merchant or brand vendor) is primary obligor for the redemption of gift cards;
- the Group does not carry any inventory risk/loss since these cards are issued on real time basis and the Group does not hold inventory at any time;
- the discretion of determining the discount to be allowed to end customer is either jointly controlled by the merchant or brand vendor and Group, or completely by the merchant or brand vendor. The Group does not have a unilateral right to determine the discount to be allowed to the end customer.

For other brands cards wherein the group maintains the inventory of the cards and has significant latitude over the pricing of the cards, the Group is acting as a principal, and revenue is recognized on a gross basis, for value of cards sold, at a point in time when such sale is made.

Woohoo gift cards

In case of distribution of woohoo gift cards and certain card programs, the Group is entitled to incoming margin (i.e. discount received) at the time of redemption of gift cards as a percentage of the value of cards redeemed. In case of expiry of the gift cards, the Group is entitled to breakage revenue.

Network cards

In case of such cards, the Group incurs the cost in advance (in form of discount allowed to the user). The same is directly attributable to provision of such service and generation of underlying revenue from such programs. The Group recognises the upfront cost incurred as asset and accordingly recognises the same at the time of recognition of associated revenue or satisfaction of performance obligation (i.e. amortised in proportion of pattern of redemption of such cards).

(b) Breakage revenue

Vouchers and cards may be partially or fully redeemed, and the unused amount (i.e. the amount attributable to a customer's unexercised rights to future goods or services) which is not ultimately redeemed is often referred to as breakage. The Group in general does not expect to be entitled to breakage amount (i.e., a portion of the prepaid card which may not be exercised/redeemed by the customers and retained by the Group). Accordingly, the Group recognises breakage when the likelihood of the customer exercising its remaining rights becomes remote (i.e., remote method).

In case of distribution of woohoo gift cards and certain card programs, the Group is entitled to incoming margin (i.e. discount received) at the time of redemption of gift cards as a percentage of the value of cards redeemed. In case of expiry of the gift cards, the Group is entitled to breakage revenue for the amount received from user of gift card in advance. Accordingly, the probability and amount of revenue to be earned (i.e. incoming margin or breakage revenue) can be reliably estimated only at the time of redemption or expiry of such gift cards either in part or full (whichever is earlier). The Group recognises the expected breakage amount as revenue in proportion to the pattern of rights exercised by the customer. The Group estimates the breakage it expects to be entitled to as the amount for which it is highly probable that a significant reversal will not occur in the future. In case of such cards, the Group incurs the cost in advance (in form of discount allowed to the user). The same is directly attributable to provision of such service and generation of underlying revenue from such programs. The Group recognises the upfront cost incurred as contract asset and accordingly recognises the same at the time of recognition of associated revenue or satisfaction of performance obligation (i.e. amortised in proportion of pattern of redemption of such cards).

(c) Variable consideration

If the consideration in a contract includes a variable amount, the Group estimates the amount of consideration to which it will be entitled in exchange for transferring the goods to the customer. The variable consideration is estimated at contract inception and constrained until it is highly probable that a significant revenue reversal in the amount of cumulative revenue recognised will not occur when the associated uncertainty with the variable consideration is subsequently resolved. Some gift card arrangements comprise the provision of payment of co-branding fee and efficiency payout to the merchants or brand vendor which give rise to variable consideration as explained below:

- Co-branding fee: The end user of co-branded cards and co-branding partner, both are customers for the Group. On sale of co-branded cards on the platform of co-branding partner, Group pays co-branding fee to the co-branding partner. It is construed as consideration payable to customer not in exchange for a distinct good or service. Such co-branding fee is considered as variable consideration and are included in determining the transaction price i.e. recognised as a reduction from the underlying revenue.
- Efficiency payout: Co-branding partner is eligible for efficiency payout on meeting agreed milestones. Efficiency payout is considered as a consideration payable to customer not in exchange for a distinct good or service. Such efficiency payout give rise to variable consideration and are included in determining the transaction price i.e. recognised as a reduction from the underlying revenue.
- In addition to above, the Group also makes certain other payments to co-branding partners, like program promotion support fees which are considered as consideration payable to customer. Since these give rise to variable consideration, these are included in determining the transaction price i.e. recognised as a reduction from the underlying revenue.

The Group also earns revenue from interest earned on funds held for customers in case of SCLP gift card program for provision of distribution services. Interest is earned on these funds that are initially deposited into the Group's escrow accounts maintained separately from the Group's operating cash accounts until these balances are cleared and credited to the intended recipient i.e. end user or merchant. Interest income is recognised using the effective interest method.

C. Consumer App

The revenue under Consumer App is derived from following:

(a) Deals, ecards and payment solutions

The Group provides deals, ecards and payment solutions to customers through its application ('app'). Deals and ecards are hosted on the Fave platform, which the customers can purchase to avail goods and services at merchant stores. Payment solutions facilitate cashless payment by a customer to a merchant partner through the app.

Revenue from Consumer App comprised the following:

- (i) Commission income
- (ii) Breakage revenue
- (iii) Sale of pre-purchased deal vouchers
- (iv) Advertising services

(i) Commission income

Commission income majorly comprises income from merchants for facilitating distribution of deals and ecards or providing payment solutions to customers, net of discounts passed on to end customers (as applicable). This also includes service of authorisation, processing and settlement for payment transactions. Contracts with merchants stipulate the type of commission income and articulate how fees will be accrued and calculated.

Commission income is charged on the value of deal vouchers or ecards purchased by end customers. Commission income is recognised at a point in time on each sale of deal vouchers and ecards, and in case of payment solution, recognised at a point in time on each customer payment transaction processed on the app.

The Group follows the guidance of FRS 115 which states that the determination of whether the Group should recognise revenue based on the gross amount collected from a customer or the net amount retained is a matter of judgment that depends on the facts and circumstances of the arrangement. The determination of gross versus net recognition of revenue requires judgment that depends on whether the Group controls the good or service before it is transferred to the merchant or whether the Group is acting as an agent of a third party. The assessment is performed separately for each performance obligation identified. Commission income is recognised net of discount passed on to end customers, since:

- the Group is only providing or granting the options to customers or end users (on behalf of the merchants) to purchase goods or services from the merchants by using the deal vouchers and ecards or facilitating the end customer to make payment to the merchant via its app. Such sale of deal vouchers and ecards or payment solutions is in the nature of providing a service of arranging for another party (merchants) to transfer goods or services to a customer or service of facilitating payment to merchants via its app;
- the Group does not control the deal vouchers and ecards and associated services before it is transferred to end customers;
- The Group is not responsible for honoring the promise to provide the specified good or service pertaining to the deal vouchers or ecards or payment solution. The merchant is the primary obligor for the redemption of deal vouchers and ecards, and for providing supply or performance of the merchant offering, customer services, after sales services etc. to end users;
- the Group does not carry any inventory risk/loss since these deals and ecards are issued on real time basis and the Group does not hold inventory at any time (except in case of pre-purchased deal vouchers, refer below);
- the discretion of determining the discount to be allowed to end customer is either jointly controlled by the merchant and Group, or completely by the merchant. The Group does not have a unilateral right to determine the discount to be allowed to the end customer.

Commission income is presented, net of value added tax, discounts, customer refunds, however when the discount passed to the customer is higher than the commission income earned, the excess amount is classified under cost of sales.

The unused amount of deal vouchers (i.e. the amount attributable to a customer's unexercised rights to future goods or services) which is not ultimately redeemed is often referred to as breakage. In case of sale of deal vouchers and payment solutions, where the Group expects to be entitled to a breakage amount, revenue is recognised based on expectation of deals vouchers that will be redeemed or merchant cashback that would be utilised by the end customer on future transactions. Further, the actual breakage post the period end is also considered as an input to the estimate. To the extent vouchers are not redeemed or merchant cashback is not utilised and they expire, the Group recognises breakage revenue based on terms of the underlying arrangements.

In case of sale of deal vouchers, the Group is entitled to commission income on the sale of such deal vouchers. In case of expiry of the deal vouchers, the Group is entitled to breakage revenue for the amount received from end customer, net of commission income. In case of merchant cashback on payment solutions, the Group is entitled to commission income on such payment solutions and end customer is entitled to cashback which is borne by the merchant ('merchant cashback') which entitles end customers to avail goods and services at the merchant on subsequent visits with a predetermined expiry date. In case of expiry of such merchant cashback, the Group is entitled to breakage revenue for the amount of merchant cashback. In estimating the expected breakage for unredeemed merchant cashback, deal or voucher, the Group uses the expected value method to estimate the merchant cashback, deal or voucher unredeemed by customers upon expiry by category of product types and utilisation of customer options patterns. The Group recognises the expected breakage amount as revenue in proportion to the pattern of rights exercised by the end customer. The Group estimates the breakage it expects to be entitled to as the amount for which it is highly probable that a significant reversal will not occur in the future.

For unredeemed deals or vouchers, management relies on historical experience with customer purchases and breakage patterns upon expiry, analysed by different category of product types.

For unutilised merchant cashback, management relies on historical experience with credits granted and breakage patterns upon expiry, analysed by type of credits granted.

Variable consideration

If the consideration in a contract includes a variable amount, being credits to customers, the Group calculates the amount of credits to which the customer will be entitled on purchase of goods or services. This is considered as consideration payable to customer or on behalf of a customer. Since these give rise to variable consideration, these are included in determining the transaction price i.e. recognised as a reduction from the underlying revenue.

The Group also pre-purchases some deal vouchers from merchant partners and hosts it on its app for sale to end customers. For sale of pre-purchased deal vouchers, wherein the group maintains the inventory of the cards and has significant latitude over the pricing of the cards, the Group is acting as a principal, and revenue is recognised on a gross basis, for value of cards sold, at a point in time when such sale is made.

(iv) Advertising services

The Group provides advertising space on its app and charges revenue from customers for the use of such space. Customers prepay for the advertising services and revenue from rendering of advertising services is recognised over time during the service period when the services have been rendered. The amount prepaid by customers is recognised as contract liabilities when the advance is received.

Contract balancesTrade receivables

A receivable represents the Group's right to an amount of consideration that is unconditional (i.e., only the passage of time is required before payment of the consideration is due). Refer to accounting policies of financial assets in section 2.10.1 of Financial Instruments.

Contract liabilities

A contract liability is the obligation to transfer goods or services to a customer for which the Group has received consideration (or an amount of consideration is due) from the customer. If a customer pays consideration before the Group transfers goods or services to the customer, a contract liability is recognised when the payment is made, or the payment is due (whichever is earlier). Contract liabilities are recognised as revenue when the Group performs its obligations under the contract. Contract liability comprises "advance from customers" and "deferred revenue" in the consolidated financial statements.

Deferred revenue

The Group records deferred revenue when it receives services fees in advance of transferring control of promised goods or services to a customer. A significant portion of this balance relates to service contracts where the Group received services fees from customers for upfront subscription-based services (as mentioned above) which do not transfer value to the customer but rather are used in fulfilling the related performance obligations that transfer over time.

The service fees received is deferred over the contract term or longer period if it provides the customer a material right. The deferred revenue is recognised when underlying performance obligations are delivered.

Contract assets

A contract asset is the right to consideration in exchange of goods or services transferred to the customer. If the Group performs its obligations by transferring goods or services to a customer before the customer pays consideration or before payment is due, a contract asset is recognised for the earned consideration that is conditional. Contract assets have been presented as “unbilled revenue” in the consolidated financial statements.

2.19 Taxation

The income tax expense represents the sum of the current tax and deferred tax.

Current tax

The primary tax jurisdiction of the group is India. The tax currently payable is based on taxable profit for the year. Taxable profit differs from net profit as reported in profit or loss because it excludes items of income or expense that are taxable or deductible in other years and it further excludes items that are never taxable or deductible. The Group's liability for current tax is calculated using tax rates that have been enacted or substantively enacted by the end of the reporting period.

A provision is recognised for those matters for which the tax determination is uncertain, but it is considered probable that there will be a future outflow of funds to a tax authority. The provisions are measured at the best estimate of the amount expected to become payable. The assessment is based on the judgement of tax professionals within the Group supported by previous experience in respect of such activities and in certain cases based on specialist independent tax advice.

Deferred tax

Deferred tax is the tax expected to be payable or recoverable on differences between the carrying amounts of assets and liabilities in the financial statements and the corresponding tax bases used in the computation of taxable profit. Deferred tax liabilities are generally recognised for all taxable temporary differences and deferred tax assets are recognised to the extent that it is probable that taxable profits will be available against which deductible temporary differences can be utilised. Such assets and liabilities are not recognised if the temporary difference arises from the initial recognition (other than in a business combination) of other assets and liabilities in a transaction that affects neither the taxable profit nor the accounting profit.

Deferred tax assets are recognised for unused tax losses, unused tax credits and deductible temporary differences to the extent that it is probable that future taxable profits will be available against which they can be used. Future taxable profits are determined based on the reversal of relevant taxable temporary differences. If the amount of taxable temporary differences is insufficient to recognise a deferred tax asset in full, then future taxable profits, adjusted for reversals of existing temporary differences, are considered, based on the business plans for individual subsidiaries in the Group. Deferred tax assets are reviewed at each reporting date and are reduced to the extent that it is no longer probable that the related tax benefit will be realised; such reductions are reversed when the probability of future taxable profits improves.

Deferred tax liabilities are recognised for taxable temporary differences arising on investments in subsidiaries, except where the Group is able to control the reversal of the temporary difference and it is probable that the temporary difference will not reverse in the foreseeable future. Deferred tax assets arising from deductible temporary differences associated with such investments are only recognised to the extent that it is probable that there will be sufficient taxable profits to utilise the benefits of the temporary differences and they are expected to reverse in the foreseeable future. In addition, a deferred tax liability is not recognised if the temporary difference arises from the initial recognition of goodwill.

The carrying amount of deferred tax assets is reviewed at each reporting date and reduced to the extent that it is no longer probable that sufficient taxable profits will be available to allow all or part of the asset to be recovered.

Deferred tax is calculated at the tax rates that are expected to apply in the period when the liability is settled, or the asset is realised based on tax laws and rates that have been enacted or substantively enacted at the reporting date.

Deferred tax assets and liabilities are offset when there is a legally enforceable right to set off current tax assets against current tax liabilities and when they relate to income taxes levied by the same taxation authority and the Group intends to settle its current tax assets and liabilities on a net basis.

Current tax and deferred tax credit/(expense)

Current and deferred tax are recognised in profit or loss, except when they relate to items that are recognised in other comprehensive income or directly in equity, in which case, the current and deferred tax are also recognised in other comprehensive income or directly in equity respectively. Where current tax or deferred tax arises from the initial accounting for a business combination, the tax effect is included in the accounting for the business combination.

2.20 Treasury shares

Treasury shares represent the shares of the Company that are held in treasury. Treasury shares are recorded at cost and deducted from equity.

No gain or loss is recognised in profit or loss on the purchase, sale, issue or cancellation of the Group's own equity instruments. Any difference between the carrying amount and the consideration, if reissued, is recognised in equity.

2.21 Earnings per share

Basic earnings (loss) per share is computed using the weighted average number of equity shares outstanding during the period adjusted for treasury shares held. Contingently issuable shares are included in the computation of basic EPS from the date when all necessary conditions have been satisfied. Diluted earnings (loss) per share is computed using the weighted-average number of equity and dilutive equivalent shares outstanding during the period, using the treasury stock method for options, except where the results would be anti-dilutive.

2.22 Operating segments

Operating segments are reported in a manner consistent with the internal reporting provided to the chief operating decision maker. The Group has identified Digital payments, Issuing and Consumer app as its primary segments.

Under this Digital payments segment, the Group provides technology platforms (under the brand name of "Pinelabs", "Mosambee", "Benow", "Setu" and "Qfix") (collectively referred as "Digital payments platforms") that are made available to merchants to enable acceptance of instore or online digital payments. These technology platforms and infrastructure allow merchants to accept debit cards, credit cards, prepaid instruments wallets, QR codes, Unified Payment Interface (UPI), loyalty points, pay later, online fee collection, etc. and provide application programming interface ("API") modules to customers for building financial products that facilitate bill payments, credit and savings to enable purchases made by consumers. The merchants on digital payments platforms span across sectors and cities primarily in India and Malaysia. The Group monetises the platforms by charging subscription-based or transaction-based fees from merchants, acquiring and issuing banks, Non Banking Financial Companies (NBFC's) and consumer brand partners. In addition the Group also generates revenue from selling of POS (Digital checkout points) devices and providing services with respect to sale of such devices to its customers and from other sources, including digitisation of fuel stations, integration fees, merchant lending, sales of paper rolls, loyalty and analytics services and fees from other partnerships.

Under Issuing segment, the Group primarily provides a technology platform to issue, process and distribute prepaid cards. For issuing and processing solutions, the Group monetises primarily by charging a processing fee from merchants who are utilising the technology platform and in the case of distribution, revenue is earned based on the commission earned that the Group retains by distributing prepaid cards. Additionally, the Group earns interest income on amounts loaded on the prepaid cards that are deposited in a bank escrow account and that have not yet been utilised; breakage income which is the unutilised amount remaining after expiry as per applicable regulatory guidelines; and program initiation and integration fee of merchant's platform with the Group's technology platform.

Under Consumer app segment, the Group provides deal vouchers and ecards to end customers and a smart payment application for consumers to pay and save under brand name 'Fave'. Fave primarily operates in Malaysia, Singapore, Indonesia. The Group has started Fave operations in India in current period. Fave platform offers consumers savings through merchant loyalty cashback and discounts when using Fave's application for making payments for purchase of goods and services from a merchant. The Group monetises the Fave platform by charging a commission fee for all payments made using Fave application and from sale of pre-purchased vouchers of different brands, and fixed fees for advertising on consumer app or website. Revenue earned from the Consumer App business is primarily variable and charged as a percentage of the transaction value.

In reviewing the operational performance of the Group and allocating resources, the chief operating decision maker of the Group ("CODM"), who is the Group's Chief Executive Officer ("CEO"), reviews the financial performance and forecasts, performance of key product lines, new product buildout/performance review, and other reviews such as employee performance, functional reviews and ad-hoc-reviews. The Group has a defined organisation structure where the Group's CEO is placed at top of the hierarchy of the organisation and is the only member of the management team with the authority to make or approve significant strategic and key operating decisions for the Group and evaluates the performance of the business (subject to oversight by the Parent Company's Board of Directors). The Group's operating segments, as described above, are strategic business units that offer different products and services. For each of the operating segments, the CODM reviews performance based on segment's adjusted gross profit. The financial review does not include breakups or details of assets and liabilities of these operating segments.

2.23 Government grants

Government grants are recognised at their fair value when there is a reasonable assurance that the grant will be received and all attached conditions will be complied with. When the grant relates to an expense item, it is deferred and recognised as income in the Statement of profit or loss and other comprehensive income on a systematic basis over the periods necessary to match the related costs, which they are intended to compensate. When the grant relates to an asset or a non-monetary item, it is recognised as deferred income under liabilities and is recognised as income in the Statement of profit or loss and other comprehensive income on a straight line basis over the expected useful life of the related asset or a non-monetary item.

3. Standards Issued But Not Yet Effective (continued)

In May 2020, the Accounting Standards Council (ASC) in Singapore has issued Amendments to FRS 1: Classification of liabilities as Current or Non-Current providing a more general approach to the classification of liabilities under FRS 1 based on the contractual arrangement in place at the reporting date. The amendments aim to promote consistency in applying the requirements by helping companies to determine whether, in the statement of financial position, debt and other liabilities with an uncertain settlement date should be classified as current (due or potentially due to be settled within one year) or noncurrent. The amendments also clarified the classification requirements for debt a company might settle by converting it into equity.

In December 2022, the ASC further modified FRS 1, for the requirements introduced by Classification of Liabilities as Current or Non-current on how an entity classifies debt and other financial liabilities as current or non-current in particular circumstances. Only covenants with which an entity is required to comply on or before the reporting date affect the classification of a liability as current or non-current. In addition, an entity has to disclose information in the notes that enables users of financial statements to understand the risk that non-current liabilities with covenants could become repayable within twelve months. These amendments are effective for annual reporting periods beginning on or after 1 January 2024 and are to be applied retrospectively, with earlier application permitted. These amendments are applicable on the Group for annual reporting periods beginning on or after 1 April 2024. The Group is currently evaluating the impact of amendment to FRS 1 on the Group's financial statements.

In June 2021, the ASC has issued Amendments to FRS 1 and FRS Practice Statement 2: Disclosure of Accounting Policies. The amendments require companies to disclose their material accounting policy information rather than their significant accounting policies. The amendments clarify that accounting policy information may be material because of its nature, even if the related amounts are immaterial. The amendments also clarified that accounting policy information is material if users of an entity's financial statements would need it to understand other material information in the financial statements; and the amendments clarify that if an entity discloses immaterial accounting policy information, such information shall not obscure material accounting policy information. These amendments are effective for annual reporting periods beginning on or after 1 January 2023 and are to be applied retrospectively, with earlier application permitted. These amendments are applicable on Group for annual reporting periods beginning on or after 1 April 2023. The Group has evaluated the amendment and does not expect any significant impact of the amendment on the Group's financial statements.

Amendment to FRS 8 - Accounting Policies, Changes in Accounting Estimates and Errors

In June 2021, the ASC has issued Amendments to FRS 8: Definition of Accounting Estimates. The amendments clarify how companies should distinguish changes in accounting policies from changes in accounting estimates. That distinction is important because changes in accounting estimates are applied prospectively only to future transactions and other future events, but changes in accounting policies are generally also applied retrospectively to past transactions and other past events. These amendments are effective for annual reporting periods beginning on or after 1 January 2023 and are to be applied retrospectively, with earlier application permitted. These amendments are applicable on Group for annual reporting periods beginning on or after 1 April 2023. The Group has evaluated the amendment and there is no impact on the Group's financial statements.

Amendments to FRS 12 - Deferred Tax related to Assets and Liabilities arising from a Single Transaction

In September 2021, the ASC has issued Amendments to FRS 12: Deferred Tax related to Assets and Liabilities arising from a Single Transaction to provide a further exception from the initial recognition exemption. Under the amendment, an entity does not apply the initial recognition exemption for transactions that give rise to equal taxable and deductible temporary differences. The amendment clarifies that Companies are required to recognise deferred tax on transactions such as leases and decommissioning obligations. The effective date for adoption of this amendment is annual periods beginning on or after 1 January 2023, although early adoption is permitted. This amendment is applicable on the Group for annual reporting periods beginning on 1 April 2023. The Group has evaluated the amendment and there is no impact on the Group's financial statements.

Amendments to FRS 116 - Lease Liability in a Sale and Leaseback

In December 2022, the ASC has issued amendments to FRS 116 Leases and introduces changes on accounting of variable lease payments that arise in a sale-and-leaseback transaction. The amendments confirmed the inclusion of variable lease payments while initially calculating lease liability arising from a sale-and-leaseback transaction. Amendments also clarified the subsequent accounting of variable lease payments in a sale-and-leaseback transaction.

Under FRS 8 Accounting Policies, Changes in Accounting Estimates and Errors, a seller-lessee will need to apply the amendments retrospectively to sale-and-leaseback transactions entered into or after the date of initial application of FRS 116. Accordingly, seller-lessee will need to identify and re-examine sale-and-leaseback transactions entered into since implementation of FRS 116 beginning from 1 April 2019, and potentially restate those that included variable lease payments. The effective date for adoption of this amendment is annual periods beginning on or after 1 January 2024, with earlier application permitted. These amendments are applicable on the Group for annual reporting periods beginning on 1 April 2024. The Group has evaluated the amendment and there is no impact on the Group's financial statements.

4. Use of Judgements and Estimates

The preparation of the Group's consolidated financial statements requires management to make judgements, estimates and assumptions that affect the reported amounts of revenues, expenses, assets and liabilities, and the accompanying disclosures, and the disclosure of contingent liabilities, at the end of the reporting period. However, uncertainty about these assumptions and estimates could result in outcomes that require a material adjustment to the carrying amount of the assets or liabilities in future periods. Therefore, actual results could differ from these estimates.

The estimates and underlying assumptions are reviewed on an ongoing basis. Revisions to accounting estimates are recognised in the period in which the estimate is revised if the revision affects only that period, or in the period of the revision and future periods if the revision affects both current and future periods.

4. Use of Judgements and Estimates (continued)

Judgments

In the process of applying the Group's accounting policies, management has made the following judgements, which have the most significant effect on the amounts recognised in the consolidated financial statements:

(a) Revenue from contracts with customers

The determination of gross versus net recognition of revenue requires judgment that depends on whether the Group controls the good or service before it is transferred to the merchant or whether the Group is acting as an agent of a third party in accordance with FRS 115. The Group has generally concluded that it is the principal in its revenue arrangements, because it typically controls the services before transferring them to the client, except in case of revenue from aggregator services, processing and distribution revenue from SCLP, CLP and other brand gift cards, and revenue from distribution of deals and ecards and revenue from application programming interface ("API") and provision of payment solutions.

The Group applied judgements that significantly affect the determination of the amount and timing of revenue from contracts with customers, such as identifying performance obligations, wherein, the Group provides multiple services as part of the arrangement. The Group allocated the portion of the transaction price to services basis its relative standalone prices.

Before including any amount of variable consideration in the transaction price, the Group considers whether the amount of variable consideration is constrained. The Group determined that the estimates of variable consideration are not constrained based on its historical experience, business forecast and the current economic conditions. In addition, the uncertainty on the variable consideration will be resolved within a short time frame.

(b) Determining lease term

The Group determines the lease term as the non-cancellable term of the lease, together with any periods covered by an option to extend the lease if it is reasonably certain to be exercised, or any periods covered by an option to terminate the lease, if it is reasonably certain not to be exercised. The Group has some property lease arrangements with its vendors that include option to renew or terminate the contract by the Group entity by giving advance notice or option to terminate the contract by either party at any time by giving advance notice. The Group applied judgment in evaluating whether it is reasonably certain for the Group to renew or terminate the property lease contract before the lease term. It considered all the factors that create economic incentive for the Group to continue with lease or renew or terminate including alternatives available for the office lease, use of underlying property, location of the office, leasehold improvements made and accordingly determined lease term.

The lease term is reassessed if an option is actually exercised (or not exercised) or the Group becomes obliged to exercise (or not exercise) it. The assessment of reasonable certainty is only revised if a significant event or a significant change in circumstances occurs, which affects this assessment, and that is within the control of the lessee.

4. Use of Judgements and Estimates (continued)Judgments (continued)(c) Determining sale and leaseback transactions

The Group applies the requirements for determining when a performance obligation is satisfied in FRS 115 to determine whether the transfer of an asset is accounted for as a sale of that asset. If control of an underlying asset passes to the buyer-lessor, the transaction is accounted for as a sale of the asset and a lease. If not, both the seller-lessee and the buyer-lessor account for the transaction as a financing transaction. Judgement is required to determine whether the transferred asset to buyer-lessor constitutes sale (i.e. transfer of control) or not. Management considers the nature and commercial substance of the arrangement, option to extend a lease for substantially all of the remaining economic life of the underlying asset or option to repurchase the asset after end of the lease term at nominal value, if any and other parameters of determining control in making the assessment.

(d) Income taxes

The Group's current tax provision relates to management's assessment of the amount of tax payable on open tax positions where the liabilities remain to be agreed with the relevant Tax Authority. Uncertain tax items for which a provision is made, relate principally to the interpretation of tax legislation regarding arrangements entered into by the Group. Due to the uncertainty associated with such tax items, there is a possibility that, on conclusion of open tax matters at a future date, the final outcome may differ significantly.

Deferred tax assets are recognised for unused tax losses to the extent that it is probable that future taxable profit will be available against which the losses can be utilised. In assessing the probability, the Group considers whether the group entity has sufficient taxable temporary differences relating to the same taxation authority and the same taxable entity, which will result in taxable amounts against which the unused tax losses can be utilised before they expire. Significant management judgement is required to determine the amount of deferred tax assets that can be recognised, based upon the likely timing and the level of future taxable profits together with future tax planning strategies.

(e) Determination of Cash Generating Unit (CGU)

For the purpose of impairment testing, assets are grouped together into the smallest group of assets that generates cash inflows from continuing use that are largely independent of the cash inflows of other assets or CGUs. Judgement is involved in determining the CGU/grouping of CGUs for allocation of the goodwill and other assets.

Estimates and assumptions

The key assumptions concerning the future and other key sources of estimation uncertainty at the reporting date, that have a significant risk of causing a material adjustment to the carrying amounts of assets and liabilities within the next financial year, are described below. The Group based its assumptions and estimates on parameters available when the financial statements were prepared. Existing circumstances and assumptions about future developments, however, may change due to market changes or circumstances arising that are beyond the control of the Group. Such changes are reflected in the assumptions when they occur.

4. Use of Judgements and Estimates (continued)*Estimates and assumptions (continued)(a) Recognition of revenue from subscription-based services

The recognition of revenue from Subscription based services included preparation of estimates to determine the average customer relationship period, with the objective to recognise revenue on a straightline basis. The estimates are related to the average time that the merchant will process the transactions with the Group.

(b) Estimating breakage revenue

The Group is entitled to breakage revenue majorly arising from unutilised amount of deal vouchers, prepaid cards or merchant cashback upon expiry. The Group estimates such amounts using historical data and customer behaviour patterns. (Refer accounting policy regarding Revenue from contracts with customers, for further details.)

(c) Loss allowance of trade receivables and contract assets

In calculating expected credit loss, the Group uses judgment in making these assumptions and selecting the inputs for expected credit loss calculation based on the Group's past history of collections, existing market conditions as well as forward looking estimates at the end of each reporting period. Management also exercises judgment in specific cases and basis past experience estimates additional impairment loss provisions. These include trade receivables associated with litigations, balances for which customers have not transacted/paid for more than a specific period and other reasons. Refer to Note 35 for further details.

(d) Useful life of property, plant and equipment

The Group depreciates property, plant and equipment on a straight-line basis over the estimated useful lives of the assets. The charge in respect of periodic depreciation is derived based on an estimate of an asset's expected useful life and the expected residual value at the end of its life. The life is based on historical experience with similar assets as well as anticipation of future events, which may impact their life, such as changes in technology. The estimated useful life is reviewed at least annually.

(e) Useful life of intangibles

The Group amortises intangible assets on a straight-line basis over estimated useful lives of the assets. The useful life is estimated based on a number of factors including the effects of obsolescence, demand, competition and other economic factors such as the stability of the industry and known technological advances and the level of maintenance expenditures required to obtain the expected future cash flows from the assets. The estimated useful life is reviewed at least annually.

4. Use of Judgements and Estimates (continued)*Estimates and assumptions (continued)(f) Impairment of Goodwill

Goodwill is tested for impairment on an annual basis on 31 March and whenever there is an indication that the recoverable amount of a cash generating unit (CGUs) is less than its carrying amount. For the impairment test, goodwill is allocated to the CGU or groups of CGUs which benefit from the synergies of the acquisition and which represent the lowest level at which goodwill is monitored for internal management purposes. The recoverable amount of CGUs is determined based on higher of value-in-use and fair value less cost to sell. Key assumptions in the cash flow projections are prepared based on current economic conditions and comprises estimated perpetuity growth rates, weighted average cost of capital and average free cash flows to equity. Refer to Note 40 for further details.

(g) Defined benefits plan and other long-term benefits

The obligations arising from defined benefit plan and other long-term benefits are determined on the basis of actuarial assumptions. Key actuarial assumptions include discount rate, trends in salary escalation, actuarial rates and life expectancy. The discount rate is determined by reference to market yields at the end of the reporting period on government bonds or high-quality corporate bonds (as applicable). The period to maturity of the underlying bonds correspond to the probable maturity of the employee benefit obligations. Due to complexities involved in the valuation and its long-term nature, employee benefit obligation is sensitive to changes in these assumptions. All assumptions are reviewed at each reporting period. Refer to Note 23 for further details.

(h) Business combination

In accounting for business combinations, judgment is required in identifying whether an identifiable intangible asset is to be recorded separately from goodwill. Additionally, estimating the acquisition date fair value of the identifiable assets (including useful life estimates) and liabilities acquired, involves management judgment. These measurements are based on information available at the acquisition date and are based on expectations and assumptions that have been deemed reasonable by management. Changes in these judgments, estimates, and assumptions can materially affect the results of operations.

(i) Leases - Estimating the incremental borrowing rate

The Group cannot readily determine the interest rate implicit in the lease, therefore, it uses its incremental borrowing rate ("IBR") to measure lease liabilities. The IBR is the rate of interest that the Group would have to pay to borrow over a similar term, and with a similar security, the funds necessary to obtain an asset of a similar value to the right-of-use asset in a similar economic environment. The IBR therefore reflects what the Group 'would have to pay', which requires estimation when no observable rates are available (such as for subsidiaries that do not enter into financing transactions) or when they need to be adjusted to reflect the terms and conditions of the lease. The Group estimates the IBR using observable inputs (such as market interest rates) when available and is required to make certain entity-specific estimates (such as the entity's stand-alone credit rating).

4. Use of Judgements and Estimates (continued)*Estimates and assumptions (continued)(j) Share-based payments

Estimating fair value for share-based payment transactions requires determination of the most appropriate valuation model, which depends on the terms and conditions of the grant. This estimate also requires determination of the most appropriate inputs to the valuation model including the expected life of the share options, volatility and dividend yield and making assumptions about them. For the measurement of the fair value of equity-settled and cash-settled transactions with employees at the grant date and at each reporting date until settlement (in case of cash-settled transactions), the Group uses a Black-Scholes model and Monte Carlo simulation model respectively. The assumptions and models used for estimating fair value for share-based payment transactions are disclosed in Note 28.

(k) Recognition and measurement of provisions and contingencies

The amount recognised as a provision is the best estimate of the consideration required to settle the present obligation at reporting date, taking into account the risks and uncertainties surrounding the obligation. The Group is involved in various legal matters, the outcome of which may not be favorable to the Group. Management in consultation with the legal, and other advisers assess the likelihood that a pending claim will succeed. The Group has recognised liabilities based on whether additional amounts will be payable and has included contingent liabilities where economic outflows are considered possible but not probable.

(l) Government Grant

Government grants are recognised at their fair value when there is a reasonable assurance that the grant will be received and all attached conditions will be complied with. When the grant relates to an asset or a non-monetary item, it is recognised as deferred income under liabilities and is recognised as income in the Statement of profit or loss and other comprehensive income on a straight line basis over the expected useful life of the related asset or a non-monetary item.

(m) Restricted shares

Vesting of restricted shares is time based and performance based as per agreements. Unvested shares will be eligible to be repurchased by the parent Company. In determining the estimated vesting of the restricted shares, the Group has calculated performance achievement ratio basis the current achievement and expected achievement of performance as mentioned in the agreement.

This includes INR 282.72 million (31 March 2022 - INR 139.10 million) netted off from trade and other receivables due to considerations not yet received against billings done to the customers.

(e) Seasonality of revenue

The Group experiences fluctuations in its revenues due to seasonality as a result of consumer spending patterns. Historically, our revenues have been strongest during the third and fourth fiscal quarter of our fiscal year as a result of higher commerce trends during the festive season in India, particularly around the Diwali season, around which merchants, brands, banks tend to offer more promotions and consumer demand increases, which generally results in higher transaction volumes and associated revenue for us. These seasonality trends are difficult to discern in our historical results because our revenues have grown substantially since inception.

The amount of undistributed earnings of subsidiaries has significantly decreased as on 31 March 2023 as compared to 31 March 2022 primarily due to one of its step down subsidiary merged with one of its subsidiary in the current year (refer note 41).

21. Borrowings (continued)21.2 Cash credit and overdraft

Cash Credits/Bank Overdrafts amounting to INR 703.03 million (31 March 2022 - INR 763.54 million) are repayable on demand. The interest rates on the aforesaid three overdraft facilities are linked to interest rate of the contracted term deposits, including agreed spread over and above such rates, on which lien has been marked in favour of the related banks. Such borrowings are secured by:

- (i) Term deposits (amounts to the extent specified in sanctioned agreements), inventories, trade and other receivables and receivables from cashback schemes (exclusive/pari passu of the participating banks) of the respective group entities which have availed these limits (refer note 37).
- (ii) 100% cash margin in form of term deposits lien marked in favour of the related bank for overdraft facilities.

21.3 Deferred payment liabilities

Under the arrangements, the related assets have been sold to the financial institution at the carrying value in the books of the group. Further, the related assets have been leased back to the group at a monthly lease payment for a tenor ranging from 36 months to 48 months. Since, the sale of such assets do not meet the criterion of sale under FRS 115, the assets have not been derecognised in accordance with guidance under FRS 16. The amounts received by the group have been, consequently, presented as loans from financial institution. The interest rates on these arrangements are fixed ranging from 9.25% p.a. to 11.08% p.a.

(iv) The key actuarial assumptions used in determining defined benefit obligations for the Group are shown below:

	Group
	2023	2022
(a) Discount rate ¹	3.47% to 7.58%	4.55% to 7.58%
(b) Salary increment rate ²	5% to 10%	6% to 11%
(c) Attrition rate
Age years
21-30	5% to 30%	5% to 50%
31-40	4% to 30%	4% to 50%
41-50	2.50% to 30%	2.50% to 50%
51-58	1% to 30%	1% to 50%

(1) The discount rate is based on the prevailing market yields of government securities as at the balance sheet date for the estimated term of the obligations.

(2) The estimate of future salary increases considered takes into account the inflation, seniority, promotion and other relevant factors.

(3) Demographic assumptions at valuation date:

(a) Retirement age: 55-65 years;

(b) Mortality: Published rates under the Indian Assured Lives Mortality (2012-14) Ult table, TMI IV 2019 and UK lives for a subsidiary in UAE.;

(c) Disability: Leaving service due to disability is included in the provision made for all causes of leaving service (point 2(iv)(c) above).

Group	2023		2022
	Change in assumption	Effect on defined benefit obligation	Change in assumption	Effect on defined benefit obligation In INR million
Discount rate	+0.5%	(11.46)	+0.5%	(15.11)
	-0.5%	11.84	-0.5%	19.02
Salary growth	+0.5%	12.84	+0.5%	17.97
	-0.5%	(12.58)	-0.5%	(14.42)

Gratuity is a lump sum plan and the cost of providing these benefits is typically less sensitive to small changes in demographic assumptions. The key actuarial assumptions to which the benefit obligation results are particularly sensitive to are discount rate and future salary escalation rate. The above table summarises the change in defined benefit obligation compared with the reported defined benefit obligation at the end of the reporting period arising on account of an increase or decrease in the reported assumption by 50 basis points.

There was no change in the methods and assumptions used in preparing the sensitivity analysis for the periods presented.

- (vi) There is no compulsion on the part of the Group to prefund the liability of the plan. The Group's philosophy is not to externally fund these liabilities but instead create an accounting provision in its books of account and pay the gratuity to its employees directly from its own resources as and when the employee leaves the Group. The expected contribution payable to the plan next year is therefore Nil.
- (vii) The weighted average duration of the defined benefit obligation as on 31 March 2023 is 3.00 to 21.56 years (31 March 2022 - 3.13 to 22.39) years.
- (viii) The expected maturity analysis of defined benefit obligation (undiscounted) is as follows:

	2023	2022
(In INR million)
Less than a year	71.87	39.14
Between 1-6 years	244.42	168.09
6 year and above	585.25	1,183.66

23. Employee Benefit Obligations (continued)2. Defined benefit plans (continued)*(ix) Risk exposure

Through its defined benefit plans, the Group is exposed to a number of risks, the most significant of which are detailed below:

Interest rate risk	The defined benefit obligation calculated uses a discount rate based on government bonds. If bond yields fall, the defined benefit obligation will tend to increase.
Salary inflation risk	Higher than expected increases in salary will increase the defined benefit obligation.
Demographic risk	This is the risk of variability of results due to unsystematic nature of decrements that include mortality, withdrawal, disability and retirement. The effect of these decrements on the defined benefit obligation depends upon the combination of salary increase, discount rate and vesting criteria.

Nature and purpose of other reserves(a) Employee share option reserve

Employee share option reserve represents the equity-settled share options granted to employees. The reserve is made up of the cumulative value of services received from employees recorded over the vesting period commencing from the grant date of equity-settled share options and is reduced by the expiry or exercise of the share options.

(b) Merger reserve

In the financial year ended 31 March 2015, the Group acquired Pine Labs Private Limited. The acquisition was accounted for using pooling of interest method, and the difference between the consideration paid/transferred and the equity 'acquired' was accounted within equity as merger reserve, separate from other reserves. The reserve is restricted in nature and shall be derecognised in the event of loss of control over subsidiary company.

(c) Foreign currency translation reserve

The foreign currency translation reserve relates to exchange gains and losses arising from the translation of the functional currency of foreign operations to the presentation currency of the Company (refer accounting policy on functional currency and presentation currency).

27. Operating Segments

In reviewing the operational performance of the Group and allocating resources, the chief operating decision maker of the Group ("CODM"), who is the Group's Chief Executive Officer ("CEO"), reviews the financial performance and forecasts, performance of key product lines, new product buildout/performance reviews, and other reviews such as employee performance, functional reviews and ad-hoc-reviews. The Group has a defined organisation structure where the Group's CEO is placed at top of the hierarchy of the organisation and is the only member of the management team with the authority to make or approve significant strategic and key operating decisions for the Group and evaluates the performance of the business (subject to oversight by the Parent Company's Board of Directors). The Group's operating segments, as described below, are strategic business units that offer different products and services. For each of the operating segments, the CODM reviews performance based on Adjusted Gross Profit. The financial review does not include breakups or details of assets and liabilities of these operating segments. The Group's reportable segments under FRS 108, as reflected in internal management reports, are therefore as follows:

Segment A - Digital Payments

Segment C - Consumer App

Digital payments

Under this segment, the Group provides technology platforms (under the brand name of "Pinelabs", "Qfix", "Mosanbee", "Benow" and "Setu") (collectively referred as "Digital payments platforms") that are made available to merchants to enable acceptance of instore or online digital payments. These technology platforms and infrastructure allow merchants to accept debit cards, credit cards, prepaid instruments wallets, QR codes, Unified Payment Interface (UPI), loyalty points, pay later, online fee collection, etc. and provide application programming interface ("API") modules to customers for building financial products that facilitate bill payments, credit and savings to enable purchases made by consumers. The merchants on digital payments platforms span across sectors and cities primarily in India and Malaysia. The Group monetises the platforms by charging subscription-based or transaction-based fees from merchants, acquiring and issuing banks, Non Banking Financial Companies (NBFC's) and consumer brand partners. In addition the Group also generates revenue from selling of POS (Digital checkout points) devices and providing services with respect to sale of such devices to its customers and from other sources, including digitisation of fuel stations, integration fees, merchant lending, sales of paper rolls, loyalty and analytics services and fees from other partnerships.

Issuing

Under this segment, the Group primarily provides a technology platform to issue, process and distribute prepaid cards. For issuing and processing solutions, the Group monetises primarily by charging a processing fee from merchants who are utilising the technology platform and in the case of distribution, revenue is earned based on the commission earned that the Group retains by distributing prepaid cards. Additionally, the Group earns interest income on amounts loaded on the prepaid cards that are deposited in a bank escrow account and that have not yet been utilised; breakage income which is the unutilised amount remaining after expiry as per applicable regulatory guidelines; and program initiation and integration fee of merchant's platform with the Group's technology platform.

Consumer App

Under Consumer app segment, the Group provides deal vouchers and ecards to end customers and a smart payment application for consumers to pay and save under brand name 'Fave'. Fave primarily operates in Malaysia, Singapore and Indonesia. The Group has started Fave operations in India in current period. Fave platform offers consumers savings through merchant loyalty cashback and discounts when using Fave's application for making payments for purchase of goods and services from a merchant. The Group monetises the Fave platform by charging a commission fee for all payments made using Fave application and from sale of pre-purchased vouchers of different brands, and fixed fees for advertising on consumer app or website. Revenue earned from the Consumer App business is primarily variable and charged as a percentage of the transaction value.
